Ailing Brezhnev Reported to Have Stepped Down

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Soviet Communist party General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev has "taken leave of his responsibilities" because of illness, the Press Trust of India has reported from Moscow.

In a dispatch from its Moscow correspondent, who cited informed sources, the agency said a combination of overwork in recent years, age and illness and the recent death of his mother had forced Brezhnev to step down.

The agency dispatch, dated Friday, also said Brezhnev's policy of East-West detente had received a serious blow with last week's decision by Moscow not to implement the Soviet-American trade agreement.

But the Soviet sources emphatically repudiate this, the agency said.

"They (the sources) recall the Soviet Union had not acted in haste," the agency said.

"Its rejection of equal trade being made conditional on emigration of Soviet Jews had been conveyed unequivocally to the U.S. authorities in October last, a month before the Vladivostok summit."

PTI said not much is known about the nature or gravity of Brezhnev's illness.

"Evidently he is resting," it said, "and is undergoing treatment not far from Moscow and is available for advice to his colleagues who now carry on collectively."

PTI said its sources "also summarily dismiss talk of power struggle as the cause or the likely consequence of Mr. Brezhnev's withdrawal since the policies associated with the name of Mr. Brezhnev have acknowledgedly carried and carry the sanctions of the central committee of the Communist bureau and the Politburo."

Meanwhile, in Moscow, the government newspaper Izvestia Saturday reaffirmed Soviet Union's commitment to the policy of detente with the United States but said this country would not be dictated to by "political simpletons."

In a long article explaining the Soviet decision to revoke its trade agreement with the United States, Izvestia said: "In turning down the offensive conditions posed by (U.S.) Congress, the Soviet government made the only reasonable, the uniquely correct step."

"This is not because the Kremlin has reevaluated the significance of detente, but because detente cannot be based on political extortion."

Izvestia said detente "demands mutual respect and negotiation on equal terms. It demands that words should not be divorced from deeds. The failure of the (Sen. Henry M.) Jackson adventure should teach a lesson to those political simpletons who think the Soviet Union can be talked to in the language of blackmail."

The Soviet Union informed the United States Jan. 10 that it would not put a 1972 trade agreement into effect because of discriminatory clauses in the recent U.S. trade act. One clause, written in at the instigation of Jackson and other legislators, binds the Soviet Union to increase emigration of disaffected minorities in exchange for trade benefits.

Izvestia said the decisions of Congress "could turn back the hands of the clock. They again pose a question about the limits of trust, about that minimum of mutual understanding without which there can be no forward progress.

"At the same time, they confirm that the struggle for detente is a struggle against the enemies of detente, against those whose reasoning lags behind the realities of political and economic life."

"Thus on the economic plane, the decision of the American Congress means the preservation of a discriminatory trade and economic status for the Soviet Union," Izvestia said.

"On the political plane, it means an attempt at impermissible interference in the internal affairs of our country."

Izvestia said the Soviet Union "is interested as before in the positive development of Soviet-American relations in all spheres."

"But while actions of only one side will suffice to worsen these relations, the efforts of both sides are required to improve them."

Many Westerners here tend to conclude that Brezhnev and the Politburo simply decided the U.S. Congress was asking the Soviet Union to turn over the emigration question — an internal policy — to outsiders and this was too much to ask.

It is almost certain the Soviets at one time were prepared to bend on emigration.

Offices Ransacked, Flag Ripped Down

U.S. Embassy Hit in Nicosia

NICOSIA (UPI) —

Thousands of stone-throwing Greek Cypriots stormed the U.S. Embassy Saturday, ransacking offices, smashing windows, and setting a wing of the building afire before U.S. Marine guards drove them off with tear gas.

The demonstrators — estimated at more than 3,000 — ripped down the American flag during their rampage and replaced it with the Greek flag.

They also attacked British diplomatic offices in protest against Britain's decision to allow Turkish Cypriot refugees to leave the island. They set fire to numerous American and British-owned cars.

A hostile crowd of demonstrators also gathered outside the British embassy in Athens, where they smashed windows, burned a diplomat's car and scuffled briefly with police.

(The State Department in Washington sent a stiff note to the Cyprus government expressing grave concern.

"We have made it clear that we expect the Cypriot government to provide full protection for the embassy and all American personnel in Cyprus," a spokesman said.

(Officials said the fires were brought under control after burning through two floors in the embassy, there were no American casualties and the embassy was still in operation. There was no immediate estimate of damage.)

The airlift of Turkish Cypriots from the British base at Episkopi began Saturday morning. Three plane loads were flown to Adana in southern Turkey, where a large crowd and a brass band met them at the airport.

The refugees wept and knelt to kiss the soil when they emerged from the Turkish Airlines jet.

In Nicosia, the students first marched on the British High Commission and consular offices. They threw books, documents and furniture out the windows and set them on fire.

From there they went to the U.S. embassy, broke through the barbed wire perimeter fence guarded by troops and police, threw stones and bricks at the building and set fire to two embassy automobiles.

They broke down a gate leading to the embassy itself and rushed into the building. National guard troops, police and the Marines threw tear gas canisters into the crowd and broke it up.

A smaller number of demonstrators returned later but they, too, were dispersed.

AEC Research at Lloyd Site

LLOYD The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission's (AEC) Health and Safety Laboratory will be performing environmental research at the meteorological testing station of the State Atomic and Space Development Authority (ASDA) in Lloyd, according to an announcement made today by the two agencies.

According to the announcement of the agreement, the AEC will be using the site for "a period of at least one year."

James G. Cline, ASDA chairman, said he "welcomed" the initiation of the AEC scientific research program in New York State.

The tower is located on land purchased for it by ASDA, in the southern part of the study area, about a mile north of Route 299.

The AEC studies will have nothing to do with the studies of the site's suitability for an atomic power plant, according to Cline. That is the question being studied by ASDA.

The AEC research program consists of measurements and analysis of ambient — or background — radiation levels.

Dr. John Harley, director of the AEC's Health and Safety Laboratory, said "The laboratory's environmental research program will be significantly enhanced by the ability to explore the interrelationship of meteorological conditions and variations in radiation background levels."

The ASDA meteorological station is a 305-foot steel tower, er, supporting a variety of sensing instruments which are linked, along with ground-level data collecting instruments, to recording equipment, including a "mini-computer," located at the site.

According to Mitchell Wurmbrand, ASDA staff meteorologist, "The equipment automatically produces a continuous record of a wide variety of meteorological variables at various elevations on the tower."

'For Better or Worse' . . . An Unusual Wedding

By LYNN MULVANEY KINGSTON

It isn't easy for a bridegroom to slip a wedding band on his new wife's finger when he is handcuffed to the best man.

And, it's doubly difficult for a 19-year-old, seven-month pregnant bride awaiting sentence for grand larceny to manage a smile even if it is from under a beautiful, pink-veiled bridal hat.

But, the bridegroom, Ralph Countryman, an AWOL

Marine now facing up to 25 years in state prison for armed robbery and his bride, Terri Krom, both of Ellenville, were married "for better or for worse" Friday in Ulster County Court House by County Judge Raymond J. Mino.

The new Mrs. Countryman's lawyer, Frank Martocci, called the ceremony "an act of compassion" on the part of the judge and the Ulster County Sheriff's Department in view of the fact that such ceremonies between admitted jailed felons are usually held in the jail. Even the best man, Robert Young of Indiana, also is awaiting sentencing in connection with the same crime committed by the Countryman's last June in Accord when they stole a car at gunpoint from an Accord man. The bride is out on bail.

Unlike most pre-planned smooth running marriage ceremonies, this one was fraught with frustration from beginning to end.

First there was the argument over the handcuffs with the judge suggesting they could be removed for the ceremony while the sheriff deputy maintained they could not. The judge's ruling prevailed.

The distraught mothers of the bridal couple, fighting tears at times, shedding them at others, murmured angry words when the young couple was prevented from smoking pre-ceremony cigarettes in the court room.

Other wedding guests, all relatives, also expressed deep disappointment that the groom was not allowed to join his bride at a reception Martocci planned for them in a restaurant across the street. Martocci, in turn later screamed his anger at the deputy outside in the hall insisting that the young couple was not of a mind to try an escape. His pleas were to no avail.

The wedding itself was simple and in good taste with the nervous bridegroom forgetting he was to stand up for the marriage, and stumbling over a few words in the ceremony but with both bride and groom answering their vows low and clear. When it was all over, the bride leaned back on a table in relief and her new husband gave her a brief kiss. Her sister, Sherry, was her attendant.

Compassionate court attendants allowed the couple a few brief minutes of semi-privacy in the courtroom while the deputy stood guard at the door.

Gowned in a maroon and pink dress and wearing a choker at her neckline, the bride spoke quietly and tearfully of her future saying she "can't make plans yet." She and the men are due to be sentenced very soon. Her baby is due in March, she murmured, but added that she "just isn't sure about anything else anymore." It is the first time she has been in "big trouble" with the law, she said.

Her husband, who was permitted to wear civilian clothes and donned a print shirt for the occasion, remained somber and unsmiling and perhaps resigned to the fact that he is going to be sentenced to state prison because it is mandated under the law in view of the fact that he pleaded guilty to robbery in the first degree.

The bride, who pleaded to grand larceny, a lesser count could get probation, or a sentence in the Ulster County Jail. She is eligible for a sentence of from one to seven years but it is expected that in view of her impending motherhood that once again some compassion will be shown.

In addition to the couple's relatives and court attendants, others attending the ceremony included Martocci, Countryman's lawyer, Allen Zwiebel and Young's attorney, Edward T. Feeney.

New Paltz Town Board Approves Protection Contracts

The New Paltz Town Board has approved a three-year contract with the village's fire department.

The contract calls for the village to furnish fire service for $30,000 the first year, $32,000 the second, and $35,000 the third. The village will lower the bill by $500 per month per vehicle for two vehicles on order but not delivered yet. Payments return to normal when the new aerial ladder truck and pumper are received and put into operation, hopefully some time this summer.

Town board members said that a joint town-village committee of board members and attorneys is studying the possibility of creating a township fire district that would include the village.

Councilman Dominic Sfrigola, noting that the committee's reporting deadline is Oct. 1, said that would give the two municipalities plenty of time to act before the new three-year contract expires Dec. 31, 1977.

The board also signed a contract (already signed by the village) combining the town and village police forces into one department. The joint Police Commission is searching for a chief and hopes to have the consolidated department in operation by April 1.

Sfrigola, a nine year board member, resigned effective Jan. 31. In his letter to the board, he cited his increasing business commitments and a desire to spend more time with his family, saying that demands on councilmen had more than doubled during his time on the board. The board will appoint a replacement to serve until a new councilman is elected in November.

The Earth Committee of New Paltz High School described a study it had made in an area near the New Paltz Thruway exit. They said drainage from a salt storage shed for Thruway crews is killing vegetation and polluting wells and ponds in the area. The committee recommended doing away with salt-ing roads in winter and called for the use of sand, which does not pollute surface waters. The board approved its request for a letter to Thruway authorities and the State Board of Health describing the situation and asking for corrective measures.

In other action, the board:

- Approved a $4,955 bid by Ulster Roofing and Siding to repair the roof of the American Legion building.
- Approved a $5,138 bid by Ralph Herman of Marlboro for a new spreader for the highway department.
- Changed town board meetings to the fourth Wednesday of the month to avoid a conflict with school board meetings on the third Wednesday.
- Named Anthony Lanzarone dog warden at $2,000 a year.
- Named 33 persons to the Bicentennial Commission, which will meet at 10 a.m. on Feb. 1 at Deyo Hall to plan a celebration.
- Approved street lights for Route 32 South and Schreiber's Lane and Route 32 North and Hummel Road.

- Set a public hearing for 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 5, to consider the petition of New Paltz Growers to join the sewer district.
- Turn over to the town engineers for study a petition from Fulton Road Town Houses to create new water and sewer districts.

- Accepted the resignation of Schuyler Millham, a member of the planning board since 1962, and named Walter Luccia to fill his unexpired term.

Dewitt Lake Condominium Plans

ROSENDALE
A developer has presented plans for a 100-unit condominium complex on DeWitt Lake Land to the Rosendale Town Board.

Rodney Ernst and Associates, represented by consulting engineer Harry Edinger, appeared at a public hearing last week in the town hall to discuss plans for the project. The developer seeks a zoning variance that would permit him to build multiple housing units on land around the lake now zoned for single family residential use.

Edinger displayed a scale model of the proposed development and figures showing the differences in taxes and other costs between single-family and multiple residence use for the 38-acre site.

Roads in the project would be installed by the developer and maintained by a homeowners' association at no cost to the town for snowplowing, repairs and other work.

The developer presented two alternatives for a water supply, one involving deep wells in search of at least 30 gallons per minute, the other involving treatment of water drawn directly from the lake.

Lake water is Class A and suitable for such treatment, according to Supervisor Richard Glazer.

Sewage from the development would be treated by Bio-Disc, a method of agitating effluent by large revolving paddles to accelerate bacteriological decay.

Glazer expressed satisfaction with the developer's presentation and said that plans call for possible opening of one side of the lake, across from the development, for use as a town recreation center. The lakes shore is entirely under private ownership now and is not available to the public, he said.

Christine Ruther in Unusual 4-H Project

KHS Senior Brings New Freedom, Mobility to a Blind Man

A blind Brooklyn man is now enjoying a new freedom and mobility thanks to a Kingston High School senior.

Miss Christine Ruther, who is in her ninth year of Ulster County 4-H membership, took on an unusual 4-H project — a 12-month program of raising Otis, a male golden retriever puppy, to become a trained guide dog.

The 12-month project reached its pinnacle recently when Otis and his new master, Gary Polowitz of Brooklyn, graduated from the training school of Guiding Eyes for the Blind at Yorktown Heights.

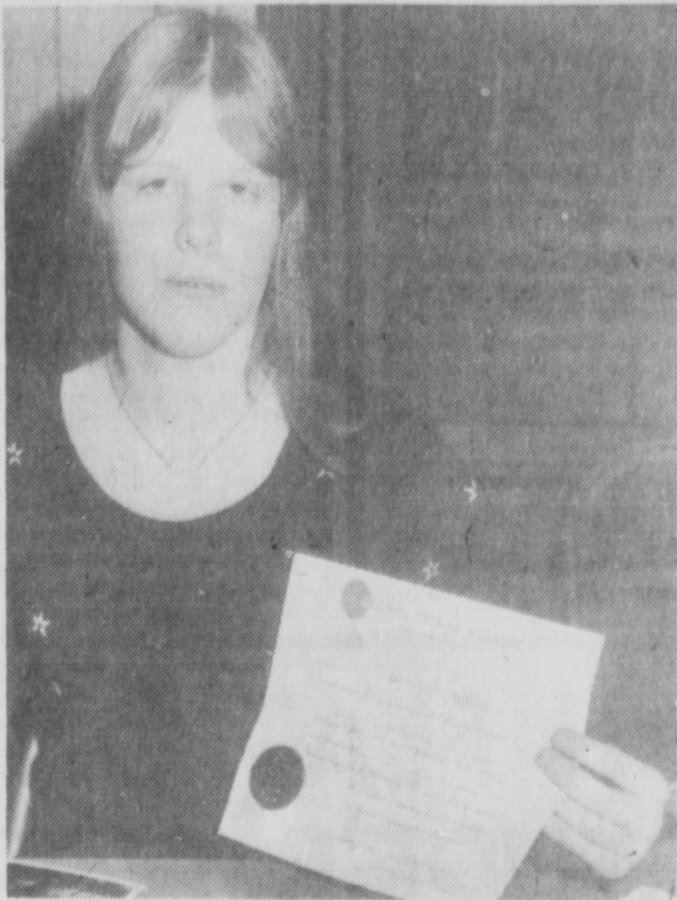

Miss Ruther, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ruther of 51 Melissa Road, RD 2, Kingston, looks back on her 12-month program and says it was a very rewarding experience and one that she would recommend to everyone.

In the course of the program at Yorktown Heights, Otis and Polowitz learned to work together as a smoothly functioning unit and have now returned to a life of new activities and experience — thanks to the 17-year-old Kingston High School senior.

Christine Ruther, who plans to attend Ulster County Community College in September and then go into the nursing field tells it this way about her project:

My brother raised a puppy for the Guiding Eye Association in 1972. The whole family had so much fun doing it and we missed the dog so much after the program's completion that I decided to raise one also. I waited until we found out that "Rhip" had graduated and with a blind person.

"I got Otis, a golden retriever, in September of 1973, when he was just under three months old. I really love dogs so it was great fun to have Otis. He slept at the foot of my bed. He was a good dog and learned fast. When he was about six months old, I started formal training, following the directions in the training pamphlet. I walked him every day and taught him to sit and stay.

"In June of 1974 he was taken back to the Guiding Eye Center where he had advanced training. On Dec. 7, 1974, our family was invited to the center for Otis' graduation. We met Gary Polowitz, the blind man, who is now Otis' master. It was a great pleasure to see Otis again and he remembered us. Otis has become a good guiding eye dog and I am very proud of him."

Chris Ruther, who is a member of the Sawkill Meadow Larks 4-H Club, has been involved in other club projects such as foods, sewing, junior leadership and gardening.

She has worked at the Ulster County Fair as well as the New York State Fair in Syracuse, went to Washington, D.C. in 1973 on a citizenship trip and received a home economics trip to New York City last year. The KHS senior is listed in Who's Who Among High School Students, 1974.

Guiding Eyes for the Blind, a non-profit organization supported by donations from the public, is dedicated to providing guide dogs to blind persons who request them. The dogs, bred for their intelligence and good temperament, are products of the organization's breeding program.

For the first year of their lives, the puppies are raised in a foster home, usually that of a 4-H Club member. Returning to the school, they begin an extensive training program that molds them into fine working dogs whose life purpose will be to guide their master in his travels and work, giving the person a freedom of mobility and an independence that would not otherwise have been possible.

Anyone interested in obtaining additional information about participation in Guiding Eyes for the Blind's Puppy Program is urged to contact the Ulster County 4-H Agent, F. Thomas Atkins.

Veterans' Plight Reflect Present Hard Times

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Today's economic hard times are affecting not only the Vietnam veteran in search of a job and the World War I veteran, who in many instances is living on a fixed income, but all the other service veterans of World War 2, the Korean Conflict and the period between Korea and Vietnam. And, because they are concerned with their financial plight, the 21,256 veterans in Ulster County are turning in increased numbers to the Veterans Administration Office here to find out if they are missing out on any allowances or exemptions to which they might be entitled.

The Ulster County Veterans Service Agency Director John B. Tyler told the Freeman that he receives 12,000 to 16,000 contacts a year from veterans and their families in the county.

"Everything things get tough economically, we get busier," he explained, saying that today's veteran is doing everything he can to come by an extra dollar legitimately. He recalled how many a "proud" World War 2 veteran refused for years to take a property tax exemption to which he was entitled but who now has reconsidered and applied for such an exemption.

Veteran counseling concerning pensions, allotments, disability benefits, GI loans, insurance, hospitalization and education is available at the Ulster County Office, 300 Flatbush Avenue, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. according to Donald G. Moore, state veteran counselor.

All young men who attain the age of 18 are also required to register at the same office within the 60-day period beginning 30 days before he reaches his 18th birthday.

The VA Office also has a branch in Ellenville at 102 Canal Street with George Green, deputy director in charge.

Tyler also conducts office hours in Highland at the Town Clerk's Office on the first and third Thursdays of each month and in Saugerties at the Town Clerk's Office on the second and fourth Thursdays.

Both Tyler and Moore applaud the opportunities open to many veterans. For instance, one man, recently laid off from a local manufacturing plant after seven years of employment, decided that perhaps it would be best if he learned another trade and therefore applied for education funds in order "to go to school to learn something else."

Other veterans are working daytime and going to school at night for which they receive veteran's benefits for instance of $135 a month for six semester hours. Congress recently increased allowances for education benefits for veterans of the Vietnam War from $220 to $270 a month.

Sixty-five year olds are also eligible for certain pension payments if their yearly income does not exceed between $3,500 and $4,200 a year depending upon his dependents.

Vietnam veterans are eligible for dental treatment as an out-patient, within one year of their separation from service, and they are being encouraged to take advantage of additional training courses with the Board of Cooperative Educational Services or at evening classes at high school and college.

Even "housebound" veterans are eligible for an extra $55 a month on a doctor's recommendation and many World War I veterans are able to take advantage of numerous hospital benefits.

Arrangements for all the services may be made at the Ulster County VA Office.

Tyler, who has been associated with the office for 29 years is a member of numerous veteran organizations and Moore has been associated with the state for more than 25 years, was a World War veteran and is active in the American Legion.

New Federalism...Time on City's Side

Community Development—The question here isn't so much what the public wants done with that $5.4 million in Community Development Funds over the next five years ($1.4 million this year) but what the city government will recommend.

This is not to say that the 15 persons who presented suggestions at Thursday night's public hearing or that the "heartwarming turnout" of 150 people (in the words of Bill Mullane) as wasted time.

The point is, there simply isn't enough time to hammer out an idea like "we should do something about Broadway West" into the kind of concrete proposal the federal government would like to have in its hands by around Feb. 5.

There is already a good deal of suspicion that Thursday's public hearing was something of a sham that it was held merely to comply with the law that a public hearing has to be held—something like the mayor's public hearings on his budget—and that in fact the city already has a list of its own priorities for spending $1.4 million this year.

We would certainly hope that's the case because if the administration doesn't have something to offer the feds within the next few weeks our $1.4 million could very easily be re-allocated to some other city.

There's no question that the whole process has been telescoped. And we would expect that the administration will blame the feds for not allowing enough time to adequately inform the public and prepare for what will be a monumental undertaking not unlike the original impact of urban renewal a dozen years ago.

It's true enough that the program wasn't signed into law until last August but it's also true that the city had fairly definitive information available on it as early as mid-November.

The mayor himself attended a workshop on the program on Dec. 9 but failed to volunteer any information on it until specifically asked. Apparently a $5.4 million program just slipped his mind.

The Advisory Council, which the administration knew was needed at least two months ago was empaneled only a week ago last Friday.

So, the prognosis for Year One of the Community Development Program in Kingston seems to be for an "Administration Program" with the public having some meaningful input the second time around.

SIDE BARS—George Hutton, the architect, raised an interesting point when he asked whether the city would be presenting its priorities at public hearing (s?) prior to final approval by the Common Council, expected Feb. 4.

Alderman Clifford Sinsabaugh, who had this whole thing thrust upon him less than three weeks ago, and who for the most part did a commendable job at the public hearing, responded that of course the city would be going public with its proposals and that its representatives would indeed be appearing before the Community Development Advisory Council Sinsabaugh chairs.

A careful reading of the cleverly ambiguous law that governs the program indicates that such an event could prove to be something of a farce.

The law, you see, is rather clear in stating that the city's elected officials have the final responsibility and that they cannot abrogate it to the advisory council.

If one were to follow the reasoning behind Sinsabaugh's ruling—and one cannot fault Sinsabaugh's motive, to wit, get the city's plans out to the public for discussion prior to final approval—then the mayor, or maybe his planner, Bob Pritchard, would appear before the Advisory Council with a list of city priorities.

Let's say the Advisory Council rejects some or all of them. It then goes to the Common Council for approval. After that? Why, the mayor, of course.

SPEAKING OF THE MAYOR—Of course, everyone expects the mayor to go again this fall, and Alderman-at-Large Bob Gallo, too, despite some differences on "the team."

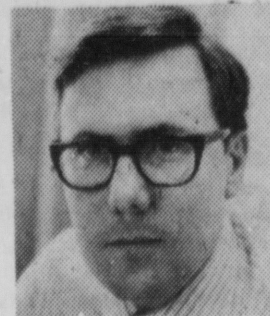

The question is what are the Republicans going to do. The Repubs haven't done anything for the last 40 years, losing every district in the city the past four elections.

The "game plan" this year, from what we can gather, is for the GOP to run some of its fallen "superstars" like Mel Mones, Clarence (Dubby) Raichle, John (Slim) Sangaline and the like for ALDERMAN!

Let's hold down those giggles. These guys are serious.

City Beat

By Hugh Reynolds
Freeman City Hall Reporter

They figure they can't get Koenig-Gallo this year but they do have a shot at the Common Council. And a Republican Common Council could give Koenig-Gallo fits.

Koenig should know. He was part of that Democratic majority back in the early 60's that hogtied Republican Mayor John Schwenk. It is said that city government just about came to a halt during that period.

As for the top of the GOP ticket this year, from what we hear, candidates aren't exactly beating down the door.

***
CITY BITS—Len Finch, who along with Eddie Ahl, formed the city building department duo known as "Mr. Heinz and Mr. Campbell," retired two weeks ago.

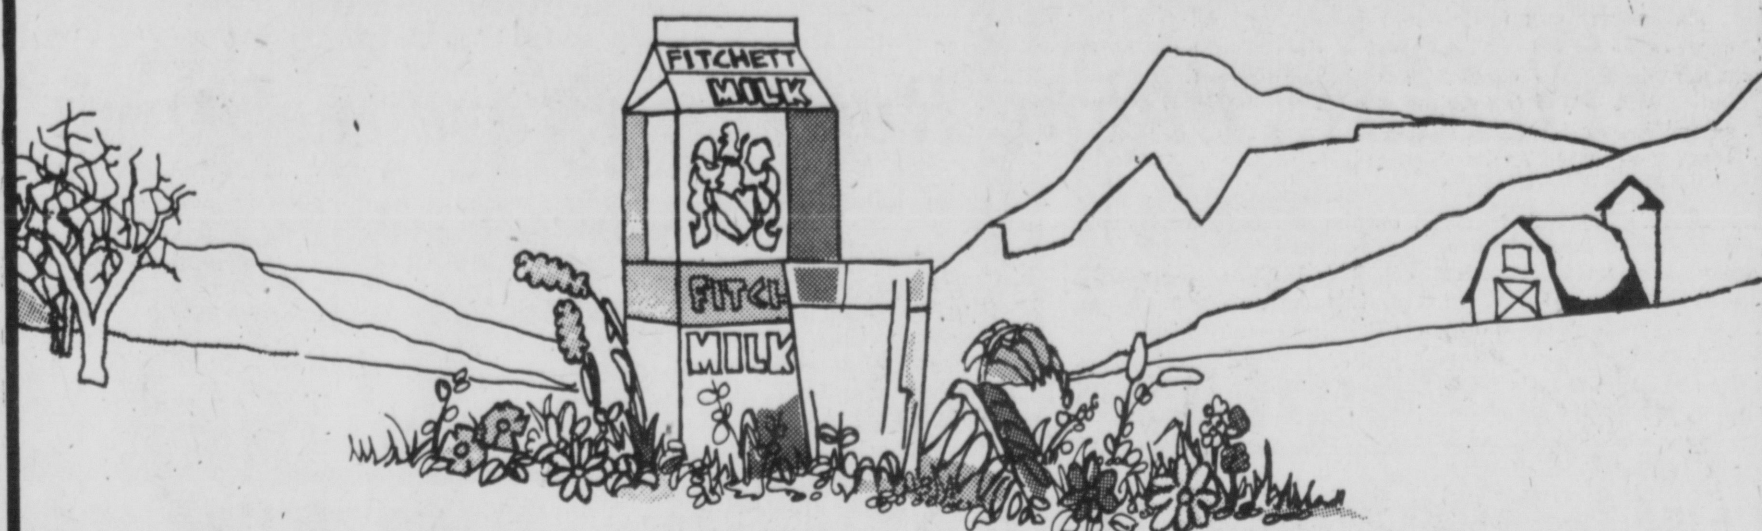

The reference to soup is in reference to the tomato gardens the two inspectors grew, separately of course, and which were the topic of more than a few lively arguments between the pair.

Len, who's reached his biblical three score ten, figures to be the tomato champ this year.

No word yet from the mayor on a replacement. One thing is sure. With unemployment nearing 10 per cent in Ulster, there will be no shortage of applicants.

Congress Must Act Swiftly

President Ford's State of the Union message to Congress was solidly on target. Having bluntly acknowledged that "the state of the union is not good," he devoted almost his entire address to setting forth a wide-ranging program for economic recovery. This is the essential business at hand, and this is what the President talked about.

Now it is Congress' turn to talk about it. The administration's blueprint will be revised, perhaps drastically in some areas, before the structure of legislative action emerges. For though it is the duty and privilege of the executive branch to propose remedies for national ills, Congress is jealous of its right to amend such proposals and determine how tax revenues are to be spent.

There is substantial agreement between Mr. Ford and the Democratic congressional leadership on the broad outlines of his plan for action. Both camps favor tax reductions, both stress the importance of vigorous measures to reduce oil consumption for economic and conservation reasons, both seek to stimulate power generation and other basic productive elements of the economy. The differences arise when it comes to determining how these things can best be accomplished and, in the case of the tax cut, who should benefit most by it.

There are numerous other points on which the administration, the President

There are numerous other points on which the administration and the Democratic majority in Congress differ. The Democrats place emphasis on public service jobs programs and wage and price stabilization, the President comes down hard on what he perceives as an overriding requirement that the rise in federal spending be held in check.

What we will witness in the weeks ahead is a tugging and hauling on these and other proposals. That is not a bad thing, but the discussion should be intensive rather than prolonged; the need for action is urgent, the more so since there has been so much delay in formulating a comprehensive program of response to economic decline. We are in a kind of war, with recession and inflation our twin adversaries. The nation must swiftly come to grips with these powerful enemies. The next move is up to Congress.

Mission Doubts Eased

It is something of a relief to learn that the Soviet Union's 17th Soyuz spacecraft made a successful linkup in orbit with the Salyut 4 research station. The docking, with two cosmonauts making the transfer from their little craft to the orbital station, tends to quiet misgivings as to the Soviets' readiness for the joint U.S.-Soviet mission next summer.

Those misgivings were aroused by a couple of abortive docking attempts in recent months. Last July it appeared that the Soviet space program had developed the requisite level of capability; at that time two crewmen entered Salyut 3 in orbit and remained aboard for 15 days. The next month, however, another docking attempt failed. And in December Soyuz 16 orbited for several days but made contact only with a simulated docking ring, not the real thing.

This aroused some doubt as to whether Soviet technology measured up to the demands of the American-Soviet venture. Those demands will be severe, since crewmen from the two countries are to utilize both American and Russian space hardware. That naturally increases the chances of something going wrong.

Though intensive training of crewmen and other personnel from both sides minimizes those chances, questions about Soviet technical reliability have persisted. Soyuz 17's successful linkup with Salyut 4 does much to resolve remaining doubts.

Mafia Busy Fleecing Wall Street

but they will wind up paying through the nose. For the massive losses will have to be made up in higher prices, bank rates, brokerage fees and insurance premiums. The leap in losses was detected by the computers of the Securities Validation Corporation, whose data banks were fed the secret figures from 42 brokerage houses, including Merrill Lynch, Bache & Co., and others. The losses reported by these 42 firms, according to the computer data, shot up from $75 million in 1973 to $218 million in 1974.

On the basis of the computer figures, it is estimated that the total losses of banks, transfer agents and other securities handlers, the grand total could reach a staggering $20 billion.

What is even more ominous is that the Mafia, run by a new generation of sophisticated gangsters, is believed to be behind the multibillion-dollar traffic in hot securities. "I don't think the banks want to know," he said. Because of their head-in-the-sand attitude, he added, the thefts and frauds go on unabated.

The federal government has a cumbersome file of missing and bogus securities, but duPont's computerized data made it easier to track the hot securities. Now that his computers have been shut down, he said, "the Mafia will have a field day." He is preparing a report on the astonishing stock losses, meanwhile, for the Senate Investigations sub-committee.

BLONDES AND BEARS: Some fascinating memos, which were never supposed to be read outside the National Park Service, describe the headaches of filming a TV series in Yosemite National Park.

In earlier columns, we told how the giant conglomerate, Music Corporation of America, had embarked on a program to turn Yosemite into a Disneyland-style entertainment attraction.

We also reported that MCA subsidiary, Universal Studios, had invested about $5 million to film a TV series at Yosemite to help promote the park.

Park officials hoped happily that the TV show would gain public acclaim for the Park Service. But the confidential memos from Yosemite warned that the series "will not convey anything remotely close to a reasonable portrayal of a ranger's life in a national park."

The official assigned by the Park Service as a technical adviser to the TV production, Bill Everhart, cited one proposed episode, which would have featured "a gorgeous blonde sunbather, nude (doing) her thing atop a Winnebago." Another episode had a bear, known as Cruncher, outwitting the managers. Or as the dismayed Everhart put it in a message to Washington: "The great Cruncher has bested the rangers once again."

Portraying rangers on national television as affable fellows who can't cope with nude blondes and marauding bears wasn't the sort of publicity that the Park Service had hoped for.

"The rangers come out of the first episode," wrote Everhart gloomily, "batting about .500." They were sufficiently intrepid, he felt, when it came to "rescuing climbers from sheer rock faces or from beneath the Merced River."

But, he complained, "on matters mental — projecting an adult understanding of people, girls in particular, or being able to figure out a bear — they bat a flat zero."

Everhart also criticized the TV writers for using the spectacular Yosemite scenery as a setting for "retelling the same old stuff."

"About the only saving feature," he commented, "is that it's all so implausible that people will hardly believe this is what happens in a park."

By William F. Buckley Jr.

As a Catholic, I have abandoned hope for the liturgy, which, in the typical American church, is as ugly and as maladroit as if it had been composed by Robert Ingersoll and H.L. Mencken for the purpose of driving people away. Incidentally, the modern liturgists are doing a remarkably good job, attendance at Catholic mass on Sunday having dropped sharply in the ten years since a few well-meaning cretins got hold of the power to vernacularize the mass, and the money to scour the earth in search of the most unmusical men and women to preside over the translation.

The next liturgical ceremony conducted primarily for my benefit, since I have no plans to be beatified or remarried, will be my funeral; and it is a source of great consolation to me that, at my funeral, I shall be quite dead, and will not need to listen to the accepted replacement for the noble old Latin liturgy. Meanwhile, I am practicing Yoga so that, at church on Sundays I can develop the power to tune out everything I hear, while attempting at the same time the general calisthenics, to commune with my Maker, and ask Him first to forgive me my own sins, and implore him, second, not to forgive the people who ruined the mass.

Now the poor Anglicans are coming in for it. I am not familiar with their service, but I am with their Book of Common Prayer. To be unfamiliar with it is as though one were unfamiliar with Hamlet, or the Iliad, or the Divine Comedy. It has, of course, theological significance for Episcopalians and their fellow travelers. But it has a cultural significance for the entire English-speaking world. It was brought together, for the most part, about 400 years ago, when for reasons no one has been able to explain the little island of England produced the greatest literature in history. G.K. Chesterton wrote about it, "It is the one positive possession, and attraction . . . the masterpiece of Protestantism; the one magnet and talisman for people even outside the Anglican Church, as are the great Gothic cathedrals for people outside the Catholic Church."

What are they doing to it? Well, there is one of those commissions. It is sort of re-translating it. As it now stands, for instance, there are the lines, "We have erred, and strayed from their ways like lost sheep. We have followed too much the devices and desires of our own hearts. We have offended against their holy laws. We have left undone those things which we ought to have done; and we have done those things which we ought not to have done."

Well, if the good Lord intends not to bring his Anglican flock into the test, he will not test it on this kind of stuff. As it is, Anglicanism is a little shaky, having experienced about a hundred years earlier than Roman Catholicism, some of the same kind of difficulties. I revere my Anglican friends, and highly respect their religion, but it is true that it lends itself to such a pasquinade as Auberon Waugh's who wrote recently "In England we have a curious institution called the Church of England . . . Its strength has always lain in the fact that on any moral or political issue it can produce such a wide divergence of opinion that nobody — from the Pope to Mao Tse-tung — can say with any confidence that he is not an Anglican. Its weaknesses are that nobody pays much attention to it and very few people attend its functions."

And it is true that in a pathetic attempt to attract attention, the Anglicans, and indeed many other Protestants, and many Catholics, absorb themselves in secular matters. "The first Anglicans," Chesterton once wrote, "asked for peace and happiness, truth and justice; but nothing can stop the latest Anglicans, and many others, from the horrid habit of asking for improvement in international relations." International relations having taken a noticeable turn for the worse in the generation since Chesterton made this observation, one can only hope the Anglicans will reject any further attempt to vitiate their line of communication with our Maker.

The Anarchists Might Have a Point

WASHINGTON — President Ford has been sniped at for the one quality we ought most to appreciate in him — his "lack of leadership." Politicians and commentators who are denouncing the Imperial Presidency a few months ago have been imploring our new President to "electrify" the nation, à la Franklin Roosevelt, while assuring him the citizenry pines for the strong leader who will achieve national unity through national hardship and national sacrifice.

Free men who beg for regimentation are contemptible, but people who suffer from a fuhrer complex are the last to understand their own self-abasement. The middle of the roaders who're demanding the government do something or anything at all, and the liberals advocating controls, rationing and credit allocation can't imagine an America where people freely make their own arrangements about such things.

If you have a fuhrer complex, it's democratic to govern from the top. To regulate from above is simply democracy expressing itself through bold leadership.

The far right seems to be the only organized grouping able to offer unqualified opposition to regimentation through leader-worship. The left is uncertain about it, perhaps seduced by a desire to get at the oil companies even if it means fattening the Washington leviathan.

The present anti-oil company agitation, however, is more an act of pique than of policy. What does it accomplish to cut Exxon's profits by transferring yet more power to the state? The far right realizes that and therefore concentrates its efforts in defending the free market even if it may bring a few benefits to Exxon and the likes of Nelson Rockefeller, whom many of Birchite persuasion regard as an agent of international communism. He isn't of course, but viewed from a laissez-faire perspective there isn't much difference between his kind of liberal, centralized authoritarianism and the prevailing principles of public administration in the Kremlin.

To escape the bondage of bureaucratic socialism, some leftists are shifting over to far right libertarianism. Others are beginning to rediscover anarchism, the one left-wing political philosophy that tries to achieve material justice without the violence and compulsion of leaders and states.

Unfortunately, it's been so long since anarchism has been a living political force that most people use the word as a synonym for chaos. For most of us and anarchist is a guy in a history textbook with a beard and a bomb who was last seen some time in the late 19th century.

In fact the last anarchist movement of any size went out of business during the Spanish Civil War. It was extinguished by the Communists, the Fascists and the liberals, all of whom were scared to death of an anti-hierarchical, anti-governmental movement that believed in a voluntarist society in which people organized themselves to realize their economic aims without direction from on high.

Before their extirpation the anarchists of that era took over a goodly sized chunk of Spain, including the city of Barcelona where they ended up running everything from the street-car companies to the textile mills. (For a recent book on this amazing experiment see "The Anarchist Collectives Self-Management in the Spanish Revolution, 1936-1939," edited by Sam Dolgoff, Free Life Editions, New York City, 1974.) Before being rubbed out, the Spanish anarchists did some prodigious things, and although they can hardly serve as a practical model for what we might do in America today, their accomplishments demonstrate that anarchism in a modern industrial society isn't a wacked out, crazy idea.

It is also a good cure for fuhrer complexes, for if anarchism teaches nothing else it tells us that those who look for leaders shall assuredly find masters.

To our Representatives.

The partial tax exemption for country living Senior Citizens on low and fixed incomes, turns out to be (in addition to the unfair Federal earnings limitation provision), another great disappointment and deception. To their dismay, they find that the exemption is not applicable to their entire property, but only to the house and one acre.

By permitting the exemption only on the house and one acre, and reassessing the additional acreage at a much higher assessment rate, a great number of elderly property owners are now actually required to pay higher total property taxes than before they applied for a partial exemption.

Until a much broader tax base is established to cover the cost of education, and thereby relieve the property owner of this burden the only fair and equitable solution to the ever increasing property tax, is the Circuit Breaker Approach, which has already been adopted in over twenty other states. Under this arrangement the fixed and low income families pay from 5% to 6% on an income up to $10,000.00. With this plan everyone will be in a position to pay his fair share of taxes.

As it stands now, an aged couple with an income of $4,000.00 and a property tax of $1000.00 is paying 25% of his income in property taxes, while his younger neighbor, earning present day salaries is paying only a small percentage of his income.

If taxed at the proposed market value of his property, rather than the foregoing Circuit Breaker plan; most elderly people will be taxed out of their homes sooner or later, and only add to the increasing and staggering cost of welfare.

Senior Citizens can still further cut down on their food and other essentials of life, but can they be without a place to live and a roof over their head, after working and saving for it all their lives?

We urge our State and Local Representatives to give this problem high priority in the up coming session, and would appreciate hearing your position on this matter.

Yours very truly,
Marbletown Senior

Defends Hinchey

Editor: The Freeman

I would like to correct a false impression that may have been created by Frances Everts' letter to you regarding an article appearing in the December 27th issue of the Daily Freeman.

The point of the article was that assemblyman Hinchey was setting up an office at 292 Fair Street in Kingston so as to serve his constituents on a full time basis as he had indeed promised to do throughout his campaign last fall.

Certainly he could not fulfill that promise without resigning his position with the state department of education, and the newspaper article simply noted that fact.

As chairwoman of the Saugerties Democratic Committee, I would not ordinarily bother to reply to a letter so obviously motivated by a desire to demean our new Assemblyman who has so promptly moved to fulfill his campaign promises.

I am, therefore writing simply to let the general public know what the facts are.

Sincerely,
JANE CHODABA
Chairwoman
Saugerties Democratic Committee

On Intersections

Editor, The Freeman:

I should like to commend the acumen of the Kingston Hospital trustees in their plans to construct their new facility near the Thruway Circle. That's what I call bringing the service to where the action is!

What with the "Yield" signs at the circle not enforced, and the occasional flashing lights on Washington Avenue and Clinton Extension and at North Front Street, this move should save many lives by bringing the service closer to the need.

March for Life

Editor: The Freeman

Wednesday, January 22, will mark the second anniversary of the horrendous Supreme Court abortion decisions. Over one million innocent unborn babies have been killed by abortion since that date.

On January 22, pro-life people from all over the United States will "March for Life" around the U.S. Capitol in Washington, D.C., to petition our Congress for a Mandatory Human Life Amendment.

Bus reservations can be made in Ulster County by calling Mrs. Eleanor Kurtz, 384-6585. Cost for the round trip fare is only $12.00. January 22 is the one day which demands sacrifice from every pro-life American. If you care, you'll be there.

Sincerely yours,

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Wayne Hays may have survived a challenge to his chairmanship of the House Administration Committee because of a little-noticed resolution adopted by the House nearly four years ago.

That resolution, passed in mid-1971 before the Ohio Democrat became chairman, gave the now very powerful Administration Committee sole authority to increase expense allowances for House members.

The committee almost never opposes decisions by Hays, so in effect Hays himself wields power over allowances for travel, postage, stationery, salaries for clerks and money for office expenses.

With the nation beset by the twin ills of a recession and inflation, congressmen dared not try last year to increase their $42,500 annual salary.

But increased allowances can be a kind of hidden pay raise, and Hays made a point last week of reminding House Democrats considering whether to depose him that he could ease their financial pinch.

Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N. J., was picked by the Democratic steering committee to replace Hays. But the Democratic caucus rejected the steering committee recommendation last week, giving Hays a 176 to 109 victory.

Thompson told reporters Hays held "all the chips" because of his openly wielded power over the expense purse strings. A new chairman might not immediately have — or try to use — Hays' strong influence in the committee.

Analysis

During the single day between the steering committee's action and the caucus vote, Thompson said, Hays "promised the freshmen an increase in per diem in lieu of a pay raise."

At least one freshman who asked to remain anonymous confirmed Hays had pointed out his ability to increase travel allowances and to raise the limit on the number of trips a congressman can make to his home district at government expense.

Rep. James C. Cleveland, Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N. J., was picked by the Democratic steering committee

R-N. H., without making reference to Hays' victory, has promised to introduce legislation returning to the full House the power to control expense limits. The House had that power until the 1971 resolution was passed.

Hays, who has built a reputation in the House for issuing outspoken insults and accusations, said of the attempt to unseat him: "Most of the charges ... against me were that I'd been abusive to people on the floor, and I plead guilty to that."

ple on the floor, and I plead guilty to that."

In an uncharacteristic act of contrition, Hays also said: "I'm going to try to be less abrasive if I can. It's pretty hard to reform at my age (63), but I'm going to make an attempt."

New Post at Hospital

Announcement of the establishment of a new office of controller at Benedictine Hospital and the appointment of Leonard Kreis of Spring Valley to that position, was made jointly by Hospital President Sister Mary Charles and Chairman of the Board of Directors Harry C. Kappreilian. Kreis assumed his new duties recently and is working with Guido T. D'Alessio, director of fiscal services. The new controller came to Benedictine from Helen Hayes Hospital in West Haverstraw where he served in the same capacity. A certified public accountant in New York and New Jersey, he began his career in finance in 1955 with the New York City firm of Loeb and Troper, a CPA firm specializing in health care. Three years later, Kreis joined Touche Ross and Company, Newark, N.J., where he was supervisor in the Hospital Audit Division.

1974 Bad year for Construction in Kingston as Well

KINGSTON

The Kingston Building Department's annual report makes official what most people in the industry knew anyway: 1974 was a bad year for construction.

Just how bad is indicated by comparing department receipts with the previous year. In 1974 the department took in $5,377. The previous year it was $10,112 and in 1972 the all-time high of $14,187 in receipts was reached.

Although receipts do not accurately measure construction—there are no fees for government construction, for instance—city officials keep a close watch since they do reflect increases in assessed valuation.

Overall construction in 1974 as reported by the Building

Department in its annual report, was $2,992,100 as compared to $8,650,000 for 1973. That latter figure is also somewhat misleading since $5,460,000 of that amount was for the construction of 303 apartment units at Lawton Park, construction that never materialized in 1974.

Of the $2,992,100 in construction last year a total $934,684 was for tax free projects and as such were not charged by the department, resulting in a loss of $1,360 in revenues. Ulster County government (at $38,488) and the city of Kingston (through its Pike Plan at $349,246) provided the bulk of "tax free" construction. There were 3909 building permits issued last year with "alterations" the largest category accounting for 116 permits for a total of just under $800,000 construction costs.

Construction of one-family private residences remained the same as last year although the cost for the 16 units increased to $417,704, about $26,100 each or about $5,000 more per unit than in 1973. Costs do not include the price of the land or landscaping.

At the other end of the spectrum 14 buildings with 31 dwelling units were demolished with another 15 non-residential buildings falling to the wrecking ball. Thirty buildings were demolished in 1973.

George E. Radcliffe serves as city building inspector. Mrs. Ella Clausi, building department secretary, compiles the annual report.

KINGSTON

Miss Donna Hofler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hofler of Hurley, has been chosen Theme Child for the Children's Rehabilitation Center during the United Cerebral Palsy Telethon, an annual, television event which will take place Feb. 15 and 16 over Channel 10 in Albany.

Miss Hofler, 15, is a junior at Kingston High School where she is on the 90 Honor Roll list. Pretty and vivacious, this charming young woman carries on a schedule that few of her peers can equal. She is active in the 4H Club and was one of the 10 top panelists in the over 14 year group who won a sewing award. She makes her own clothes, is a teacher's aide in Sunday school and with another young woman is leading a 4H group this year. She also is interested in music having taken piano lessons for the past four years.

"This is the first time that a teenager has been chosen to be the Theme Child for the Telethon," Robert M. Schnitzer, executive director of the Center announced, "but it is in keeping with the newest program instituted by the Children's Rehabilitation Center which is the formation of a recreation group for handicapped teenagers and young adults, called the CRC 'Saturday Club'."

The public has long been aware of our work with children," Schnitzer said, "but too few have been aware of the needs of handicapped young people, needs that we believe must be filled."

The Saturday Club has a current membership of 15 with five regular volunteers. It is essentially a social-recreational organization making available to the handicapped, opportunities for recreation that were heretofore denied them. The group meets every Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Center on Webster Street.

Richard Flynn, the group's dedicated and imaginative leader, has provided a variety of social events for the members. During the summer they attended plays in the Woodstock Theatre and the Showboat in Kingston. Also during the summer swimming and swimming lessons were made available to them with remarkable success, several of the young people having learned to swim during that time.

The current program provides for bowling every other Saturday at Ferraro's on East Chester Street Bypass which also donated a special retractable bowling ball. One of the members of the Saturday Club won the Ulster County United Cerebral Palsy Bowling tournament, with lumber furnished by the Center. BOCES built special ramps that are essential for the young people to use in order to bowl.

On alternate Saturdays, the members take music lessons under the supervision of Mrs. Marilyn Hauser of Woodstock. Holidays are suitably celebrated parties and fun that many of the young people had never before experienced.

Future programs include horseback riding in the spring and fall, gardening activities and a home economics program. Male members of the group recently were officially chartered Explorers Scout Post 99.

Horticultural Society Session Touches The Bases

ACCORD

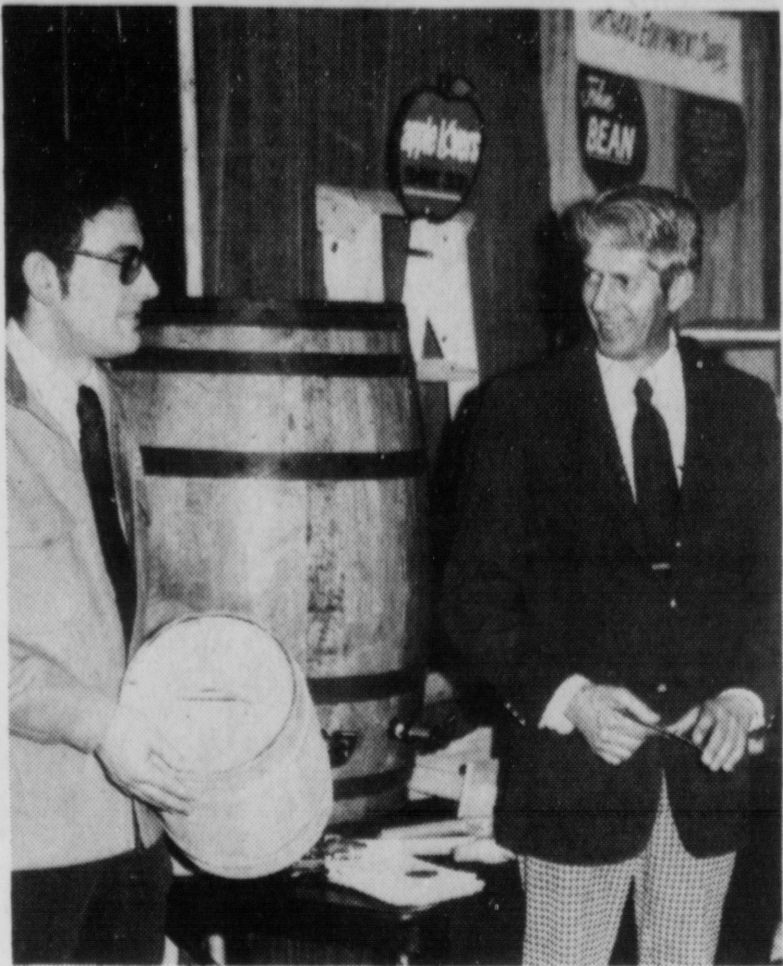

The past year wasn't an easy one for the American farmer. So it wasn't surprising that much of the talk — both formal and informal — at last week's annual meeting of the Eastern New York State Horticultural Society dealt with the latest problems and crises that face the farmer today.

Much of the private talk among growers and producers during the threeday event had a distinct economic theme: the inability of many farmers to survive in an era of soaring costs and diminishing profits.

Many of the formal sessions dealt with that problem, too, as well as related concerns. Topics included current labor problems, customer relations, lobbying activities, world starvation and the credit squeeze. Hardly quieting issues for an event that traditionally emphasizes social gatherings between businessmen and neighbors.

All was not gloomy at this year's show, however. Some 60 exhibitors — one of the largest turnouts in years — from throughout the Northeast displayed their products and wares for the local growers and producers. Everything from advanced pesticides and streamlined apple crates to cider kegs and heavy machinery were displayed for the local horticulturalists. And, although most exhibitors were from the Mid-Hudson Valley, some traveled from as far as Arkansas, Virginia and Delaware to meet with local farmers and, they hope, future customers.

In addition to the daily diet of speeches, seminars and trade show exhibits, this year's Horticultural Society Show included 4-H demonstrations and displays, a Roadside Marketing Conference that emphasized customer service and satisfaction and a Market Vegetable Meeting that included the latest developments in crop improvement and protection.

Senator Mason Back on Top, Head of Agriculture Committee

ALBANY

It took almost three years and a move to the upper chamber of the State Legislature but Edwyn E. Mason is back on top of the Agriculture Committee, the Senate Agriculture Committee, that is.

Mason had been chairman of the Assembly Agriculture Committee, capping a 20-year career in that house and he probably would have been content to stay there save for a battle in 1972 with former Gov. Rockefeller over what Mason considered Rockefeller's apparent propensity for spending huge amounts of taxpayer's money.

Few legislators ever won (individual) battles with the powerful Rockefeller and Mason was no exception. Stripped of his Agriculture Committee chairmanship and faced with what might have been the coup de grace for some legislators of reapportionment into a new district, Mason continued to fight but also switched, to the State Senate in 1972 where he has been handily elected and reelected in what is now known as the 48th Senatorial District.

Majority Leader Warren M. Anderson is glad to have the Hobart resident on his side of the State House as witnessed by this statement which accompanied the announcement of Mason's appointment:

"I am most pleased to have the benefit of the experience and talent of Senator Mason as chairman of the committee of which he has been serving as vice-chairman.

"Senator Mason brings special understanding of the role which the farm and the farmer play in the life of all the citizens of the State. He is also keenly aware of the pressures on the agricultural community in the economics of the State's business."

The Senate Committee on Agriculture has been established as a separate committee this year. Previously the committee dealt with the problems of consumer protection as well as agriculture.

Mason received nationwide recognition as the author of the Endangered Species Act commonly known as the Mason Act. The law prohibits trafficking in animals on the endangered species list. The law became a model for other states drafting similar legislation.

Mason also drafted the legislation which established a diagnostic laboratory at Cornell University to test farm animals for infectious diseases, poisoning and metabolic disorders.

The Senator is a member of the New York State Farm Bureau, and the New York State Grange. In 1970 he was named Conservation Legislator of the Year by the New York State Conservation Council. As a member of the Empire State Horsemen's Association, he received its Horseman of the Year—1972 award.

Mason is on the Cornell Veterinary College Advisory Council and holds membership in the National Audubon Society, the National Geographic Society, and the Delaware-Otsego Environmental Association.

Anderson's office also announced that Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. of Poughkeepsie, who represented Ulster County from 1967 to 1971, has been appointed chairman of the Senate Committee on Banks, one of the major committees in the Senate.

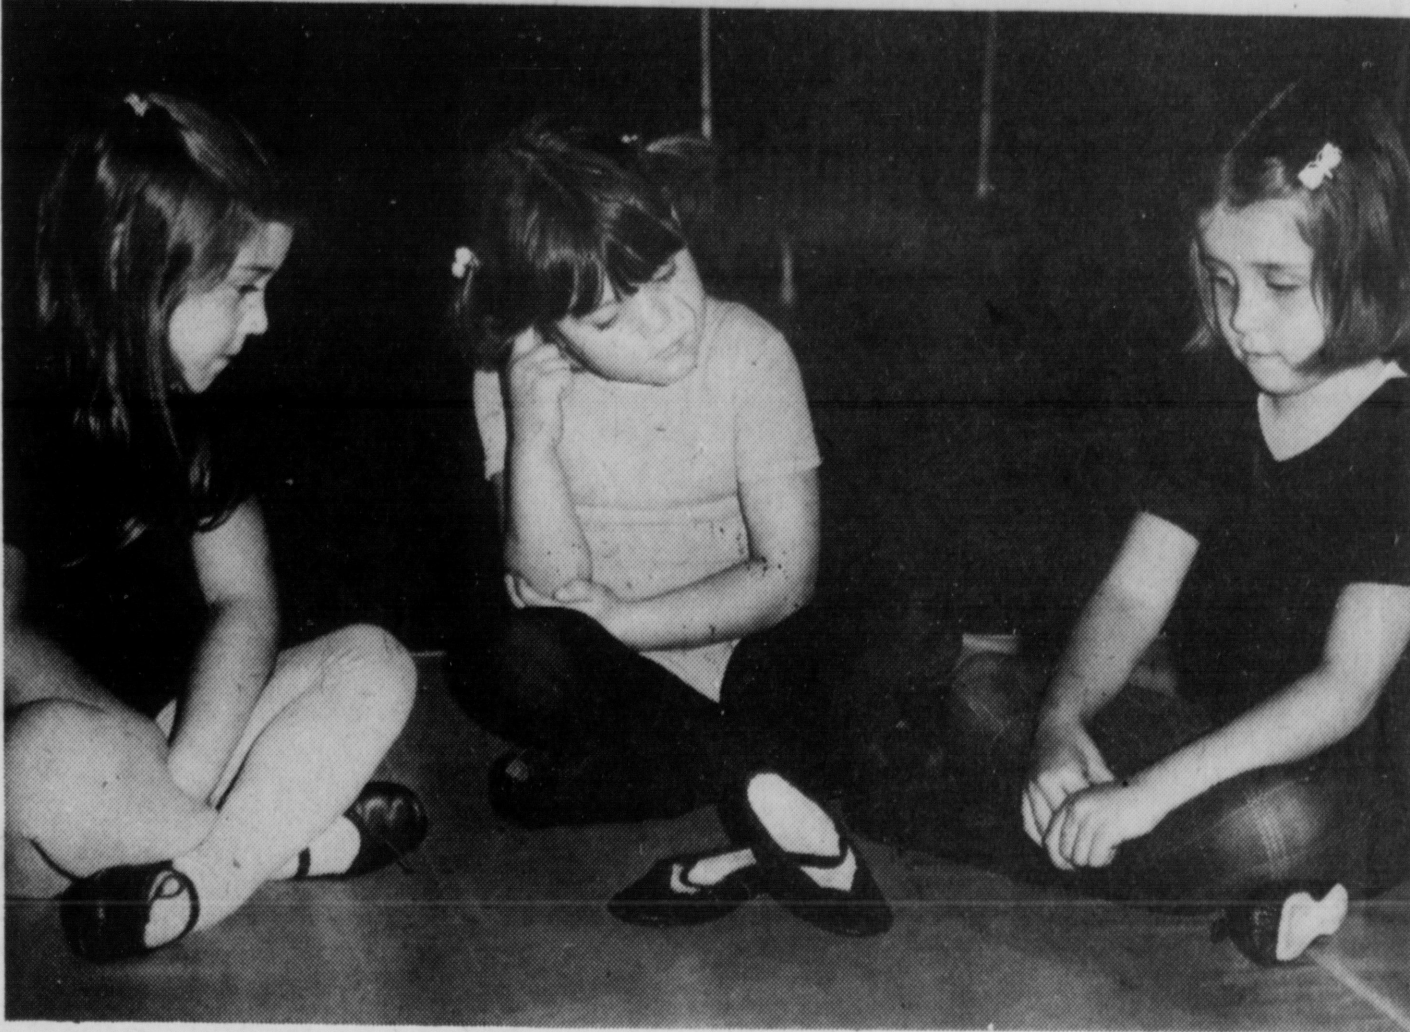

The Committee on Banks handles legislation dealing with all phases of the banking industry and lending institutions.

Mother Turns Anguish Into Constructive Action

By DOROTHY A NAREL
On December 27, 1974, the Daily Freeman carried a story about a "missing stepdaughter."

Ray Yerkovich of Lake Katrine Apartments, told this newspaper his stepdaughter Joanna Pierce, "has not been seen since she left home last Friday (Dec. 20) at 5:20 p.m. in the company of her father, Franklin Pierce of Skytop Apartments, Kingston."

Yerkovich said that Pierce had been given visitation rights by Family Court that included permission to take the child from her home on alternate weekends and for one month each summer but was not allowed to take her out of state.

The child's mother, Mrs. Yerkovich, told the Freeman LIFE department the child's father had appeared "under court order" to pick up his daughter for that weekend. They have not been heard from since that date.

In the meantime, Joanna's sixth birthday came and went on December 29.

Mrs. Yerkovich, in the meantime, is trying to translate her experiences into constructive action. It is her contention that existing laws are inadequate for this type of situation.

Inadequacies in the law were brought to her attention in a book, "Beyond the Best Interest of the Child." Mrs. Yerkovich, who agreed with theories advanced by the three authors, contacted them for advice concerning her own particular case. The authors are Prof. Joseph Goldstein, the Walter Hale Hamilton

Professor of Law, Science and Social Policy of Yale University Law School; Dr. Anna Freud, director of the Hampstead Child Therapy Clinic in England; and Dr. Albert J. Solnit, Sterling Professor of Pediatrics and Psychiatry at Yale University, School of Medicine and director of the Yale University Child Study Center.

Dr. Solnit, the mother says, even came to Kingston to plead the case in the Kingston couple's behalf in Family Court.

Mrs. Yerkovich hopes to direct her attentions toward revamping the Family Court System. "This can be accomplished by making people concerned and aware of existing problems. It also means getting politicians to carry through on needed legislation," she says.

The Kingston mother, who admits she has never been actively involved in politics, hopes to dedicate herself to working on law changes "thereby making it difficult for similar incidences to occur. Most of all, I want to protect all children," she says.

The young mother also wants to write a book—in layman terms—which would help and guide other parents.

Mrs. Yerkovich has placed the issue right in Gov. Hugh Carey's office. She feels that since Family Court, an agency of the state, imposed the visitation rights in the first place despite her expressed fears that just such a situation would arise, the state should also provide the remedy.

In the meantime, Joanna is still absent from home.

Local AFS Chapter Seeks Host Family

A 10-month "experience" in international relations without leaving town—that's what American Field Service International Scholarships is offering Kingston families.

AFS Chapter Family Selection Chairman Mrs. Richard Muller, is searching for a family to host an overseas student for the coming school year. The youngster will live with the family and attend classes at Kingston High School. "The main requirement for an AFS host family is parental concern and interest in young people," Mrs. Muller says.

AFS International Headquarters in New York City carefully screens candidates who apply for a year's stay in the United States. Students come here from more than 60 countries. There are more than 2,500 students from abroad currently living and studying in America this year.

"The AFS program can be not only beneficial to the student, but also extremely rewarding to the host family," Mrs. Muller adds. A family may acquire new perspectives about another culture; experience the fun of a new and continuing friendship; and help a student discover the life of a community and a nation."

Aside from food costs and possibly some small incidental expenses, the host family incurs no debt in hosting a student. The local Chapter raises an annual fee which, when supplemented by whatever contributions the student can afford, covers AFS program expenses. AFS also extends a monthly allowance directly to the student to cover incidental personal expenses. And the host family does not have to pay medical bills for students. As a matter of policy, AFS extends necessary medical coverage.

In addition, families may take a monthly tax deduction in accordance with provisions made by the United States Internal Revenue Service.

"There is very little expense to host family," Mrs. Muller says. "What is really needed is something that cannot be bought—love and attention that every young person wants in a home situation. While many families participating in the AFS program include children who are high school students, any family is eligible to serve as a host. Young families can have tremendous success when they volunteer as hosts. It becomes a learning experience for young children and for parents alike," the AFS chairman concludes.

Those interested in participating in the AFS program experience should write or contact Mrs. Richard Muller at 19 Niles Drive in Woodstock, N.Y.

KINGSTON CHAPTER OF AFS International Scholarships gave a social earlier last week in the Fair Street Reformed Church parish hall to introduce the 1974-75 AFS student to the Kingston community. Included in the group are Klaus Eisterer, second from left, of Feldkirch, Austria; Ken Avans, left, faculty adviser for AFS Student Club at Kingston High School; Hilde Bastani, right, of Belgium who is spending the year in Ontario Central School, Boiceville; and Fatiha Remh of Morocco, AFS student in Red Hook. After graduation from Kingston High School, Class of 1959, Mrs. Temple entered Radcliffe College, Harvard University, and was graduated in 1963 with the degree of Bachelor of Arts, cum laude. She then became associated with the Planning Commission of the City of New York and in 1971 earned the degree of Master of Arts in municipal planning from New York University.

After moving with her husband to the nation's capital, Mrs. Temple entered law school at Georgetown University. There, she was chosen for the Editorial Board of the Georgetown Law Journal and subsequently became its Case and Notes Editor. She was graduated in June 1974 with the degree of Doctor of Laws.

Mrs. Temple resides in Washington with her husband, Dr. Robert Temple, an internist associated with the Food and Drug Administration.

Council for the Arts Extends Open Invitation

"... could have influence on cultural life in Ulster County..."

A concerted effort to advance organizational plans concerning the Ulster County Council for the Arts has been made in an open public invitation to attend a meeting February 21 and 22 at State University College, New Paltz.

The Council is seeking assistance in shaping the organization which "could have a tremendous impact on the cultural life of Ulster County in years to come."

The Ulster County Council for the Arts is an incorporated, non-profit organization with a temporary slate of officers. Membership is open to the public.

In a release from the Council it was indicated that only after a consensus is reached that membership is representative of the entire county would a vote be taken on the proposed by-laws and election of regular officers.

The Council release states: "By attending the conference you will be joining with other concerned citizens, artists, and organizations who are anxious to find ways to meet the growing cultural needs of Ulster County. The task of the conference will be to explore the problem fully, establish short and long-range goals for the Council and provide it with a structure and a method of operating that will enable it to best serve the community."

"State law now mandates that State funds for the arts be distributed on a per capita basis and it, therefore, becomes important that a county-wide organization be established to insure that such funds are indeed obtained and that they are wisely and fairly distributed throughout the county so that not only artists and art organizations benefit according to need and qualifications, but also that they community's standards and requirements are not overlooked."

Registration fee for the conference, which includes provisions for refreshments each day in addition to a box lunch on Saturday, is $3.50.

Questions pertaining to the conference should be directed to the Center for Continuing Education at SUNY in New Paltz.

Irving Brown, chairman of the planning committee, has announced February 14 is reservations deadline.

If He's Twice Her Age, Must Be Rich Or Famous!

1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Your reply to the 20-year-old man who said he liked older women interested me. You said he was probably looking for his mother, and you recommended counseling.

What about older men who prefer girls 20 or 30 years younger than themselves? Would you say that they are probably looking for their daughters, and recommend counseling for them too?

NEW YORKER

DEAR NEW YORKER: The 20-year-old man wrote to say he "grooved on women between 45 and 50 with gray hair and middle-age spread." Now if that doesn't sound like he's looking for Mamma, I miss my guess.

On the other hand, most older men who go wild over young chicks have insatiable egos and a horror of growing old. It may be only a coincidence, but when a young beautiful girl marries a man who's old enough to be her father, he's usually very rich — or famous.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to meet that young kid who likes gray-haired women with a middle-age spread. (You said maybe he was looking for a mother.)

Well, I like young boys. Maybe I'm looking for a son. But what difference does it make as long as we both find what we're looking for? Sign me . . .

"46 AND LIKES 'EM YOUNG"

DEAR ABBY: I am nearly 70 and widowed. Recently, my daughter visited me, and I mentioned that I had made provisions for my kidneys and eyes to be donated after my death, and I also told her that I had already made provisions to be cremated.

She said, "No way! I will not permit you to be cut up and cremated!"

Abby, this is MY wish. I have no use for a plot of ground for someone to keep up, or a headstone for someone to visit once a year. What right has my daughter, the oldest of my five children, to say that SHE won't permit it?

MADE MY PLANS

DEAR MADE: What you "can" do depends upon the state in which you live. There are state laws covering this situation. Talk to your lawyer. I'm with you, Mother. Your wishes should be carried out as soon as you are.

DEAR ABBY: I've been wanting to write this for ten years, but the problem has become increasingly worse every year, so here goes a pet peeve which I'll wager plenty of others have:

I refer to the business of subtly pressuring people to give Christmas gifts to those whose JOB it is to perform a service.

I live in an apartment building where there are two doormen (a day man and a night man), also an elevator operator, two girls on the switchboard and six men in the garage. Before Christmas the manager sends me a list of their names. I think you're getting the idea.

Abby, these people are not "volunteers." They are paid to do a job. If any one of them had gone out of his way to do something special for me, no one would have to tell me to give that person a present. I ask no special services, and get none, so why is a present in order? And that goes for the mailman, the paperboy and the hairdresser whom I tip 52 times a year! (She should give ME a present!)

"OFF MY CHEST IN CHICAGO"

DEAR ABBY: I simply must write to say "thank you for being there." I'm a guy who reads you faithfully.

I find your column interesting and exciting, and your recipe for pecan pie was super. It made my Thanksgiving dinner!

It takes a woman like you to bring out the latent heterosexuality in me. Sock it to me, baby!

GAY IN SAN FRANCISCO

Those participating are asked to have a small portfolio of recent work with them. The first sessions is scheduled for February 7.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE

IN THE CENTER RING, A WELL-DRESSED HUSBAND!

Dear Heloise:

My husband was in the army for over 24 years, so planning his daily attire was never a problem since there was no choice. After his retirement, however, you couldn't believe the combinations he'd come up with to wear in his white-collar job. I doubt that even Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey would have hired him for their clown section!

So I took over helping him select clothes each day for wear in town. But the road trips still presented a problem until I hit upon an idea that might be useful to others.

Now I make packets including a folded shirt, tie, socks and handkerchief for each day he will be away and put them in the one-gallon storage size plastic bags used in the kitchen.

After his morning shower, he takes out the fresh clothes and puts his dirty ones in the bag, thereby separating the dirty clothes from the clean ones in his suitcase.

This works beautifully and he thinks it is a great idea. He has shown these packets to some of his traveling friends and they agree.

Jeanette M. Morey

So do I, Jeanette. It is a great idea! What a simple solution — even saves time wondering what socks to wear with what tie. Your husband owes you some kisses!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

What does it mean when you crack an egg and find two yolks? There was an old wives tale about this but I can't remember it. My kids and their school teacher want to know.

John's Mother

My grandmother used to have one on this, but she is not living. Mother, either, I don't have the answer. Does anyone?

If so, do drop us a line. I'd love to know myself. Just write to Heloise care of The Daily Freeman. Satisfy our curiosity, PLEASE.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I discovered mini hot water bottles when I was having my babies. They are great, too, for an adult with a small ache that can be covered with the mini bottle!

Dear Heloise:

If your can of stewed tomatoes is too watery, add a can of tomato soup, undiluted, of course, and presto! It's thicker, richer, and so delicious.

Mrs. Delores Noreika

I decided I wanted to use them for baby gifts and found a knitting pattern for a cover. So a bottle with its own cover is really a nice baby gift.

Mrs. Darley Downs

Dear Heloise:

To make bound buttonholes of a lightweight fabric (as in an interlined jacket), use bias piping for the cording.

Be Wary of 'Work-at-Home' Schemes, Says Dana

By MARAGET DANA
UNITED Feature Syndicate

Trying to find ways to boost your income? Let me warn you to be wary of any "work-at-home" scheme until you have thoroughly checked it out.

Better Business Bureaus, consumer protection agencies and many other local organizations are issuing urgent alerts about the increase in these tempting offers.

Our economic uncertainties, job layoffs, rising costs, have made most of us more receptive to alluring plans to make money at home. Last year was bad for this, but 1975 promises to be even worse. These appetizing money-making offers usually come through either direct-mail flyers or in the classified advertising sections of newspapers and magazines.

The BBB of Metropolitan New York has been especially vigilant in checking out these offers, which although they appear in the New York City area, are spreading to all parts of the country.

Woodrow Wirsig, president of the NYC-BBB points out that really no job is being offered with most of these ads. They are schemes to get consumers to send money as "registration fees." "What they get," Wirsig reminds us, "is not a job but a LIST of companies allegedly offering work at home."

Other schemes suggest that women are wanted to mail advertising for some firm and that they will get good pay without any selling or ordering-taking.

Or the advertisement may tell you that anyone can earn $40 to $50 weekly at home addressing envelopes. In some cases ads say that for a small fee — $1 perhaps — you can get a booklet explaining the offer. You mail postcards which you buy first offering to possible customers some product or service. These range from name plates to bronzing baby shoes to cosmetics. You get a commission only if a card brings an order — which seldom happens.

Based on actual events, BBB figures the likely costs to you responding to such an ad would be:

- $ 1—for information.
- $ 5—for 250 postcards
- $ 6—paid by you to the promotor
- $15—for stamps for the postcards

$21 Total money outlay
$ 2—Commission you earn on two orders from 250 cards

$19—TOTAL LOSS TO YOU

In one postal fraud case the hearing examiner found that home workers responding to such an ad would average about 45 cents a week.

The NYC Bureau has named four companies in New York and two in New Jersey that have been the subject of many complaints and inquires. None of these companies are doing business by BBB-approved standards. For instance, one ad reads "Typists, part-time homework. Earn $$ in spare time." It goes on to ask "honest and sincere persons" to remit $5 to receive the special work-at-home program.

Another makes the same kind of claims and asks $3 for a homemaker's kit. Still another says you can earn $50 for every 100 envelopes you stuff with their circulars, but requires a $14 registration fee.

None of these work-at-home promoters have been found by the BBB to live up to their claims.

The most important point made by the Better Business Bureau and various consumer protection agencies in our state governments is to keep your guard up if you have to "buy" anything to get that work they say you can do at home for profit.

A home-work scheme never offers you regular salaried employment. It will promise big profits and part-time earnings. Often a company will provide "personal testimonials" as to their integrity, but never identify the person giving the testimonials, so you can't check on them.

Woodrow Wirsig's final and urgent advice is simply, "If it requires that you send money before anything else happens — forget it."

But there are ways to get sound advice if you want to start a business at home. Write to the Small Business Administration, U.S. Dept. of Commerce, Washington, D.C. 20230 and ask for a copy of their booklet, "Bibliography No. 1, Handicrafts and Home Businesses." If this is unexpectedly not available, turn to your public library for help. Most libraries have good sections on ideas, plans and procedures for work or businesses to be handled at home.

Send your questions and comments to Margaret Dana, 216 King Rd., Chalfont, Pa. 18914. Because of the heavy volume of mail, personal replies are impossible.

Mother Earth News

The Car of the Future . . .

Was Built in 1947!

By John Shuttleworth

I have, today, three kinds of news about the automobile industry: bad, worse and good.

The bad news — as we all know — is that new car sales have plunged so low in recent months, that, as a number of auto industry spokesmen have said, "This isn't a recession . . . we're in the middle of a depression."

The worse news is that the private car, as we now know it, is largely a thing of the past. Even if new automobile sales increase once again to the boom levels of the past few years, it will be only a temporary upsurge in what must surely be a long and dark slide downward. The crowded, resource-poor world of the future simply will not be able to afford millions of 4,000-pound vehicles which frequently carry only one individual 10 to 12 miles on a gallon of gasoline while spewing clouds of poison into the atmosphere. That kind of car — whether Detroit likes it or not — is doomed to become as extinct as the dodo.

And the good news — for all the folks who now depend so heavily on private vehicles for transportation and employment — is that there WILL BE a great number of personal automobiles manufactured, bought, sold and used for the next several decades. Those cars, however, will increasingly be quite different from the "standard" automobiles which are dying such a hard death at this time.

Project population trends, general income levels, inflation and the planet's known reserves of steel, copper, gasoline and other resources into the future and a few things about the design of tomorrow's cars become apparent. The "average" personal vehicle will be much smaller (it will probably contain only two seats and some luggage space). It will be a great deal lighter in weight (tipping the scales at, perhaps, less than a quarter the poundage of today's "standard" sedans). It will cost — in relative terms — no more than one-half to two-thirds the price of 1975s "mid-size" automobiles. It will deliver at least FOUR TIMES as many miles of dependable transportation per gallon of gasoline as its 1975 ancestor.

Farfetched? Impossible? Not at all! As a matter of fact, a somewhat crude version of this "car of the future" was manufactured right here in the United States for 22 years. It was called the King Midget and — from 1947 to 1969 — approximately 5,000 of the little automobiles were produced in Athens, Ohio.

The production King Midget had two seats and enough space under its little hood to hold two suitcases. The tiny car's one-cylinder engine was mounted behind good advantage. Air Force Sergeant Jim Gilmer, for instance, once drove his Midget 3,095 miles coast to coast in four and a half days at a total cost of $26.35. Carl and Ken Castle, a father and son, spent only $63.40 while using theirs to tow a boat on a vehicles. It was a rough-riding little machine that tended to float around in crosswinds and the 1947 version would never meet today's federal performance standards.

Then again, few other 1947 cars would meet those standards either. So? So perhaps it's time for someone to reach back a few years, pick up and dust off the old King Midget idea and bring it up to date with current state-of-the-art engineering. And then, once again, we'll have a production automobile in this country that weighs less than 1,000 pounds, that will carry two people and luggage, that delivers 50 or more miles per gallon of regular gasoline and that costs only about half as much as the average 1975 sedan.

Once again, that is, we'll be able to buy the car of the future.

Despite today's inflation, knowledgeable individuals can still purchase a good used "transportation" automobile for $300 or less. To learn how, send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed long envelope to The Mother Earth News, in care of this paper, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304. ## CAR OF THE FUTURE?

Substitutes Sweeten Family Food Budget

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Inflation goes on and people must eat. Flavor of food remains vitally important no matter what the price and nutrition, of course, must be fulfilled.

Since the consumer's food budget has not gone up as prices have and in many homes there is either unemployment or the threat of it, eating habits may change.

What to do about sugar, for one example, is a great worry to millions of homemakers. The price of sweetener is out of sight for many. People are trying all manner of substitutes, from honey and artificial sweeteners to corn syrup.

Christine Pines, home economist in charge of consumer information for Best Foods, manufacturers of corn syrups, advises:

"Corn syrup, both the light and the darker kinds, is less sweet than sugar. It may leave a slight taste in the mouth. But it is excellent in certain dishes as a sweetener, such as brownies, certain cookies and particularly cakes, but not in everything."

"It is perfect in baked beans or as glazes for meats such as ham. It is great in certain beverages, particularly punches, and in some candies though not all. But I advise you when you are making your own special cake, the one you are famous for, to stick to sugar — despite its cost."

"As for other cakes and cookies, use only those recipes which have been tested by experts familiar with corn syrup and how it acts in baking. Don't experiment. You may waste your ingredients. Stick to the tested and recommended recipes."

Should you use corn syrup in making ice cream at home, for example? No, says home economist Pines. Sugar gives better results. Incidentally, a report shows that 81 per cent of American families bought, not made, ice cream last year. Vanilla was the most popular flavor. Chocolate came next.

Mrs. Pines advises continued use of bottle mayonnaise because it is so much a part of normal American eating patterns that to eliminate it now would be hardship.

"It can help cut food costs by making the growing reliance on sandwiches easier," she said. "You can't ask anyone to eat a dry sandwich. Mayonnaise can prevent that easily. It also can be used as a combiner for scraps. Scraps from beef, chicken, lamb — often thrown out — can be assembled with mayonnaise and be put into a sandwich."

"Mayonnaise does contain egg yolk," she admits, "but so very little you need have no cholesterol worries about it."

Spices are now important factors enhancing foods so a cook can live with inflationary prices. Anita Fial, also a business home economist, says she believes that if people learn to use spices intelligently they can cut their food bills.

"Actually, the old reliable meat loaf can be upgraded in flavor by the use of ground oregano, thyme and Italian seasoning. Ground beef with a little oregano and sliced fresh mushrooms is really an elegant dish — requiring less meat than you would expect."

Unit Pricing Law

There's more news about unit pricing for supermarket shoppers.

Because fresh fruits and vegetables are usually sold by a unit of measure or count, all fresh produce is exempt from unit pricing for items sold at supermarkets.

The State Department of Agriculture and Markets also says that food products already priced according to acceptable units within the law do not have to be unit priced separately. That would be needless duplication.

Thrifty Enough for Family, Yet Fancy Enough for Guests

The beginning of the new year is traditionally the time for sales, savings and thrifty meals. If you are budgeting carefully like everyone else, you are on the watch for specials in your supermarket.

Budget buys can be transformed into something extra special when teamed with plentiful, wholesome dairy foods. It takes only a few pats of butter, a spoonful of sour cream or a sprinkling of cheese to add an exciting flavor to an ordinary food, according to home economists at the American Dairy Association.

You make good use of your time, too, baking the entire vegetable and dessert in the oven at one time.

OVEN-BAKED CHICKEN

2 broiler-fryer chickens (2½-3 lbs. each), quartered
2 cans (10½ oz. each) condensed cream of chicken soup
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Place chicken in single layer in jelly roll pan, skin side up. In a bowl blend soup and cheese; spread evenly over chicken. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven one and one-quarter to one and one-half hours or until chicken is tender and brown. Remove chicken to warm platter; spoon sauce over chicken or use as drippings for gravy. Makes 6-8 servings.

CHICKEN MILK GRAVY:

One and one-half cups drippings
Two cups milk One-third to one-half cup all-purpose flour
In a saucepan combine drippings with one and one-half cups milk; heat over medium heat. Meanwhile in a small bowl gradually add one-half cup milk to flour, stirring until smooth. Gradually add flour mixture to hot milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cook 2 additional minutes.

BUTTER-BROWNE POTATOES

Four large baking potatoes
Six tablespoons (¾ stick) butter
Salt
Pepper

Chopped parsley

Peel potatoes; cut in half lengthwise and dry with absorbent toweling. In oven melt butter in shallow two-quart baking dish; roll potatoes in butter to coat thoroughly. Arrange in dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover tightly with foil. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven one hour and fifteen minutes or until tender and browned. Garnish with parsley. Makes 6-8 servings.

SWEET SOUR RED CABBAGE

Two quarts shredded red cabbage (2 lb. head)
One cup chopped cooking apple
One-half cup water
One-quarter cup firmly packed light brown sugar
One-half teaspoon salt
One-quarter teaspoon allspice
One-half cup white vinegar
One-quarter cup (½ stick) butter, softened

In 3-quart saucepan combine cabbage, apple, water, brown sugar, salt and all spice. Cover and bring to a boil; then reduce heat to simmer and cook 8-10 minutes or until cabbage and apples are tender. Remove from heat; add vinegar and butter, tossing lightly to mix. Makes 6-8 servings.

CINNAMON FRUIT COBBLER

BISCUIT TOPPING:

Two cups buttermilk biscuit mix
One tablespoon sugar
One-half cup milk
Three tablespoons butter, melted
Two tablespoons sugar

FRUIT MIXTURE:

One can (16 oz.) sliced peaches
One can (13 ¼ oz.) pineapple tidbits
One-third cup sugar
Four teaspoons cornstarch
One -quarter teaspoon almond extract
Light cream or half and half

To prepare Topping: In a bowl mix together biscuit mix and one tablespoon sugar. Add two tablespoons butter to milk; stir with fork into biscuit mixture until thoroughly blended. On lightly floured surface roll out to measure 9x9-inches. Brush with one tablespoon melted butter. Combine two tablespoons sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle over dough. Roll as for jelly roll; wrap and chill. To prepare Fruit Mixture: Drain peaches and pineapple, reserving one and one-half cups syrup. In a 2-quart saucepan combine sugar and cornstarch; gradually stir in fruit syrup. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened and clear. Add fruit and almond extract; bring to boil. Turn into shallow 2-quart baking dish. Cut biscuit roll into 6 or 8 slices; place on top of fruit mixture. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven 30-35 minutes. Serve warm with half and half. Makes 6-8 servings.

Doing Own Shades Saves Dollars

By Joanne Schreiber

Take a look at your lampshades.

Are they dingy, dirty, dented? If so, they can drag down the looks of a whole room. It's an easy matter to refurbish a shade and add a crisp, fresh decorating note to your home.

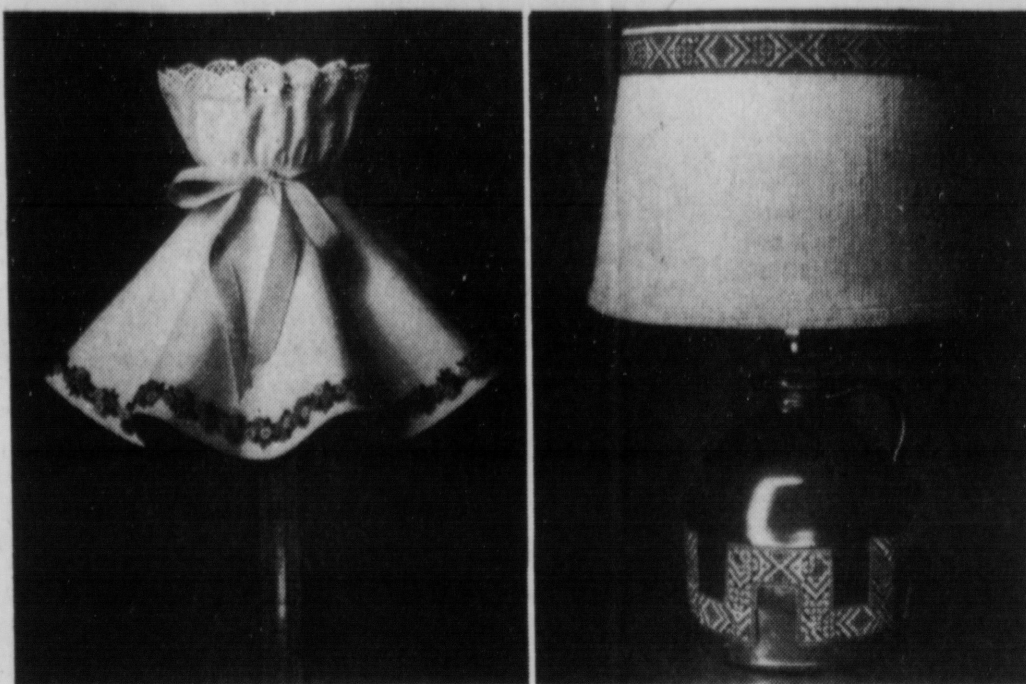

A good, fabric-covered lampshade from a custom lamp shop is an expensive proposition. You have two inexpensive approaches to your lampshade problem: you can either buy an inexpensive shade and decorate it with faces and trims or you can strip the covering from your original frame and recover it with new fabric.

All sorts of trimmings are available to decorate your lampshades. The experts at St. Louis Trimmings suggest peasant braid for a tailored burlap shade, brightly colored gimp braid for a drum shade, ribbon and eyelet for a boudoir lamp and Venice lace with pearl-studded metallic braid for a formal shade. You can even recreate the Tiffany era with deep silky fringe at the bottom of the shade.

If you plan to make your own fabric cover, test the fabric first, by holding it to the light to see the effect of the light on the texture or pattern. Lightweight, firmly woven cottons are appropriate almost anywhere. Burlap is a good choice for a boy's room. Taffeta or faille may be used in a formal living room setting. If you select a patterned material be sure the pattern is repeated elsewhere in the room and use a plain trim. A plain fabric may take a decorative trim, but that, too, should be repeated for a coordinated effect.

It's easy to cover a lampshade. Basically, it's done like any other kind of slipcover: pin-fitting, stretching and smoothing for perfect fit. The wire frame must first be bound with white twill tape, so that the Lampshades can be dainty or tailored, depending upon choice of trimmings. Cover them yourself or add custom touches to store-bought shades.

ABOUT ANTIQUES

Moss Rose Pattern

Moss Rose is a type of flower decoration that was once widely used by many manufacturers as a central theme on tablewares and other items of china. Dating from the early years of the nineteenth century, it retained its popularity until the turn of the present century.

The Moss Rose was a very popular garden flower, taking its name from the moss-like fuzz which covers the outer surface of the unopened buds. Nearly two dozen varieties were grown extensively, both outdoors and indoors, with their cultivation skyrocketing to fad proportions. It should have been no surprise when an alert manufacturer seized upon the idea of reproducing the popular bloom as a central theme on his chinaware. The Moss Rose Pattern China was an immediate success, and its wide appeal motivated a great many other china companies to jump on the bandwagon.

The decoration usually took the form of a large spray on the sides of tea pots, sugars, creamers, vases and other upright pieces. Plates were usually decorated with a spray of two, and colored rims were popular. The flowers were large and impressive, colored from pink to deep rose with green buds and leaves, and with stems often included in shades of brown.

There were many variations of the Moss Rose Pattern, each factory having its own special design. All through the nineteenth century, considerable quantities of Moss Rose dinner services, tea sets, biscuit jars, dresser and toilet sets, trays, pitchers and mustache cups were exported to America from France and the Staffordshire district of England. Although many of the earlier pieces carry no trademark, others can be found carrying such well-known makers' names as W. H. Grindley, Haviland, Meakin and Mason. One rather attractive open-handled, red-rimmed cake plate, in ironstone, carries the trademark of an American company, Knowles, Taylor and Knowles.

The majority of Moss Rose China is of high-quality porcelain, with delightful form and coloring. Prices are still moderate, with a cup and saucer or a cake plate selling for around $15.00.

To Bathe or Not to Bathe . . .

A fever or cold is no reason for a child to forego a bath—or a shampoo, either—assuming the room is warm, Virginia E. Pomeranz, MD, writes in "The First Five Years."

The idea of keeping infants and children out of bath tubs when they were ill was valid "in the days before heated homes—and particularly heated bathrooms," Dr. Pomeranz writes. "A child who was already sick would be subjected to the additional discomfort of emerging from a warm bath into the icy air."

Now, she says, there's no reason to deny a child a tub bath. For that matter, a bath can serve therapeutic purposes: a 30-minute bath in lukewarm water can bring down his fever, and playing in the water "will do a good deal to refresh him and perk up his spirits."

Although a bath may refresh a child, it will not likely affect his running nose and stuffiness. Dr. Pomeranz advises parents to use nose drops and sprays to clear their children's nasal congestion.

Although the pediatrician approves of tub baths and writes that they may help a child's spirits, she adds that they probably aren't necessary.

Saugerties Week of Prayer Rites

SAUGERTIES

The Saugerties Area Council of Churches will conduct an ecumenical service in conjunction with The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity tonight 7:30 at the Saugerties Reformed Church.

The Week of Prayer is being observed through Jan. 25. A social hour will follow the service.

The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity grew from both Roman Catholic and Protestant sources. In 1908, Father Paul Watson, founder of the Atonement Franciscan Friars of Graymoor set aside the 8-day period from Jan. 18-25 as an annual time of prayer for Christian unity. The Week was then called the "Church Unity Octave."

Meanwhile, the "Faith and Order" movement had begun, and worldwide activity was underway which would culminate in the formation of the World Council of Churches. In 1920 the World Council called for a week of prayer at Pentecost for unity.

Silver Jubilarian

ESOPUS

Sister Mary Anne Reed, OSSR, of Our Mother of Perpetual Help Monastery, Esopus, will mark the 25th anniversary of her profession on Jan. 25. Bishop Philippe Lussier, CSSR, a family friend and spiritual guide, will travel from Quebec to be the principal celebrant, with other Redemptorists, of the Eucharistic liturgy at which Sister will renew her vows. Originally of Warren, Mich., Sr. Mary Anne entered the Order of Our Holy Redeemer in Toronto, Canada, in 1947, and received the red habit of a Redemptoristine from the hands of Bishop Lussier. Wholly oriented toward contemplation, this Order is footed in the gospel and centered in the person of Jesus Christ. Its members strive, in the power of the Spirit, to radiate the love of the Father through ever deeper union with Christ. They share their historical beginnings with the Redemptorists—18th century Italy—and form on one spiritual family with them.

The Toronto community was founded from England in 1947, only a few months before Sr. Mary Anne entered. Ten years later, together with five companions, four of whom were Americans, Sister came to Esopus, to make the first Redemptoristine foundation in the United States. Since that time, Sister Mary Anne has continued to serve the community with generosity and fidelity.

All who may wish to share this jubilee celebration with the Sisters are welcome. The Eucharistic liturgy will take place in the monastery chapel at 3 p. m. Jan. 25, and refreshments will be served in the parlor afterwards.

In 1941, Faith and Order changed its dates to coincide with the January week of prayer so that Christians of various denominations and churches would unite at one time in prayer for reunion.

In 1964 the World Council and the Christian Unity Association of Lyon began to use the same prayer leaflets for the Week of Prayer. But it wasn't until 1966 that a common prayer leaflet was prepared by all interested groups—American Protestants, Orthodox, and Roman Catholics.

The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity is sponsored by the Department Of Faith and Order of the National Council of Churches and the Graymoor Ecumenical Institute.

Members of the Saugerties Church Council worship and Christian Education Committee are Kenneth Blundell, St. Mary of the Snow Church; Elder John V. Drews, Flatbush Reformed Church; the Rev. Karl A. Eberhardt, St. Paul's Lutheran Church, West Camp; the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, St. Mary of the Snow and Elder Chester E. Wolven, Saugerties Reformed Church.

Additionally Sister has vast experience in Religious Education for children through Confraternity of Christian Doctrine.

Sister Dorothy has been meeting with teachers in county parishes and offering help where requested. She plans periodic meetings with parish coordinators to share ideas, make inter-parochial plans and to find out the needs of students.

She reports regularly at Ulster County Clergy meetings and with the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly of St. Mary of the Snow parish, Saugerties, regional director of CCD for Ulster County, she seeks to bring the central office in New York and the Branch office in Kingston into a working relationship.

Immediate plans call for teacher training course on the junior high level to begin in February and additional visual aid materials to be made available in the county. An open house and dedication is planned for the spring.

Sister Dorothy is no stranger to Ulster County or to religious education. A graduate of Mt. St. Vincent College in New York City, she entered the Daughters of Mary, Health of the Sick in 1939, and was known as Sister Mary Regina. This was a new community seeking the medical and catechetical apostolate in the home and foreign missions.

In 1957, Sister was one of three sent to open a religious education center in Ellenville, from which both St.

Mary-St. Andrew in Ellenville and Immaculate Conception Parish in Woodburne were staffed.

Once the ground work was done and the parishes able to maintain their own programs under the supervision of the Sisters, Sister Mary Regina (now Sister Dorothy) and the others branched out to train teachers in other parishes, give parent preparation sessions, and generally serve as consultants in CCD work.

NEW YORK

Florida is more than just a state. It's a state of mind.

The moment the vacationer deplanes from his National Airlines jet, no matter which resort he's visiting, his day-to-day cares somehow slip away under the warm Florida sun. In their place, he's caught up by that very special magic—the zest for life, leisure, and just plain fun—that makes the Sunshine State the Pleasure Capital of America.

National Airlines serves all of Florida's top resorts with convenient flights from New York. And this includes wide-bodied DC-10 and Boeing 747 service.

Miami Beach, of course, is still Florida's — If not the nation's — No. 1 vacation attraction. With so many different things to see and do, the only real problem the vacationer faces is where to find the time to see and do them all.

Day and night, The Beach's action is non-stop. The vacationer can swim in the ocean or his hotel pool. He can scuba dive; go deep-sea fishing; play tennis; challenge the resort's many fine golf courses; bicycle; hike; and enjoy a broad spectrum of other recreational activities. And, to be sure, he can also visit the many fine shops that have made Miami Beach one of the nation's foremost shopping centers.

For the sporting crowd, there are several horse and greyhound racing tracks, plus a major jai-alai fronton. The sightseer, moreover, may see Miami from a blimp, boat, bus, bike, aquafoil, helicopter, auto—or the best way, on foot.

Night life? Miami Beach swings with the best of them. The resort boasts dozens of gourmet restaurants and bouncy night spots, many of them featuring the biggest names in entertainment today.

Only 20 minutes from Miami, meanwhile, is Key Biscayne. Peaceful, placid, and unhurried, the resort offers mile-upon-mile of uncrowded golden beach, plus tree-shrouded lanes, just ideal for bicycling, hiking, and picnicking.

Right in Miami's backyard are the Everglades—a sub-tropical fastness inhabited by birds, animals, and fish of every description. Also living deep within the Everglades are the unsundered Seminole, who fish, hunt, and go about their daily pursuits just as they've done for centuries.

A Trip through the Everglades is a truly unforgettable experience. And the vacationer who doesn't tote his camera and plenty of color film will always regret it, since the Everglades are a photographer's paradise.

Beyond the Everglades, yet still within easy driving distance of Miami, are the famed Florida Keys, stretching for over 100 miles to the southwest. (Remember a sinister Humphrey Bogart, skulking his way through the movie masterpiece, "Key Largo?" Largo is a part of the Florida Keys.) The Keys are linked by a remarkable highway—actually, the largest longest over-the-ocean expressway in the world.

A drive along Highway 1 is a trip the traveler will long remember. He'll see vegetation, birds, animals, and fish he won't find anywhere else. If he's a fisherman, moreover, he'll be able to test his skill and stamina against a variety of rugged game fish, which just don't quit easily.

Four Bedrooms in This Ranch

By JACK McELENENY

PROVIDENCE, R.I.

A basic problem common to many families when they are in the market for a new home, is enough bedrooms. The average ranch house, as a rule, contains three bedrooms. But it is a fact that the average American family has need for at least four bedrooms. Construction costs of a four bedroom house are usually beyond the financial capacity of the prospective homeowners. Today's house feature, called "The Ardent," is a new design concept that provides four bedrooms and at the same time holds down construction costs to a very minimum.

In complete focus with this type of planning is the location of the family-type kitchen and full bath on the right side. This area is built on slab forming a step-down from the living room, thus further reducing construction costs. All of the bedrooms open from the family room, thus completely eliminating any hallway. This is where the functional aspect of the new plan concept comes into play. Hallways, sometimes classed as wasted space, have been completely eliminated from "The Ardent" plan with this practical scheme to make the most of the space available.

Also of note is the substitution of a family room for the living room. The family room and bedroom areas are over a full basement with the basement stairs leading down from the kitchen area.

The exterior makes use of stock double hung type windows and common shingles all around. Overall dimensions of "The Ardent" design are 50 feet long with a depth of 21 feet 6 inches on the left side and 20 feet on the right side. The entire living area of this four bedroom house contains the unbelievable amount of 1,051 square feet.

To save even more money on construction costs the architect drew a rectangular foundation and cantilevered the rear section of the floor 1 foot 6 inches over the wall. If need be, the front could be handled the same way to enlarge the family room and front bedroom.

Complete building plans of "Ardent" design are available at the moderate cost of $15 for the first set and $12 for additional sets, plus 50 cents to cover cost of postage and handling, by writing to the Associated Blueprint Co., 595 Plainfield St., Providence, R.I. 02909. Booklets containing past newspaper features are available, consisting of Split Levels, Capes, Colonials, Two-bedroom Ranches, Three-bedroom Ranches and Raised Ranches for 50 cents each and a brand new Popular Home Booklet for 75 cents.

Farming by Non-Farm Taxpayers

Income tax reporting time for farmers comes earlier than for most other business and individual returns. Farmers who chose to file an estimated tax by Jan. 15, 1975 have until April 15, 1975, to make a final return on form 1040. However, most farmers elect to file a complete return by March 3, 1975. The part-time or Hobby Farmer may not qualify as a bona fide farm operation and must treat income from farming as "other income". To help answer the question on how to determine if one is eligible for reporting as a farm enterprise, the following information may be of help.

The I.R.S. code states that losses from an activity which is not engaged in for profit cannot be deducted against income from other sources (Code Section 183). A taxpayer whose farming activity is being subsidized by non-farm income must have a profit motive in order to fully deduct farm losses against other incomes.

The most convincing way to demonstrate the profit motive is to show a profit. The 1969 code says that if a taxpayer is engaged in an activity which shows a profit for two out of five consecutive years, it will be presumed that he was engaged in the activity for profit, and it will be up to I.R.S. to show that he was not. If the activity consists of breeding, training, showing or racing horses, the taxpayer only needs to show a profit in two of seven consecutive years to have the presumption in his favor. When profit does not result in two of the specified number of years the burden to prove the profit motive will be on the taxpayer.

Most cash basis taxpayers should be able to use enough wise taxmanship to show two profit years within the specified periods defined above. The two profit years do not have to occur consecutively. Since the presumption period started with 1970, the taxpayer has until 1976, under present law, to have two years of profit. Receipts from the sale of cattle and horses are considered as full income to determine a profit year.

If the taxpayer cannot show enough profit from his farming activity to have the presumption in his favor, he may still have enough evidence to prove the profit motive. Factors that I.R.S. normally consider include the following:

The businesslike manner in which the taxpayer carries on his farming activity.

The expertise of the taxpayer or his advisors.

Hiring of a professional farm manager.

The time and effort expended by the taxpayer in carrying on the activity.

The taxpayer's pursuit of knowledge concerning the activity.

Expectation that assets used may appreciate in value (land).

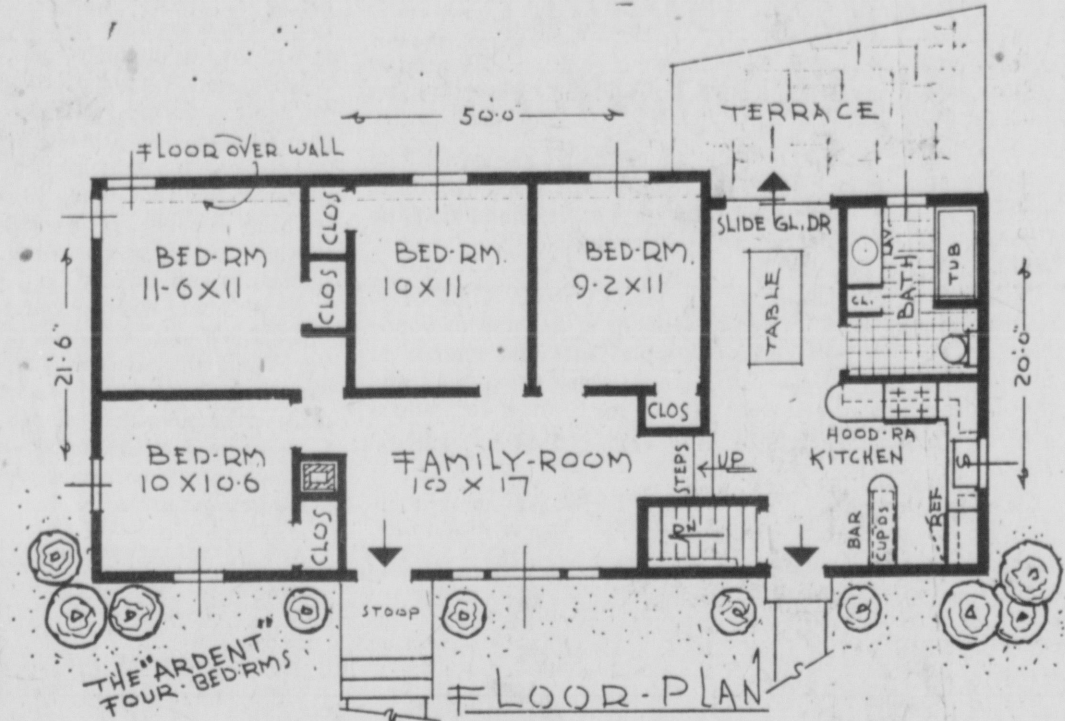

The existence and use of recreational facilities on the farm.

Residence of the taxpayer on or near the farm.

The amount of profits in relationship to losses and the amount of income from non-farm sources.

Recent tax court rulings indicate that the above list contains most but not all of the items which will be considered in determining the taxpayer's intent. It also appears that the taxpayer need only be able to prove that he had a genuine — not a reasonable — intention of making a profit. The distinction is indeed important, as many taxpayer's without farm experience do invest in farm enterprises under the mistaken impression that they have a reasonable chance of profiting from the investment.

To assist farmers and non-farmers in preparing returns, dealing with farming, we suggest obtaining a copy of the Farmer's Tax Guide (1975 edition) free of charge from the Cooperative Extension Office, 74 John Street, Kingston. For more specific questions it is suggested that individuals make use of the designated days for assistance by the Internal Revenue Service office in Kingston — Office hours 8:15 a.m.-4:14 p.m. Monday through Friday, 259 Fair Street.

Bud Watching in Winter

STAMFORD, CONN.

Bud watching is more than a winter pastime, and can often determine the health of the tree. Buds that will burst next spring to make the world green again all have been packaged and protected from freezing, according to Robert A. Bartlett Jr., president of the F. A. Bartlett Tree Expert Co.

Buds are a tree's winter architecture, arranged in geometrical order. Each contains the miniature of next year's shoot and leaf, folded and sealed with a water-proof covering. Nature supplies just enough moisture and air to keep it alive.

Watching buds now and all through the winter, and as they swell next spring will give a clue to tree health. If the buds are full and fulsome, health is good. If they are puny and dried out in appearance, health is on the decline. Plan to feed the tree now or any time during the winter when the ground is not frozen.

Notice the twig growth. Measure the distance between the tip of a twig and below the terminal bud scar.

This is the growth made last season. Compare this with the growth made the preceding season, and the season before that, by simply tracing the distance between terminal bud scars. If the rate (or distance) of growth has been getting less in recent years, the tree needs pepping up. Feeding with a good tree food will do this.

Trees usually bud profusely a huge elm may have millions of buds right now. Squirrels will feast on some, winds may knock off some and birds may eat some. If a tree is in good health, enough will remain.

Mediterranean Styling to Homes in All Price Ranges

Americans have long had a love affair with Spanish or Mediterranean architecture and design.

Unfortunately, however, room configurations, the availability of furnishings, and the expense involved in creating a truly authentic room setting, limited this style of decor to only a very few. The dawn of the do-it-yourself era and the market it created has changed all of this.

Styrofoam and balsa wood beaming, relatively inexpensive furniture and furnishings, and now even a prefabricated wall paneling which simulates hantroweled stucco have brought Mediterranean styling to homes in all price ranges.

One family, living in a large old apartment, was able to achieve an outstanding effect, in the dining room through the combination of some Spanish-type furniture and old world accessories with some modern-day wall, floor and ceiling materials.

Starting with the walls, the family used Masonite brand Casa Blanca paneling to achieve the look of genuine stucco. The hardboard paneling comes in 4x8 sheets and can be applied with adhesive over any smooth wall surface.

Dark oak-stained styrofoam beams were used on the walls and ceiling as a stunning accent for the white walls.

A self-stick vinyl floor was laid to simulate Mexican tile. It replaced worn linoleum. The old chandelier was replaced by a wrought iron Mexican style fixture.

Matching Chairs

A round Mahogany-stained wood table and four matching chairs, with straw seats served as seating for the room.

A server was built into a recess in the wall; a matching hutch was purchased to provide needed storage.

Accents were selected for their authenticity and include colorful wrought iron statues and ceramic trinkets.

Even dishes and drinking vessels were selected to lend to the authenticity. Ironstone plates and pewter mugs were chosen.

Consumers Switching...
Higher HP Disposers

CHICAGO (NFS)—A trend toward the installation of garbage disposers that both carry a higher price and include more rugged features may be developing.

A survey released in late 1974 by the In-Sink-Erator Division, Emerson Electric Co., Racine Wis., indicates that homeowners and apartment managers who have had prior experience with a garbage disposer tend to get models with higher horsepower the second time around.

This is particularly true when the disposer is going to replace one that is worn out or is part of a remodeling project.

According to Ernest J. Prialux, vice president-consumer product service of In-Sink-Erator, higher horsepower garbage disposers both cost more and do more.

"Because of the strenght of the motor, they jam less frequently and they ordinarily have a longer life," Prialux said.

"Often, when you look at other appliances, you find the basic mechanism is the same. The more expensive models simply have more conveniences.

"This isn't necessarily true with garbage disposers. The more costly models may have such features as higher horsepower, instant starting action, reversing action and other features that cause the disposer to operate more efficiently."

Prialux pointed out that most of the major disposer manufacturers have models in varying price ranges.

"Further, most disposer manufacturers make budget models primarily for those segments of the new construction market where pricing is a big factor," Prialux said.

"However, very often, potential customers aren't given a choice between the budget and higher priced models."

Prialux suggests that anyone in the market for a disposer examine all the models within a given brand and choose accordingly.

Snow on Roof a Very Good Sign

BERKELEY HEIGHTS, N.J.

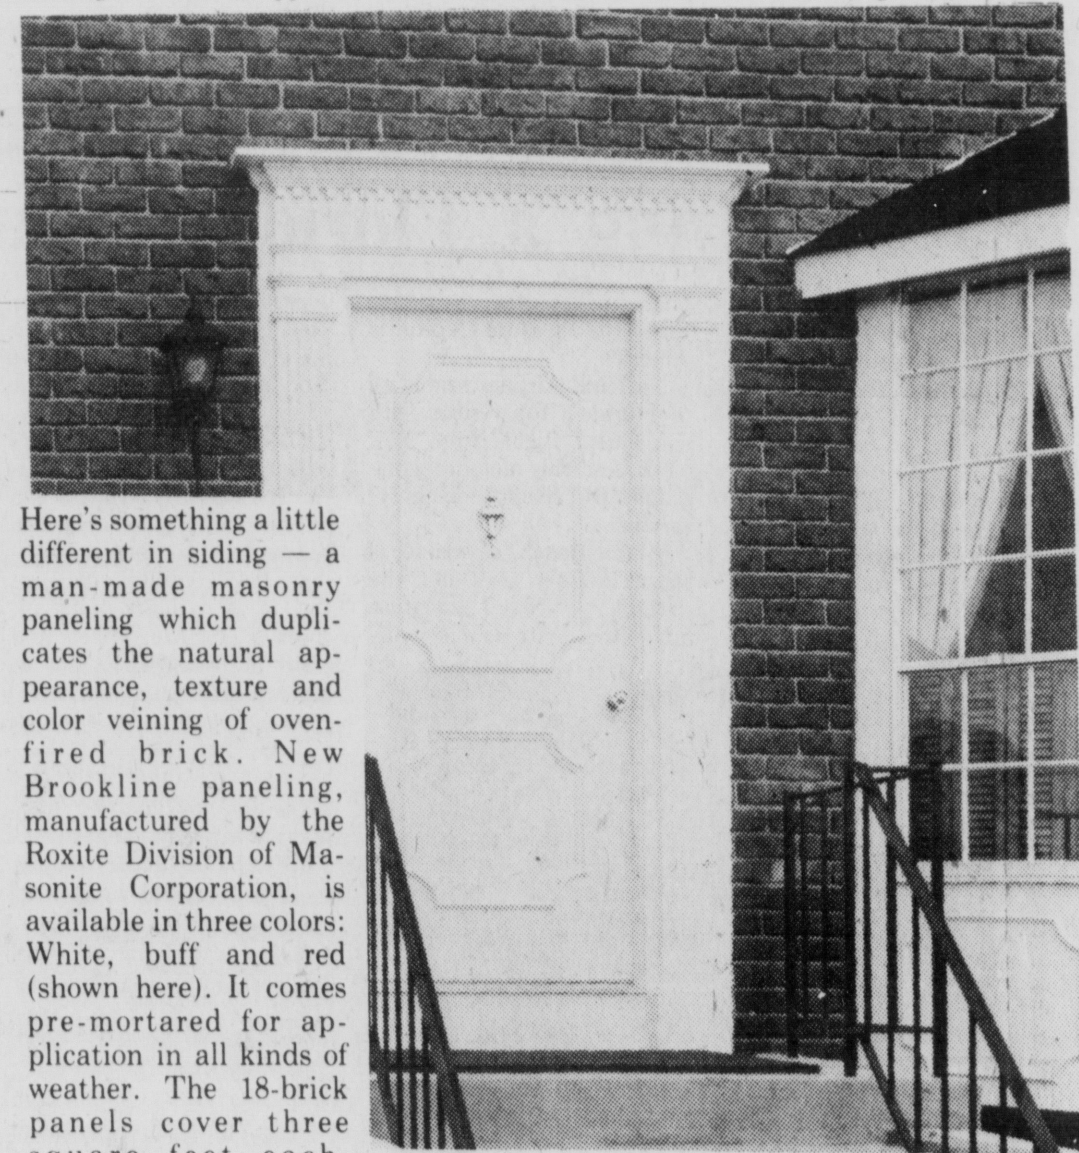

Is there snow on your roof for several days after a snowstorm? If so, that's a good indication that your house is well insulated, says the National Better Heating-Cooling Council. More important, it means that heat for which you are spending hard-earned money is staying in the house.

Insulation is a recognized agent in reducing heat loss to keep a house warmer in the winter. For a maximum effectiveness, it should be installed properly—to hang or lie straight without sagging. A well designed house is insulated on all outer walls, the uppermost ceilings, and around the foundations to protect ground-level rooms. Floors above crawl spaces and unheated garages also require protection.

Insulation is also helpful in keeping the home cooler in the summer time. Some insulation has aluminum foil backing because aluminum is known to reflect heat. This is added protection to keep the heat within the home in the winter and outside in the summer.

Inasmuch as insulation reduces the total heat loss of the house, it also cuts down on the amount of heating equipment. If you have hydronic (hot water) heating, this eans a smaller boiler and less baseboard heating panels.

Here's something a little different in siding — a man-made masonry paneling which duplicates the natural appearance, texture and color veining of oven-fired brick. New Brookline paneling, manufactured by the Roxite Division of Masonite Corporation, is available in three colors: White, buff and red (shown here). It comes pre-mortared for application in all kinds of weather. The 18-brick panels cover three square feet each. Matching outside corners assure proper spacing and alignment; a special step-joint interlock provides concealed joints and weather-tight protection. The new inter-lock is operative on all four-sides of panel, eliminating the need for touch-up on exposed joints. An accessory, Edgebrick, is available for use on window ledges and as a cap on wainscoting. Brookline, as all Roxite paneling, is made of 60 per cent crushed stone and reinforced with fiberglass.

Gossip Column

Q: Two of my favorite high-fashion models seem to have dropped out of sight. Do you know what happened to Jean Shrimpton and that tall drink of water, Verushka?—E.J., Bayville, N. Y.

A. Jean has been living out in the country in England with her boy friend, Malcolm Richey, in a little cottage she bought. She's had some tax troubles and may be back at work to pick up some extra cash. Verushka suffered a bad fall in Greece and has not been modeling. She's better now and you'll be seeing fashion pictures of her soon.

Q: What can you tell us about that dark, handsome midget in the new James Bond movie, "The Man With the Golden Gun"?—K.D., Mill Valley, Calif.

A. You mean 31-year-old Herve Villechaize, who was born in France. His parents sent him from doctor to doctor for years in the hope that some cure could be found for his slow rate of growth. Finally giving up, they agreed to let him study art in New York and from that Herve switched to acting. Villechaize is quite a ladies' man. He's both witty and charming—which seems to make up for the fact that he's barely three feet tall.

Q: Why has Betty Furness given up doing TV commercials? I miss her.—J.P., Miami, Fla.

A. Miss Furness feels that since she was in charge of consumer affairs for both President Johnson and Governor Rockefeller of New York, that any kind of commercial sponsorship would damage her integrity as a consumer watchdog. It has cost her hundreds of thousands of dollars refusing the many offers she receives.

Q: I read that Chris Wilding and Lisa Todd spent Christmas in Los Angeles with their mother, Elizabeth Taylor. How come her oldest son Michael wasn't there?—T.P., Huntsville, Ala.

A. Michael, 21, is reluctant to leave the supportive atmosphere of the hippie commune in Wales he calls home. Recently, however, he has been playing saxophone and flute and singing in a London nightclub with a rock group he formed at the commune.

U.S. $20 Gold Double Eagle

The highest denomination in U.S. gold coins was designed by James B. Longacre in 1849. As with other of the Longacre sculptures, his daughter Sarah posed for the coroneted bust.

As a coin of the realm, the Double Eagle was authorized by the Act of March 3, 1849 and discontinued under the Gold Reserve Act of Jan. 30, 1934, without any increase or reduction in weight or fineness during that 85-year period.

Only two minor points differentiate between the Double Eagle of 1849 to 1866 and the one issued between 1866 and 1876—the addition of the motto "In God We Trust" and a slight change in the configuration of the shield on the latter. Otherwise, both coins are the same.

Double Eagles, in contrast, are among the most commonly collected gold series by date. This may seem a bit surprising in view of the many high-priced rarities contained in both the Liberty head (Coronet) and Saint-Gaudens standing Liberty.

The $20 gold piece was issued continuously from 1850 through 1933 with the exception of three years during the U.S. involvement in World War I. The series consists of many short issues but it also contains several extremely large issues readily available to the collector/investor.

Coins of the Civil War period are difficult to obtain, and virtually any date of that period in About Uncirculated condition or better is a real collector's item. Although there are exceptions, the relationship of price to rarity is much more accurate with Double Eagles than Eagles or Quarter Eagles.

Brilliant Uncirculated Liberty head $20 gold pieces dated prior to 1890 are well worth saving. Especially those struck at the Philadelphia Mint in 1869 and 1870, because they are particularly undervalued. Carson City coins are very popular and one of the prime rarities of the series.

Other underrated coins in the Liberty head variety are the 1891 and 1891-CC (Carson City). Both are very rare in all grades and the opportunity to buy a choice Brilliant Uncirculated specimen is most difficult indeed.

Several of the later date Philadelphia Mint coins offer interesting possibilities to the investor because they have markedly lower mintages than their contemporaries. The dates are 1898, 1901 and particularly the 1902, 1905 and 1906.

The 1902 for example, has a mintage of about 5 per cent of that of the 1904 and yet it sells for only twice as much. The difference in the mintage is an accurate gauge of availability because there are hundreds of choice Brilliant Uncirculated 1904s for every 1902.

Many $20 gold pieces of both the Liberty head and Standing Liberty design are known to be fake. Most are produced in the Middle East, particularly Lebanon, and collectors or investors should exercise caution in buying either type without a certificate of authentication or similar means of assurance that the coin or coins purchased are genuine.

The Henry Regency Company, publishers of my new book "COINS/an Investor's & Collector's Guide" have moved their offices to 180 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60601. Orders for the book ($12.95) should be directed to that address, and not to this column.

The reason is that if West held five-four he might well elect to play the five instead of the four. If he held jack-four he would automatically play the four. Roughly, he would play the four from five-four about half the time so it was twice as likely that the actually played four came from jack-four and that the jack was left in the West hand.

We didn't bother with the possibility that West held the possibility that West held all three trumps because there was no way to make the slam against that combination. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Dr. Lawrence E. Lamb

ABCs on Distilled Water

DEAR DR. LAMB—What is your opinion of distilled water used for drinking regularly just as you would any water and using it for cooking as well? I have read in a book written by a doctor that it is good for arthritis, hardening of the arteries, kidney stones, gall stones, cataracts, glaucoma, loss of hearing, diabetes, obesity, emphysema, etc. Can it be possible that distilled water can do that much? This doctor claims that the mixtures in city water supplies today are similar to rat poison.

DEAR READER—It annoys me when I see the public being misinformed by grossly unscientific statements and even given information that can be harmful to their health. I don't know what the man's qualifications are who wrote the book you describe, but I can tell you right now that if he claims half of what you describe, he is not considered a reputable medical doctor by his colleagues. There are all kinds of doctors, and the title doesn't even mean the man is trained in the medical field. He could have a doctor's degree in chemistry, not medicine. He should have one in the art of shady practices.

Any time you see any medicine or cure advertised as a cure-all, hang on to your wallet. The quack cures sold or used in the treatment of arthritis alone is a multimillion dollar business. In that long list you included there are only two that distilled water might help. It might help to wash out minerals that are involved in kidney stone formation, and adequate amounts of any water to induce adequate urine formation will do as well. The other is obesity, if water is used instead of calories, which can be accomplished by tap water. There is some evidence that the minerals in some water sources, specifically what is called hard water, help to decrease the likelihood of having heart attacks — by a very small amount.

There is nothing wrong with distilled water. It makes good coffee and tea in localities where the available water has an undesirable flavor. However, since it contains no chlorine or chemicals to destroy bacteria, it will become contaminated with germs and can become harmful if not kept under sterile conditions. Boiling it will solve this problem, as you would do in making tea or coffee. For safety it should be boiled for 10 minutes. Many tea-drinking nations of the world have literally survived because they boiled water. Certainly in many parts of India drinking the local water without boiling would be disastrous.

Most city water supplies are quite safe, and from a health point of view are in no way dangerous. There are apparently a few communities who have water supplies that may be marginal. The water supplies are under fairly good control and must meet U.S. Public Health standards. If for any reason you fear it may be contaminated with germs, it can be boiled. If you use distilled water or bottled mineral water, keep it in the refrigerator and if you keep it very long, you had better boil it before using it for consumption. Cooking and boiling serve a very useful health purpose, killing germs that can cause human disease. Food and water supplies are age-old vehicles for transmitting typhoid, cholera and innumerable diseases.

The World Around Us Explored at Ulster Academy

"The World Around Us," is the theme of Ulster Academy's second annual inter-semester program being offered for four weeks this month.

All courses are geared to help explain the communities, personal environment and self, according to acting Headmaster Thomas Gabriel.

"The program was so successful last year, we have made it part of our school facilities. There are so many things young people need and want to know besides regular high school curriculum," he explains.

"The inter-semester schedule enables our students to meet guest instructors from our area who are interesting, talented and gifted. Some parents either join our classes or offer lessons in a special field. We believe the mid-year break offers an added quality of learning."

Besides a variety of arts, crafts, and interesting courses, the January program at the Academy includes many assemblies featuring films, lectures and speakers from local communities.

Mid-Eastern Folk Dancing drew the largest response from Academy students. Dancing, folk lore, music and customs are all part of the course being taught by Ron Sanders of Woodstock.

Theatre workshop under the direction of Alphonse Apalategui, Academy drama director, also attracted many students. Acting, theatre technology, and student performances are all part of the course.

Perhaps the most unusual course is 'fire fighting', being taught by Rev. David Arnold of Woodstock; and Lt. William Schwerdtfeger, of Kingston Fire Department.

Father Arnold, pastor of St. Gregory's Episcopal Church of Woodstock, was a fireman with the Navy and later became a fire fighting instructor for the state of New York. He teaches Introduction to Fire Science at UCCC. Lt. Schwerdtfeger was his student at the college.

A course on the auto engine, with actual work on the parts of a car, use of parts manuals, and other important facts about autos is being taught by Mrs. Scully, head of the French Dept., at the Academy and an auto hobbyist.

Upper classmen have two thought provoking courses; Dante's Inferno, taught by Dr. John Mitchell, head of the English Dept.; and Consumer Law, taught by Josh Koplovitz of Woodstock.

Two community service projects offer several Academy students a chance to participate in area activities; Montesori School Volunteers and the Associated For Retarded Children's School volunteers.

Many students appear to be interested in knowing more about themselves and others with classes in three psychology course. Two introductory courses to psychology are held each morning by Dean Richard Gavitt and an afternoon class on personality by Dr. Harold Wise of Woodstock.

Included in the arts and crafts are drawing and calligraphy, and painting from the Masters, by Academy art director Nick Buhalis; Music, by Mrs. Rubin; Photography and Film Making, by Rudy Hopkins of the UA English Dept.; Knitting by Ann Browne and Dr. Mitchell; and silk screen printing by Wallace Jerominek.

Several stimulating courses for those interested in mind exercises include probability and statistics, by Lois Herman, head of the UA Math Dept.; Greek, by Rev. Richard Shepherd. Father Shepherd is with the History Dept. of the Academy. Also, Chess and Newspapers and Newsmakers, by Dean Richard Wolter; Math puzzles and Games, by Delores Dedek, of the math and science depts.; and astronomy, by Mr. Gabriel.

Tutorial work is also being offered to students who need extra assistance with regular studies.

Guest faculty donate their services to the Academy for the inter-semester program, the Headmaster says. If any course becomes especially popular and useful to students it may be added to the regular curriculum. Last year 'Bible,' became part of the school's program, after a trial during the inter-semester session.

AFS Student At World Forum

KINGSTON Klaus Eisterer of Austria, who is in Kingston on an American Field Service Scholarship for the 1974-75 school year, has been selected to attend the World Youth Forum in New York Jan. 18 to Feb. 11.

The forum is a short-term exchange opportunity for students spending the year in the United States with AFS, Youth for Understanding and International Christian Youth Exchange.

The purpose of the World Youth Forum is to broaden the students' understanding of this country and is offered only to those students who are not spending the year in the New York metropolitan area. The experience will act to complement the view of the United States which Klaus is receiving in the Kingston area.

While in the metropolitan area Klaus will be involved in school and class life just as he is here in Kingston. The host school will use delegates as resource people to speak about their countries and world affairs in schools and in the community.

Additionally there will be day-long seminars on topics of international and personal concerns, a visit to the United Nations, sight-seeing, attendance at Broadway plays and concerts. Social get togethers are planned also.

Newest 'Lab' In High School

NEW YORK (UPI) — The newest "lab" on the high school scene doesn't contain test tubes, microscopes or bottled frogs.

Rather, it contains the trappings of an insurance office, including switchboard, drapes, carpet, executive and clerical desks and chairs.

The "lab," hub of Project Invest, simulates an auto insurance company run by teen-age boys and girls. Students sell and service make-believe policies.

The program relies heavily on simulation for putting students in realistic business situations. They must make management decisions.

In the current school year in several dozen high schools from Miami to Los Angeles the students compete for fictitious clients and profits.

Project Invest stands for Insurance Vocational Student Training. It is a cooperative venture of independent insurance agents, other industry groups and schools.

Automobile insurance was selected as the product to hitchhike on student interest — or is it passion? — about cars.

Stephen Dach, of Los Angeles, described the project in an interview. He helped start it in California and now is head of development for the National Association of Insurance Agents.

Dach said the program was developed as a public service project to stimulate student interest in business, familiarize future consumers with insurance and recruit new talent for careers in insurance, starting right out of high school. In the Los Angeles area alone, according to Dach, 1,000 new persons are needed annually.

If a recent survey of more than 30,000 high school students in Miami is typical, only 34 high school students said they would select insurance as a career. The figure was much lower than those wanting to be morticians.

Youth in the News—Additional Honors

Academic achievement is high on the Youth in the News listings this week.

Louise E. Carlson has been awarded a $750 scholarship to the State University College at New Paltz for the 1974-75 academic year. The Charles F. Smason Memorial Scholarship was presented to Ms. Carlson by the Buttenwood Club, the society for senior members of the New York Stock Exchange.

Ms. Carlson is a transfer student to New Paltz where she is a sophomore studying "mainly French."

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carlson, 17 Ardsley Drive, New City. Mr. Carlson has been with the stock exchange for more than 15 years.

Dean's lists are being announced for the first semester and Youth in the News is happy to report a number of area students achieved high scholastic honors for the past session.

Mark L. Guido, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent R. Guido Sr. of 180 Sherry Lane, Kingston, has been named to dean's list at Hudson Valley Community College, Troy. A freshman, he is majoring in electrical engineering. He is a graduate of Kingston High School and Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services. At Hudson Valley he is co-chairman of the Ski Club.

Sale On, Sale On

By LEI

It's getting to be That Time of Year Again. A foreigner, passing through American business districts these days could come to the conclusion that American business was dominated by several chains of markets called "Clearance," "Price!" and "50 per cent Off All Clothing." Just after the average consumer has spent him or herself broke on holiday gifts, the stores start an early spring housecleaning. The rare teen (or adult) who had the foresight to save a little money in December will find it goes a long way now. Unfortunately, some of the places it may go can be pretty strange.

There is something about a sign that reads "Clearance" that befogs reasoning ability. A teen who would never think of buying a magenta overcoat that was two sizes too small at $11, will gladly buy the same coat if it is 50 per cent off $30. The coat will still look awful, and cost even more. The quickest way to end the braless trend is to display a heap of them in a rusted shopping cart with a sign "Drastically reduced! 50' and up!" ("And up" to $5, but the sign won't mention that.) Boys with seven identical pairs of jeans in the closet will buy three more pair, two of which don't fit, if they are heaped on a counter with a poster above them, "Closing out! Regularly $40-$60, now only 3 pair for $20!" Well . . . perhaps that is a bit of an exaggeration, but not much of a one, and we all have the items in the closet to prove it!

As you've read through this paper, you've probably seen ads for several tempting sales. Now if it just snows some day next week so school is out, and you can get some spending stuff, you'll be headed for the store.

Remember that the stores are not advertising these bargains out of charity. For the last six months, operators in factories around the world have been producing the spring clothes. Just after Christmas, these are shipped for sale — the mail order catalogs are distributed, the mannequins are dressed in spring dresses, and as far as the store owner is concerned, winter is over. He needs his racks to display spring suits and lightweight sportswear. Unfortunately, these racks are still occupied by magenta overcoats, skating socks, stocking caps and waterproof boots. He can't store the leftovers until next winter — by then, most of them will be out of style, and besides, space is money, and it would cost more to store the goods than it would to sell them at a dollar or so above what he paid for them — or sometimes even at a loss.

This is a blessing to the consumer who, for instance, has four chilly months ahead, and really needs a warm coat. That is, it is a blessing if the customer chooses wisely. After all, if the coat doesn't fit, has a serious defect, or will be noticeably out of style by next winter, it won't be a bargain at all! And if you've got ten pairs of wool socks now, it may be doubtful economy to buy ten more pair just because they are half price.

A knowledge of trends will help you avoid getting stuck with clothing that will look great until spring, and then, in fall, will obviously be out-of-date. Classic looks, heather and mint colors, and simple, flowing lines seem to be ahead of the autumn of 1975. Belled pants, cuffs, and glitter and splash seem to be definitely on the way out of the picture. Tight straight jeans are becoming such a classic that you are unlikely to find them on sale anywhere.

Sneakers (that fit), leather gloves, belts, and sweatshirts are all season-spanning bargains you are likely to find. Many stores can't advertise everything they have on sale, so visit the stores that carry clothes you like, and see what odds-and-ends they are getting rid of. Records, gifts items, novelties, and toys are also on sale about now, and if you're patient enough to not try to ride it in the snow, this would be a good time to pick up a bargain in a bike.

Keep an eye out for a box where we can store these five pair of sneakers we got such a good buy on, to say nothing of the six sacks of Christmas candy, two windchimes, and three pair of waterproof boots . . . All we meant to buy was a typewriter ribbon.

"Who's going to listen to me? I'm just one voice."

Do you really think God is going to let you get away with that?

Of course, you'd like to help make the world a better place. Maybe you can't do it alone. But there's plenty you can do with others at your local church or synagogue. Example: one religious group helped the Navajos set up a cooperative trading post on their reservation. Now the Indians can purchase goods at a lower price. Even more important, they've learned that other people care about them. The God we worship expects all of us to help our brothers and sisters.

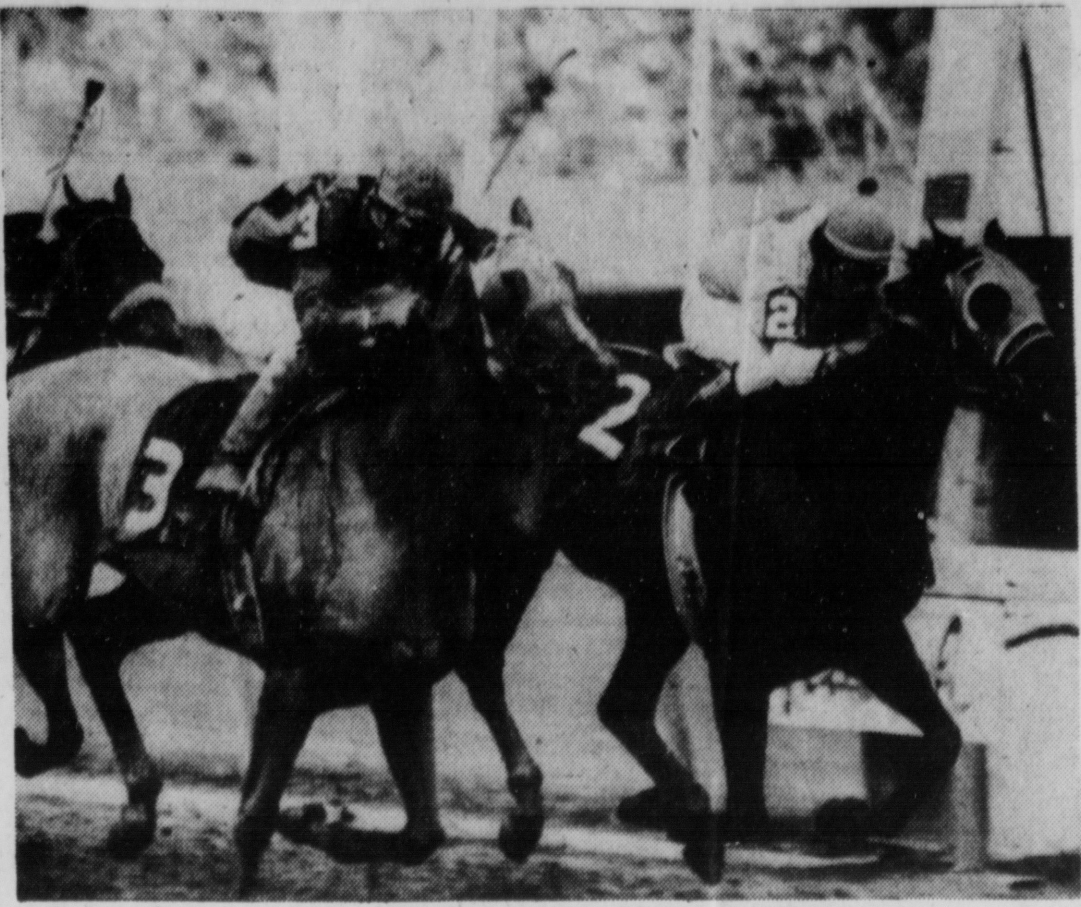

Start treating your brothers and sisters like brothers and sisters.

Pineda, Top Jockey, Killed In Santa Anita Mishap

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Alvaro Pineda, one of the nation's top jockeys, was killed in a freak accident at Santa Anita Saturday when his mount reared in the starting gate and pinned him in the stall, crushing his skull.

The 29-year-old Mexican-born Pineda was aboard inexperienced Austin Mittler prior to the fourth race when the colt reared and threw the jockey against the back of the stall.

A track spokesman said films showed Pineda was leaning over in the saddle to calm the 3-year-old colt when it suddenly jumped. Austin Mittler had only raced three times prior to the accident.

Pineda's skull was crushed against a metal bar in the stall, according to track officials. The jockey was pronounced dead a short time later at Arcadia Methodist Hospital.

Pineda's injury was described as a base fracture of the skull. Hospital spokesman said he was injured in an area below the part of the head protected by the helmet.

Pineda, who had ridden more than 2,500 winners worth over $12 million since coming to the United States from his native Guanajuato, Mexico, in 1964, was only the second jockey killed at Santa Anita. George Woolf was killed in a spill in 1946.

Santa Anita named its annual award for the track's most respected jockey after Woolf. Pineda won that award last year.

Pineda's close friend, jockey Laffit Pincay, asked to be relieved of his other mounts for the day after hearing of Pineda's death.

At the time of his death, Pineda trailed Pincay in the jockey standings at Santa Anita with 21 victories to Pincay's 28. Pineda's last major victory came a week ago aboard Lightning Mandate in a division of the Malibu Stakes.

Pineda, who scored his first win as a jockey on a Mexico City track in 1961, received national acclaim in 1967 when he finished second to Jorge Velasquez in national riding standings. Pineda had 419 victories that year.

A year later, Pineda's 329 wins again gave him second place, this time to Angel Cordero. Pineda won jockey championships at both Santa Anita and Hollywood Park in 1969.

Pineda, who suffered a number of minor injuries during his career, almost had to quit racing in 1971 when he accidentally plunged both arms through a glass door at his home. He was forced to sit out part of the season, but returned the next year.

Pineda is survived by his widow, Donna, and their two children, Matthew, 6, and Charlene, 2. The family lives in Marina Del Rey.

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Deane Beman, commissioner of the PGA's Tournament Players division, said Saturday an investigation is under way to determine if Tom Weiskopf gave his best effort "in a professional manner" during the second round of the $200,000 Dean Martin-Tucson Open.

Weiskopf reportedly fanned at the ball on the final hole Friday, taking a seven that put him two shots beyond the cut in the Tucson Open, and then left town, presumably heading for Pebble Beach, Calif. and next week's Crosby National Pro-Am.

Last year, Weiskopf was fined $1,000 by Beman for not giving his best effort in the PGA Championship, where he also failed to make the cut.

Beman said that because of Weiskopf's past history and the considerable public interest in the player's behavior, he is gathering information on what actually happened in the Tucson Open.

"No action will be taken at this time," the commissioner said, "until evidence is gathered in writing and reviewed."

Beman's decision is in keeping with the regulations of the Tournament Players Division, which not only are designed to protect the player's individual rights but also to give the commissioner authority to take disciplinary action if necessary.

Weiskopf placed 13th on the 1974 money winning list with earnings of $127,529. Weiskopf also failed to make the cut last week in the Phoenix Open, which launched the 1975 season.

at the Tucson National Golf Club, including a 66 by Don Iverson and 67s by Gene Littler, Arnold Palmer, J.C. Snead, Mike Hill and Tom Watson.

Thus, after 54 holes Miller has a 14-under-par score 202 and a comfortable lead over John Mahaffey as he takes aim on the $40,000 top prize. He won the Phoenix Open and $30,000 a week ago and, if he wins here and takes the Crosby National Pro-Am next week, he can become the first golfer in history to take the first three PGA events two years running.

Miller started the third round with a nine-under-par 135 and a one-stroke lead on Mahaffey and he wasted little time widening it by birdieing the second and third holes. Later he birdied the eighth, a 210-yard par three fronted by a lake that has been the downfall of many others, to make the turn in 33.

Coming back, Miller birdied the 11th, 13th and 15th holes, made his first mistake of the round by bogeying the 17th but finished with a par to wrap up his seventh round of the year under 70.

Mahaffey shot a three-under 69 but lost ground, as did everyone else in the field, including Palmer, who played his best round in the tournament and later said "I needed a round like this for my confidence." However, Arnie is far back at six-under 210.

Mahaffey's total was 11-under 205, one shot better than Watson and two ahead of Iverson, Littler, Hill, Leonard Thompson and Tommy Aaron.

Al Geiberger shot a 69 and was 209 while Palmer was tied at 210 with Dave Stockton, who had a 71, and Steve Melnyk, who had a 72.

Miller two-putted from 25 feet for his bird on the second hole, from seven feet for his bird on the third and from two and a half feet for his bird on the eighth. He rolled in a 15-footer on the 11th, a 20-footer on the 13th and chipped to within five feet for his final bird on the 15th.

"I lost some momentum near the end," Miller said, referring to the 17th and 18th holes where he had chances for birdies. "I'm still in good shape because I now have a bigger lead than I had before."

Miller said being on national television added some pressure.

"I haven't been on TV in a long time," he said, "so I wanted to do well. I could have done better, especially on the final hole where I should have made a birdie."

On the 18th Miller hit a four-wood from the middle of the fairway within four feet of the pin and said, "It might have been the best shot I've ever made."

"The way Miller is playing is just unbelievable," Mahaffey said. "I'm going to try and play the same way in the final round to keep it interesting."

"I still say he's human and someday he'll shoot a 72."

Kathy Whitworth Ahead In LPGA Triple Crown

MIAMI (UPI) — Veteran Kathy Whitworth struggled with an erratic driver but scrambled and putted her way to a oneunder par 71 Saturday to take a one shot lead at the halfway point of the $50,000 Colgate Triple Crown LPGA championship.

Miss Whitworth's 37-34 over the par 72 Doris Blue Monster course gave her the edge after 18 holes of the 36-hole event. Canadian Sandra Post rallied from a shaky start for a 72 and second place going into Sunday's final round.

One stroke back of Miss Post at 73 was Judy Rankin. Betsy Cullen and Mary Mills were tied at 74, Murle Breer and Chako Higuchi Matsui had 76s, Joann Prentice was a 77 and Margie Masters brought up the rear in the nine-woman field with an 80.

The nine golfers qualified through a point system applying only to three tournaments sponsored by Colgate—the Colgate Dinah Shore Winners Circle, the Colgate European Open and the Colgate Far East Ladies Open.

"The way I've been hitting the ball off the tee lately, I played about as well as I can play," said Miss Whitworth after her first round. "I've been having trouble with my driving for quite awhile, but fortunately my putting hasn't left me."

Her troubles started on the second hole, when she "dribbled" the ball off the tee. "I didn't even get it to the fairway."

She bogeyed the hole, but then strung two birdies with putts of 15 and six feet. Her woods betrayed her again on the sixth and seventh where an erratic second shot and a drive into a bunker cost her bogeys.

After salvaging her one-over par 37 on the front nine, her putter caught fire. She holed putts of 25, 20 and 20 feet for birdies on the 10th, 12th and 16th holes. On the 17th her second shot landed in a bunker to the left of the green, costing her a bogey five.

Post, who called the 6,239-yard layout "a monster—just like it's advertised," bogeyed four of the first six holes, but then "stabilized."

She hit birdie putts of 30, five and 25 feet on the back nine for a two-under par 34.

"Overall, it seemed like I missed the putts I expected to make and made the ones I thought I was going to miss," she said.

Galleries were by invitation only to the event, which is being televised on a same-day delayed basis by CBS.

Salvino Triumphs

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Carmen Salvino, who at 41 says he keeps improving with age, made his point Saturday by coming from fifth place to win the $100,000 Showboat Invitational Professional Bowlers Association tournament.

The Chicago veteran of 20 years in pro bowling averaged 228 over four games, culminating with a 220-195 victory over Earl Anthony in the championship. Anthony, of Tacoma Wash., who was the leader going into the finals and last year's top money-winner with more than $99,000, was looking for his second consecutive win on the tour this year.

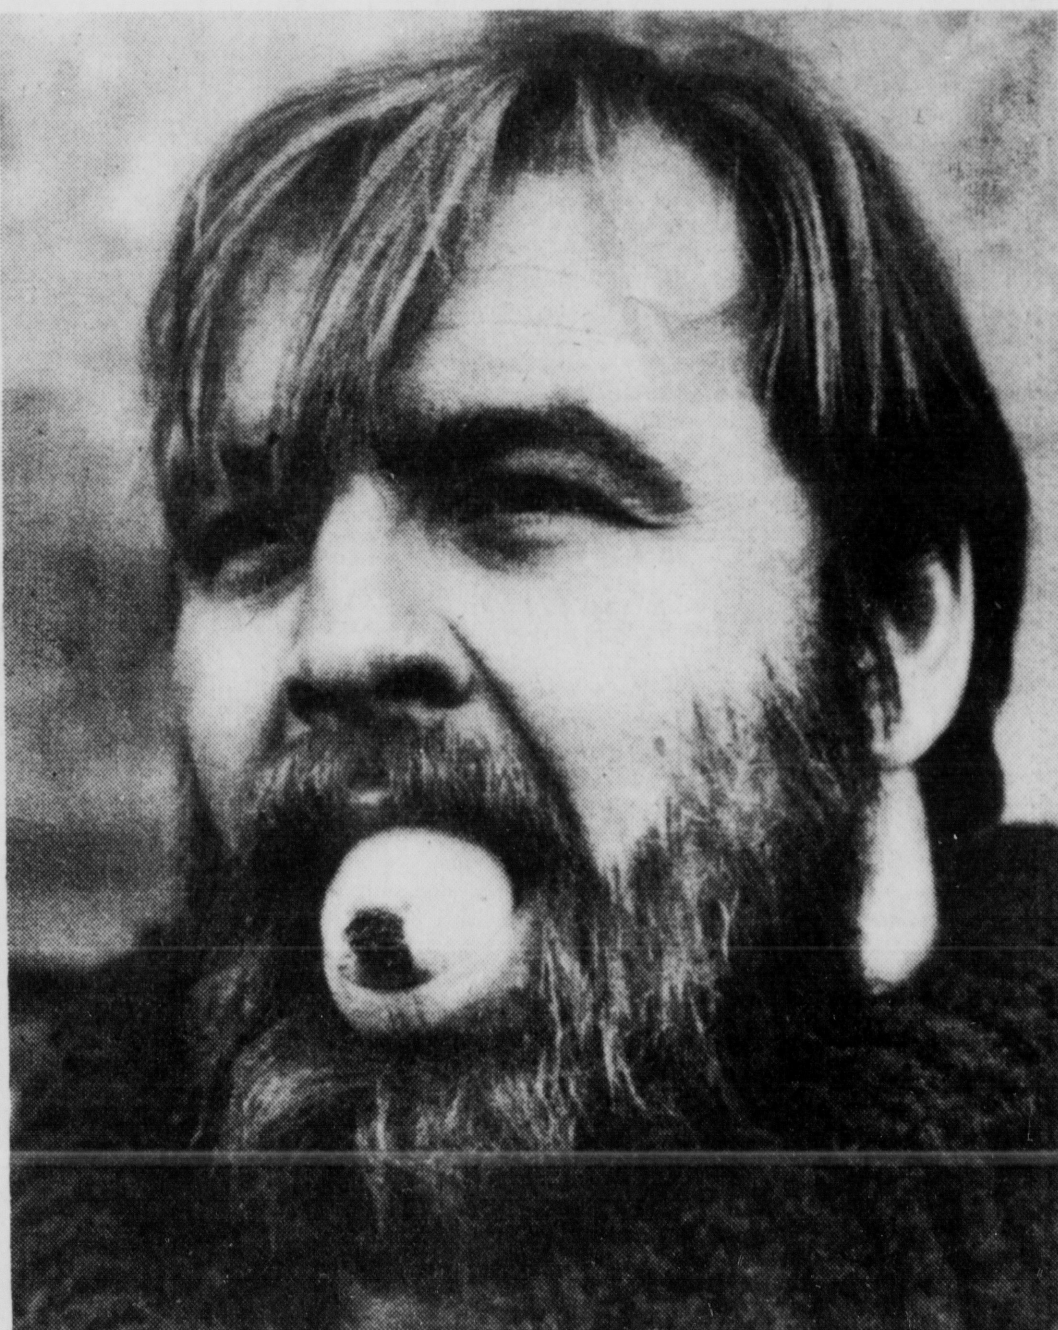

But Salvino, who was fighting off the flu during the last two rounds of the tournament, grew stronger as the day wore on. He started by beating two of the tour's younger players, 23-year-old Cliff McNeely, San Lorenzo, Calif., 221-206, and 20-year-old Joey Berardi, New York, 217-200.

Salvino, who rolled the tournament's only 300 game Wednesday night, turned in his best performance in the third game by stopping Johnny Petraglia, State Island, N.Y., 257-227. He started that game with an open frame in the first but then ran off eight consecutive strikes to put it away. Petraglia struck out from the ninth, but it was too late.

It was the second time in three years Salvino won four games on the televised finals en route to the championship. He did it two years ago in New Orleans.

Saturday's title was Salvino's 13th and was worth $14,000, his biggest payoff ever.

Anthony picked up $8,000 for finishing second.

Hunter Mountain Pro Races Postponed

By STEVE KANE

HUNTER

Professional skiing's Hang Ten Cup, a $40,000 competition for men and women, was postponed Saturday when snow and high winds swept across the slopes of Hunter Mountain Ski Bowl.

Ironically, the race was originally scheduled for Heavenly Valley but moved here on short notice due to a lack of snow at the Lake Tahoe, Calif., resort.

The men's slalom will be run today starting at 1 p.m., and the giant slalom will be held Monday. The women's races, for $10,000 of the prize money, were held Thursday and Friday. Barbara Cochran won the slalom, and Susie Corrock won the giant slalom in the women's events.

For the men this will be the third stop of the year on the circuit and the first venture on eastern slopes. Thus far two men, Henri Duvillard and Hank Kashiwa, have dominated the competition.

Duvillard, a French Olympic veteran in his first year as a pro, has racked up three first places and leads the money list with $14,500. Kashiwa, an American and a veteran of the circuit has the other first along with two runnerup performances and one third place for a purse total of $10,500. A distant third in the standings is Norway's Otto Tschudi with $4,700.

These three will all be in the field today when the eliminations begin at 10 a.m. Susie Corrock, who had a fourth place in the women's slalom, won $2,500 for the two days to lead the money winners. Barbara Cochran won $2,000 for the slalom but was eliminated by Rosi Fortna in the first round of the giant slalom. The Hang Ten Cup is the only professional ski race that sponsors a women's division.

The Palmer brothers, Tyler and Terry, last year's winner here, Ken Corrock, and former Olympic racer Bob Cochran are among the American threats who will be in the field today. Spider Sabic, Hugo Nindl, Jean-Noel Augert will also compete. Augert is currently in fifth place on the money list, but Sabich and Nindl, both former pro champions, are scoreless thus far.

Pro racing is structured as a head-to-head elimination event with competitors running parallel courses. Two runs are made with the racers switching courses. Overall time differential determines the winner.

Klammer Again

KITZBUEHEL, AUSTRIA (UPI) — Austrian ski ace Franz Klammer won his fifth world cup downhill victory of this season at the Hahnenkamm ski race Saturday, thus equalling the record established by Jean-Claude Killy of France.

The 21-year-old Austrian schussed down the 3,510-meter "Streif" course in 2:03.22 minutes. Italy's Gustav Thoeni, usually known as a slalom specialist, followed only one hundredth of a second behind.

Klammer has won each World Cup downhill race of the 1974-75 season. With his victory he also regained the lead in the World Cup standings with 144 points, taking a comfortable lead over Piero Gros of Italy with 120 points, who did not take part in the Hahnenkamm.

French ski ace Killy had won five world cup downhill races in one season in 1967, creating a mark not expected to be matched. With a big grin, Klammer told journalists after the race:

"I showed a rather poor performance in the middle part of the course. I almost had a spill. But, nevertheless, I won."

Montreal Stadium Will Be Ready, but...

MONTREAL (UPI) — Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa said Saturday that the Olympic stadium could be completed in time for the 1976 summer games, but there remained some question as to how it would be financed and what shape the complex would take.

With construction on the stadium complex set to resume Monday following a more than seven-week-long labor dispute, Bourassa said that "according to the engineers, there is no doubt the stadium can be built on time."

"But," he said in a radio interview (ON CJAD), "besides that there is a financial problem — so there is the question of time and also the financial implications."

The premier said there have been some proposed reductions in expenditures, but added that "it is premature now to reach a conclusion on what the final expenditure will be until there's a final decision on what kind of stadium we will have."

He said the reductions of "millions" were relatively minor and would not involve the main stadium or the swimming pool complex.

Bourassa said most of the financial problems confronting the games were known to the provincial government, but that he still wanted them aired by the Olympic organizers before the public at a parliamentary commission hearing next week.

The strike by iron workers, which has halted construction on the $380 million stadium complex since last Nov. 27, was settled Friday when the union voted to accept a government-ordered 85-cent an hour cost of living wage increase. The union said work would start up again on Monday.

On Tuesday, Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau and representatives of the Olympic Organizing Committee (COJO) travel to Quebec City to explain to the legislature how the costs for the games have more than doubled and what they intend to do about it.

Drapeau, who pledged the games would be "self-financing," has said he will dispute the figures in an engineering report that was issued last month which projects the cost of the games at $653 million, $343 million more than 1972 estimates.

But COJO officials have been silent on the figures and have been quietly drafting revised plans for the complex to reduce costs. Among the proposals being considered is taking parts of the Autostade—the stadium used primarily by the Canadian Football League Alouettes—and moving them to the Olympic site.

By utilizing parts of the Autostade, plus additional construction on top of the stadium foundation already laid, COJO sources say the cost of the stadium complex could be reduced to $200 million.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)

Rookie defenseman Bob Hess scored one goal and assisted on two others Saturday night to lead the St. Louis Blues to a 5-4 victory over the Minnesota North Stars, handing Minnesota its eighth straight National Hockey League loss.

Hess gave St. Louis the lead with a slap shot from the point 8:07 into the game with Minnesota's Fred Barrett in the penalty box for interference. Hess took the same shot 26 seconds later and this time Doug Palazzari deflected it past North Stars goalie Cesare Maniago to make it 2-0.

Pens, Bruins Tie

PITTSBURGH (UPI)

Terry O'Reilly scored just 35 seconds into the final period Saturday to give the Boston Bruins a 4-4 standoff with the Pittsburgh Penguins, who managed to extend their home string without a loss to 13 games.

O'Reilly took a pass from John Bucyk and drove a 20-foot shot past Penguin goalie Michel Plasse for what proved to be the final tally of the game.

Leaf Halt Habs

MONTREAL (UPI)

Rookie Dave Williams and defenseman Bob Neely scored within 45 seconds of each other in the final period Saturday night as the Toronto Maple Leafs beat Montreal 5-3 and snapped the Canadiens' undefeated string at 21 games.

The loss kept Montreal only one point ahead of the second place Los Angeles Kings in the National Hockey League's Division 3 and spoiled the Canadiens' chances of matching the all-time consecutive game undefeated record of 23 set by the Boston Bruins 34 years ago.

State Hawks Lose Two in SUNYAC

BINGHAMTON

New Paltz State's basketball team has suffered through another lost weekend capped by a pair of defeats, the latest a 112-74 decision here Saturday night at the hands of hometown Binghamton State.

The Hawks had been beaten at Elting Gym Friday night to the tune of 78-57. Plattsburgh State was the conqueror in that contest.

The losses dropped the Hawks' overall record to 1-9 on the season and 0-6 in the State University of New York Athletic Conference of which both games were competed. The Birds are 0-3 since the semester break, having lost to Pace College earlier in the week.

Against Plattsburgh, a 20 point, 11 rebound effort by Larry Parker and the point production of Dell Binnom and David Modest helped the upstarters to victory. Modest is the former Capital District high school star. He and Binnom both had 15 points.

New Paltz got a big 26 point night out of Bob Irish, but Plattsburgh was too tough under the boards. Ron Domanski added 10 Hawk markers.

Stony Brook Defeats New Paltz Swimmers

STONY BROOK

New Paltz State won nine of 11 individual events here Saturday afternoon but lack of depth hurt the Hawks and they dropped a 63 1/2-49 1/2 varsity swimming decision to homestanding Stony Brook.

Even with NP at a manpower disadvantage, the Hudson Valley team could have come out of the meet with a tie had it been able to win the last event on the card — the 400 yard freestyle relay.

But Stony Brook's quartet beat the New Paltz foursome by 4.2 seconds to clinch the outcome.

Pat Halpin, Craig Wilson, Dave Loeffler and Keith Robson were the individual stars for New Paltz. Loeffler won three events while Wilson, Halpin and Robson took two each.

By capturing the 200 yard individual medley in 2:07.9,

Wilson again qualified for the NCAA College Division championships.

The Hawks are 0-4 with a meet this Saturday at Newark College of Engineering. Manhattan College will round out the threesome.

Connors Scores

FREEPORT, Bahamas (UPI) — No. 1 ranked Jimmy Connors demolished Karl Meiler of Germany 6-0, 6-2 in one hour Saturday to win the $50,000 Bahamas International Open Tennis Championship.

Connors won the $13,000 first prize with his double-fisted backhand shots and aggressive net play. The confident lefthander took control from the start, breaking Meiler's service in the first game after five deuce points, and again in the third and fifth games.

In the second set Connors again broke service in the first game and in the fifth. His play was so aggressive that in the last six games, Meiler didn't make it to the net. Meiler won $6,000 for second place.

Giants, Colts Coin Flip

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Baltimore Colts and New York Giants will flip a coin Sunday at 12 noon EST to decide which of the two will get the first pick in the Tuesday, Jan. 28 annual National Football League college player draft, but the Dallas Cowboys will be very interested observers.

The Cowboys, you see, obtained the Giants' first round draft choice in a trade for quarterback Craig Morton, so a winning Giant flip at Key Biscayne, Fla., where NFL club presidents and other representatives are meeting, would give Dallas the No. 1 pick of the draft.

The Giants and the Colts "earned" the right for the first choices of the draft, from a list of college players who have used up their eligibility either through participation or graduation, by finishing with the worst records in the NFL at 2-12. The Giants were able to beat only Dallas and Kansas City and Baltimore topped only the New York Jets and Atlanta.

Army Adds Holy Cross

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — The U.S. Military Academy's 1975 football season will kick off with Holy Cross Sept. 13 and end with the traditional ArmyNavy game Nov. 29.

Col. Jack Schuder, director of athletics, said Friday the addition of Holy Cross boosted the slate to 11 games, bringing the Army schedule in line with other major colleges and universities.

Placing the Crusaders on the schedule also necessitated a change in the playing sites for the Army-Stanford games scheduled in 1975 and 1976. Thus, Army will travel to Stanford on Oct. 4 this year, a game originally scheduled for Michie Stadium. Stanford will journey to West Point in 1976.

Stones Sets New Mark

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — World outdoor high jump record holder Dwight Stones cracked the indoor mark Friday night when he leaped 7 feet 5 1/4 inches at the Meet of Champions.

Seagren, Smith at It Again

KHS Skiers Sweep Opening Triangular

PATTERSON

Kingston High School's skiers finally saw some action Friday at the Big Birch Ski Area here, and the Maroons' start turned out to be a surprisingly good one.

"I didn't expect us to start off like that," said coach Tony Badalato after his racers had posted wins over Rye and Blind Brook in a triangular Tri-County League meet. "We lost five of our top seven racers from last year."

But the two Maroons who did return, Tom Speisman and Trip Ingalsbe, ran one-two to start KHS on the road to a winning 310 score. Rye finished second with 316, and Blind Brook was a distant third at 352.

Sawyer Grapplers Win

SAUGERTIES

Five straight individual victories enabled the Saugerties High wrestling team to overcome an early lead by John Jay here Friday as the Sawyers went on to post a 26-24 triumph in a DCSL match.

Dave Heinick's 2-1 decision over John Hall in the 179 bout capped the streak that pushed Saugerties into a 26-21 lead with only the 215 battle remaining. That left George Petersen to face the Patriots' Paul Lamoree, last year's district champ.

"Petersen did his job," said winning coach Hank Smith, "and didn't get pinned." Petersen lost a 12-2 decision, but that still left the Pats short of a tie.

George Redder started the comeback in 140 with a superior decision over Jay's Paul Finneman. Pat Bogert, Jim Hallion and Rich Dussol kept it going Bogert and Dussol with pins.

Tom Carr also took a win for SHS, taking a decision in the lightweight class.

NC State Squeaks

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Freshman Kenny Carr hit a pair of tie-breaking foul shots with 17 seconds remaining Saturday to give third-ranked North Carolina State an 88-85 overtime victory over 14th-ranked North Carolina in a nationally-televised Atlantic Coast Conference game.

The two teams ended regulation play tied at 77-77 and North Carolina led by six-points, 85-79, with only a minute and a half left to play in the overtime session before State rallied behind a pair of baskets by Phil Spence and another by All-America David Thompson to tie the score at 85-85.

Carr was then fouled with 17 seconds remaining made both free throws to give the Wolfpack an 87-85 lead. Moe Rivers added another free throw with eight seconds left for a bonus point.

The victory preserved a home court winning streak for the Wolfpack which stretches 35 games back to the 1971-72 season. It also improved their record to 2-1 in the conference, and 11-2 overall. North Carolina went to 2-1 in the league and 8-4 overall.

Joe Wants To Stay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Joe Namath expressed confidence Saturday night that he has three more years of pro football left in his career and he hoped to spend them with the New York Jets.

Talking to newsmen at the Washington Touchdown Club dinner, the veteran star quarterback said, "I don't want to go anyplace else."

Namath played out his option last season and becomes a free agent on May 1.

Red Hook, Marlboro Heading For Division II Showdown

KINGSTON That first showdown between Division I's Fallsburgh and Liberty High Schools is set for this coming Friday night, but the Ulster County Athletic League's Division II has a big confrontation of its own on Tuesday when Marlboro goes to Red Hook for a crucial basketball clash.

The defending division champion Dukes remained a half-length ahead of Red Hook Friday by turning aside the challenge of Highland, 66-59, while the Raiders were rubbing out Wallkill, 90-47.

Fallsburgh, meanwhile, kept rolling up the points, downing Ellenville, 115-57, Liberty had it a little tougher, defeating Rondout Valley, 90-52. New Paltz topped Onteora, 59-46, and Coleman tripped Pine Bush, 83-57, in games of lesser importance.

Marlboro shook Highland off in the third quarter, then held on in the fourth to win its sixth game in seven outings. The Dukes got balanced scoring, with five players in double figures including Manny Loperogolo and Anthony Monroe with 16 points apiece.

The Highlanders, who dropped to 3-4 with the defeat, were led by Jeff Gersch's 24 points. J.C. Gersch had 10.

A 25-point performance by Jim Merriken, 15 of those 25 coming from the foul line, sparked Red Hook to its lopsided victory. Wallkill stayed close for eight minutes, but the Raiders used a 23-9 second quarter to run away and hide.

Mike Gilfeather added 19 points and Mark Gravino threw in 14. Tom Berryahn notched 16 points for Wallkill.

Ron Coon and Mike Starkie were on the injured list for Red Hook.

A sidelight to the Wallkill story is the situation of George Thomas, a strong full-back in football, and a rugged guard in basketball.

Thomas was to have transferred to Kingston High last week, but reportedly spent two days at KHS, didn't care for it, and returned to Wallkill.

Andrae Bridges' 28 points powered Liberty over Rondout Valley for the Redskins' seventh consecutive victory. The Ganders gave Liberty a tough first half, trailing only 39-31. But the winners put it all together after intermission, streaking to a 51-21 advantage.

Reggie Biddings tallied 15 points, Mike Lofaro 14, and Milt Martin 12 for Liberty. Kevin Van Wagenen led Rondout with 14.

Sam Copeland continued his hot shooting, scoring 38 points in leading Fallsburgh to win No. 8. Barry Davis had 18.

Mike Crawley's 19 points topped Ellenville. Paul Conklin had 14 and Bob Bittner 10.

New Paltz, down 23-21 at halftime, used a well-oiled ball-control offense in the second half to knock off Onteora for the Hugies' third win against four losses.

Lorenzo Simmons was the big man for NP with 22 points. Steve Patrick, Jerome Smith, and Jim Stoothoff had 10 apiece for the Indians.

Coleman Bounces Back

KINGSTON

The great thing about high school athletes is their ability to bounce back. One night they're flattened, the next they're doing the flattening.

So it was with Coleman High's basketball team Friday when it surprised even its coach, Bill DuBois, by coming out of the doldrums to bury Pine Bush, 83-57, in an Ulster County Athletic League Division I game.

"I've been having all sorts of trouble getting them up," DuBois said prior to his team's domination of the Bushmen. "After that Fallsburgh thing they've been way down."

"That Fallsburgh thing" was Coleman's embarrassing 133-46 loss at the hands of the ratings-minded Comets Tuesday, a defeat which definitely has DuBois, and reportedly has several other league coaches, thoroughly disgusted.

"You can quote me as saying Coach (Jim) McDermott is a bush league coach," DuBois said evenly. "He pressed me the entire game and he left in his starters, except for one guy who was in foul trouble, until the fourth quarter. I don't know what he was trying to prove."

Whatever it was, the rout served not only to impress those who like one-sided scores, but it also knocked down Coleman's morale more than just a peg or two.

"I had a couple of tough practices this week," DuBois related, "but you could see the kids were just going through the motions."

By Friday night, however, Coleman was ready to give it another shot. The Statesmen came through like champs, hitting better than 50 per cent of their shots off a fine patterned offense, and hampering the Bushmen with an effective man-to-man press.

Kevin Coughlin hit 10 of his game-high 26 points in the first quarter as Coleman raced to a 20-8 advantage, at one time as wide as 16-2. Pine Bush helped out with a wealth of missed layups, many by bulky center Bob Bolebruch, who should have scored 50 points, but instead came up with "only" 22 when he connected on 10 of his 40 shots.

The Bushmen did manage to close the gap in the second period, but three straight Tony Albany baskets upped Coleman's lead from eight to 14 when Pine Bush got it down to six points in the third quarter. Coughlin and Pete Gallagher led JAC on a 17-7 tear to build a 16 point advantage.

It was all Coleman in the fourth quarter. Coughlin and Gallagher again powering the offense to a 22-12 eighth minute production. Gallagher contributed 21 points and A.J. Maneen tossed in 14 to back Coughlin's 26. The Statesmen took 70 shots and made 36.

The win evened Coleman's league record at 4-4. Pine Bush fell to 1-6. Tuesday Coleman is home to Ellenville while the Bushmen host Liberty.

In Friday's JV game, the little Statesmen recorded a 49-37 win with Bill Robertson bucketing 19 points.

McDermott Answers Charges

FALLSBURGH Fallsburgh High School basketball coach Jim McDermott Saturday made the following statement in response to charges by Coleman coach Bill DuBois, whose Statesmen were beaten, 133-46, by the Comets last week:

"We believe in being completely honest with our young men. We let each man know exactly what his role is; we never let him guess. We do use the terms first and second team. We believe a first team man has a right to play three-quarters of a game. To play less is to punish him for excellence.

"In regard to the press, we have never made a secret of our philosophy. We have it posted on our school wall: 'Press-grades seven to 12; whistle to whistle.'"

"We believe that pressing each and every single day from November to March is the most manly act that our young men can perform for us. To demand that my second team punish their bodies for that length of time and then to not allow them to press would be grossly unfair. We make our players say 'they love their press.' My first responsibility is those young men who make that manly contribution for us."

DuBois had called McDermott "bush league" after the Fallsburgh rout of Coleman, saying he didn't know what the coach "was trying to prove" with his use of starters for three-quarters and his exclusive use of the pressing defense.

"Coleman is a well-coached team and I'm sure that with the way high school cycles run, Coleman will soon be in our position," McDermott added.

SPACKENKILL

The newest "unsung hero" (to quote Mike Rienzo) to come off of the Kingston High School bench is Art Shelightner—a strong performer in the Maroons' 59-50 DCSL basketball win at Spackenkill Friday night.

Shelightner's board heroics and 16 points, a new high for the forward substitute, helped wear down a tenacious Spackenkill rebounding aggregation that sported two players (Chris Meyer and Terry Brown) taller than Kingston's Corey Chambers.

Sophomore Mr. Cool Daryl Mills teamed up with guard Larry Carpenter to help take Kingston out of its cold start with some antifreeze passwork, breaking into the 2-3 zone that sagged on Chambers.

Rienzo noted that Mills' calmness on the floor helped keep the ball under control during much of the contest when the score careened one way, then the other. And Carpenter topped Mills' 11 points with an 18 point steady shooting day, mostly on a bank shot from the side.

The win, together with victories by other first place DCSL teams Friday night, still leaves the top of the league deadlocked: Kingston, Lourdes (beat Saugerties, 68-61), and Roosevelt (beat Arlington, 70-62). Other DCSL scores had Poughkeepsie edging John Jay, 86-82, and Ketcham tripping Beacon, 74-64.

Chambers was rendered mostly ineffective on offense, but after he tried a few off balance shots with four arms waving in his face he passed off more. Chambers seldom even got his hands on the ball in the second and third quarters, sitting out part of the time in foul trouble.

In the early going, everybody on Spackenkill hit a basket to give the home team, in its small gym, a quick 10-2 lead at 5:00. But Kingston, with five Chambers points, pulled back to a 14-11 first period deficit.

It was during the second quarter that Shelightner caught fire as the defense sagged on Chambers. The husky 6-3 senior began hitting from short range, and popped in ten points to lead the surge to a 34-31 halftime lead for Kingston.

As Rienzo had brought in Mills and Timbrouck to give a smaller, faster backcourt, the 2-3 zone began to crack. "I was trying to get a working combination," he said after the game.

Terry Brown did most of his damage for Spackenkill during the second quarter, hitting eight of his team high 15 points. But Kingston outscored the home team 23-17 for a lead it never relinquished.

In the third quarter, Spackenkill did not get its first point on the board until there was only 2:49 remaining, and the Maroons started their slow, deliberate type of game with a nine point lead that did not vary much until the end of the game after two Spackenkill starters, Mark Sala and Chris Meyer, had fouled out.

Kingston, now 5-1 in the DCSL, will travel to Roosevelt to contest sole possession of first place Tuesday night.

Kingston's junior varsity continued its winning ways with a 56-38 game against Spackenkill. Cliff Lyons and Clark Waters each had 18 for the winners.

OCS Girls Upend Liberty

PINE HILL

Onteora High's girls ski team stayed on its feet Friday, something not all the challengers from Liberty were able to do, and turned in a UCAL upset victory at Belleayre, 182.95 to 184.80. The OCS boys also won, taking the first four places enroute to a 162.95-178.85 victory. Both OCS squads carry 2-0 slates in the league.

In other UCAL results, New Paltz split with Ellenville in a Friday meet at Ski Minne. The Hugie boys took a 130.50 to 185.85 win, but the New Paltz girls squad, which started with only five skiers, failed to qualify enough places for a score.

In races held Thursday, Fallsburgh, also undefeated, swept Ellenville. The boys' score was 169.9-261.6 and the girls' score was 212.3-287.4. Libert also took New Paltz twice, winning the boys race 216.05-230.70 and the girls race 227.35-293.75.

Trynje Van Slyke clocked 33.70 for Liberty to take a first place, and teammate Cathy Kollhoff was right behind in 34 seconds flat. When sister Janice Kollhoff, who was third in Liberty's last meet, missed a gate, however, the door opened for OCS.

Tracey Jennings, Ellen Sheehan and Barbara Sheehan crossed the finish almost within a second of each other to give Onteora the next three places.

Frazier Just Living For No. 3 Against Ali

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — In this fickle, mixed-up society of ours, peculiarly chameleon-like in that it is easily influenced by changing whims, fads and popularity polls, one man somehow manages to disregard all these irrelevancies and stand fast.

Joe Frazier is like the rock that withstands time. He doesn't change.

As a boy he grew up with certain strong ideals and he believes in them as firmly today as ever did. He doesn't shill, he doesn't play-act, he doesn't say yes when what he really means is no. If he feels one way about you today, he's a cinch to feel the same way about you tomorrow, the following day and the rest of the week. He's consistent, and in this day and age, that makes him something special indeed.

The conscientious, 30-year-old Frazier works out in his gym here across from the railroad station almost every day and one item stays uppermost in his mind: a third meeting with Muhammad Ali, the man he knocked down and beat on points the first time and then lost a decision to in their second fight.

"That's all I'm living for—to go back to that guy," Joe Frazier says, toweling the perspiration from his face after an early afternoon workout.

While Frazier keeps working out here, Ali talks about his next opponent, Chuck Wepner, who never really beat anybody of great consequence. Ali is booked to meet Wepner in Cleveland two months from now.

According to the Ring Magazine ratings, George Foreman is No. 1 among the heavy-weight contenders for Ali's crown, Frazier is No. 2 and Wepner is No. 8, but Ali has his own personal rankings and after he fights Wepner, he's likely to meet third-ranked Ron Lyle before anybody else.

"Is he really gonna fight Wepner?" Frazier asks a newsman.

"Yeah," comes the answer. "He wants another pay day."

Joe Frazier looks incredulous.

"What kinda pay day he needs?" says Frazier. "He just made five million, didn't he? You know, what I call him now is a 'chick.' A chick is a small chicken, and to me, that's what he is. Furthermore, he's a black man with a yellow streak right down the middle of his back. He's duckin' me. He's afraid of me. I know that; he knows that; the public knows that. He's trying to get all these easy fighters, but nobody is gonna pay to see him fight these guys. He calls everybody's name he wants to fight, but he never says my name. Why shun me? I'll tell you why. I beat him twice and he-knows I'll beat him again. Sooner or later, he's gotta fight me."

Whenever Joe Frazier talks about Ali, he refers to him as "Cassius Clay," the same way he always has.

"As far as I'm concerned, he's still Clay," says Frazier. "When he gets to the point that he can put me down like I put him down, then he's Muhammad Ali. I promise him if he can put me down, I'll crawl across the ring on my knees and say to him, 'you are The Greatest!' And I promise him somethin' else—I won't back down on my word like he did."

Joe Frazier concedes Muhammad Ali is "a good boxer."

"But he's a complete phony."

Why?

"Because he runs around and tells people, 'do as I say, but don't do what I do.' He preaches black, but he doesn't live black."

Whether or not he ever fights Ali again, and chances are good he will, Frazier is secure financially. Thanks to the investments he has made, he could live comfortably without too many problems. His wife and his mother frequently talk to him about hanging up his gloves.

"That comes up 24 hours a day," he laughs. "My wife keeps saying, 'how long you gonna be at this?' and 'we want you home more.' My mother is the same way. She says, 'you have your health and your strength, son, and you oughta get out of it, but if this is what you want, all we can do is just pray for you.'"

Joe Frazier isn't getting out of it just yet.

One more crack at Muhammad Ali is all he wants.

"He's older than I am," says the former champ. "The longer he waits, the worse it is for him. I think my stamina is much greater than his. What's more, I think he knows it."

UCCC Looking Ahead

KINGSTON

There are 13 games left for the basketball Senators of Ulster County Community College, but one of those has particular significance for UCCC as well as the rest of the Mid Hudson Conference.

February 11 is the date the Westchester Vikings are scheduled to pay a visit to the Senate Gym, and the MHC title could then well be decided. Westchester is currently the No. 3 junior college team in the country, has an 18-0 overall record and is 6-0 in the conference. But the Vikings, 94-67 winners over the Senators earlier in the season, hold only one game lead over Ulster in the MHC.

Ulster's short first half resulted in an 8-2 record. Considering the handicaps under which hastily appointed coach Mike Bernstein was forced to operate, that record is quite an achievement.

Bernstein took over for Jerry Moss at almost literally a moment's notice and somehow managed to whip the Senators into a closely knit team, the only other setback UCCC suffered was a narrow loss to a powerful Essex, N.J., squad.

The mid season layoff will have lasted almost a month when Ulster gets into action against Fashion Institute at the Senate Gym Friday. It should have given Bernstein enough of an opportunity to make up for lost time in practice sessions.

An auspicious start to the second half was the news that, for the first time in quite a while, Ulster lost no one for academic reasons. That means UCCC's 5-1 MHC record will be impossible to improve upon.

In the first ten games Ulster averaged 80.6 points per game while allowing opponents 74.1 Guard Rachid Walker leads the scorers with a 22.2 average, and backcourt mate Chris Cummings is close behind with a 19.6 mark. Soph Carl Mabry, at 12.5, is third on the list.

The MHC standings reveal Westchester leads Ulster, Post (4-2), Rockland (3-3)

Dutchess (1-4), Orange (1-5) and Sullivan (0-5). In the Region XV ratings Westchester is 14-0 and ranked first, 8-1 Suffolk is second and UCCC is third.

Post dominates the MHC individual statistics. Pete Eason is the top scorer with a 28.0 average, and that's good enough to rank 15th in the nation. Cummings and Walker are second and third respectively in conference scoring.

Larry Johnson, also of Post, is the leader in assists. He's getting ten a game to lead Allen Thompson of Westchester (8.0) and Mike Garcia of Dutchess (7.8). Walker is fourth at 5.8, and Eason is fifth at 3.8.

Post also has the MHC's top rebounder in Tony O'Brien. He's averaging 15.5 and recently set a conference single game record of 34 in one game.

Introduce Baseball At Columbia-Greene

CATSKILL

Columbia-Greene Community College will begin a varsity baseball program this Spring with a 14 game schedule. Formal approval for the sport was granted by the Student Senate late last fall, and Joe McCruden was named to coach the "Twins."

Columbia-Greene will play a schedule that includes four double headers. Among the opponents the Twins will face are Ulster County Community College, Berkshire Christian, Berkshire Community College, Cobleskill Ag and Tech, Dutchess Community College and the R.P.I. junior varsity.

Athletic Director Ron Gabriele organized the team and set up the equipment and uniform purchases. He also set up the Twins' schedule leads the free throw shooters with a .833 mar. Walker is second there at .829.

On the national level only Westchester is ranked from Region XV. The Westcos are also the eighth best defensive squad in the NJCAA with a 62.3 average yield. Mercer County CC, a future UCCC opponent, tops the nation with a 62.8 defensive mark.

Offensively the national leader is Coastal Carolina CC of Jacksonville, N.C., with a 118.4 average through six games. Post, with 101.2 average for 14 games, ranks fourth in that department.

After light action over the holiday period, San Jacinto College of Pasadena, Tex., retained its No. 1 ranking by winning the Navarro Junior College Classic. Second place also remained unchanged as Hutchinson CJC won its own Blue Dragon Classic. San Jacinto is 45-0, and Hutchinson is 13-0.

From Out of the Past

This is how baseball uniforms looked at the turn of the century. The team is believed to be the first ever organized in East Kingston. The only remaining tie with the present is that the grandfather of Joe Messinger of Kingston is somewhere in the photo. The manager is wearing the prevailing fashions of the day for baseball managers.

Sawyers in a Shooting Slump

POUGHKEEPSIE

Let's face it—Saugerties High is in a shooting slump.

Losing another basketball game Friday night, 68-61 to Lourdes, proved frustrating for the club that seemed to sport a few sharp shooters when the season opened.

Having been in the thick of almost every game, to lose by seven points when you have shot 33 per cent from the field and 43 per cent from the foul line is doubly burdensome.

But in the DCL this year, the difference between first and last place teams appears to be very thin.

"We moved the ball well," said Sawyer Coach Larry Marcus, "but just couldn't put it in the basket." He said his players were getting good shots.

A look at the quarter scores shows that Lourdes took a ten point lead at the end of the first period, 20-10, and the teams played about evenly from that point.

Tim Keating was high point man, hitting ten field goals and four from the line for 24 points "mostly long jump shots," noted Marcus.

"He's a good ball player." For Saugerties, Scott Hunter's 12 led point production, with Chris Luley and Arnie Hackett each adding ten points, Steve Martin nine, and John Speirs eight.

o'clock and the junior varsity to follow.

The win was important for Lourdes, as it kept its DCSL tie for first place intact. It was the sixth loss for Saugerties.

Rhinebeck Prevails

MILLBROOK

When you are playing for first place in our league and your two big guns can sit out the last quarter of the game, then you are Rhinebeck High School's basketball team.

In soundly defeating Millbrook 55-37 Friday night, Rhinebeck can now lay claim to undisputed possession of first place in the DCSL Bi-Valley League. Millbrook had been previously undefeated in the league.

Ed Vaughn with 17 points and Mark Siebold with eight joined together to amass 30 rebounds between them, and the substitutes finished out the game. Vaughn had 20 rebounds. After taking a 21-4 first period lead over Millbrook, Rhinebeck coasted on its fast break the rest of the game.

Millbrook jayvees won their game, 77-26.

Ali Tickets

RICHFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — Ticket prices ranging from $15 to $250 were announced Wednesday by Midwest Coliseum President Robert Brown for the March 24 Muhammad Ali-Chuck Wepner heavyweight title fight.

Brown said he hoped the coliseum, property of Cleveland sports promoter Nick Mileti, would gross $1 million from the fight. Seating capacity for the event is expected to be about 22,000.

Ticket prices will be $15, $25, $50, $75 and $100 and there will be 300 to 400 "golden ringside" tickets offered at $250 each.

Firing Line

Art Stegen of New Paltz shoots offhand at the 1974 National Biathlon Championships. Stegen is a member of the U.S. Olympic Biathlon Training Team.

Stegen Is Star In Biathlon

By STEVE KANE

KINGSTON

It served the Finns well in the Winter War of 1939, and it no doubt has helped a Scandinavian or two to get his family through the cold months, but on the whole the practical applications of the biathlon are limited.

It is a grueling, testing sport combining the skills of skiing and marksmanship with the demands of the long distance runner. Not surprisingly, practitioners of biathlon are few, but New Paltz can claim one of the country's best.

He is Art Stegen, a man we've mentioned from time to time. He is currently one of the dozen members of the Senior Squad of the U.S. Olympic Training Team for Biathlon.

Edward "Gus" Williams forwarded us some further details on his fellow Rosendale Nordic Ski Club member. Stegen is 28 and a relative newcomer to the sport. He got his initiation to biathlon at the U.S. Army Biathlon Training Center at Fort Richardson, Alaska.

That came after a career in track where he ran a 4:14 mile for Morehead State (Ky.), competed for the New York Athletic Club and ran in the Boston Marathon. For the past two years Stegen has represented the U.S. in the World Biathlon Championships, first at Lake Placid then at Minsk, U.S.S.R.

He recently moved to Oslo to train with the Norwegian Army Biathlon Team.

Ulster County Community College has sent athletes to National Junior College tournaments in three sports. Now a fourth is within easy reach . . . skiing. All it would take is a letter or a phone call.

The Fifth Annual NJCAA Invitational Championship is slated for March 2-4 at Great Gorge, N.J., and organizers are anticipating a field of 160. And they want more.

Ski team membership isn't a prerequisite. Any student at an NJCAA member school is eligible if a staff member from the school can be coaxed along for the ride. Entries go through Bill Huber at County College of Morris in Dover, N.J.

Liz McGrath of Woodstock, currently the top amateur alpine racer in Ulster County, received a couple of mentions recently. She was given an automatic selection to the first Eastern Cup races this weekend at Bristol Mt., and she was also one of twelve racers to be named to the New York State Alpine Elite Team.

A slalom and giant slalom on Bristol's Meteor Mile will kick off the Eastern Cup series. Liz was ranked fourth on the Eastern Ski Association's Fall Seeding List for women and was one of 25 women to receive an automatic place.

The Alpine Elite Team honors the top racers in the senior and junior divisions of competition. Liz was the top senior woman on the basis of her combined three event total on the ESA seeding list.

Canada's Russell Goodman, who placed first and second in two at Hunter Mountain last week during the Can-Am Ski Trophy Series, will not be around to bother U.S. rival Peter Dodge when the Can-Am continues today at Winter Park, Colorado.

Goodman was elevated to the World Cup circuit in Europe on the strength of his Can-Am performance that gave him a five point lead over Dodge. Dodge scored a first and a third at Hunter.

In the women's division, Leslie Leete Smith of Killington, Vt., and Becky Dorsey of Wenham, Mass., are dominating the standings.

Friends of Ulster Savings,

For the third year, we are presenting a record of our annual progress not only to our depositors but to the general public of the Mid-Hudson Valley.

Despite a period of growing economic distress, the 124th Statement of Condition of the Ulster Savings Bank reflects the continuing confidence of our depositors.

It has been a good year for US, thanks to the loyalty of our many customers.

Total assets for the bank amounted to $124,650,555.59 at the year's end.

The new high total stands at $87,808,827.78.

As I reported in last year's message, the Board of Trustees approved the establishment of a fourth Ulster Savings Office in the Town of Wallkill, just outside Middletown in Orange County. This office opened on the 3rd of August, 1974, and rapidly established Ulster Savings as a primary banking center for the surrounding area.

This support — evidenced by over 2 million dollars of deposits for a five-month period — has been most gratifying. We deeply appreciate and are grateful for this wonderful reception.

Our offices in New Paltz and Poughkeepsie continue their growth in the service of these communities. The latter office, in particular, has reflected the considerable development of its market area, and the increasing reliance of our friends in Poughkeepsie upon Ulster Savings.

Growth and expansion are doubly pleasing when accomplished during a period of economic uncertainty, a period moreover, which has seen a comparative decline in the fortunes of a number of area banks. But growth and expansion do present problems, not the least of which is the problem of fostering and maintaining our reputation for skilled, courteous service and personal attention to the individual client. Be assured that, as we grow, we will continue to emphasize the competent service and friendly personal contact which has, for 124 years, been instrumental to the success of Ulster Savings.

At this time, the outlook for the year ahead is at best uncertain. But this has been true of many periods in the not-too-distant past and it is at such times the secure and prudent opportunities offered by Ulster Savings are particularly appreciated.

Very much aware of the uncertainties ahead, we are still confident about the future of the Hudson Valley and of Ulster Savings' role of service in that future.

Mammoth Mall's Community Hall

TOWN OF ULSTER

A new Community Hall has been set aside at Mammoth Mall in an effort to attract a wider variety of groups, organizations and people to the indoor shopping facility.

As envisioned by Helen Lieber, newly appointed public relations director for the Mall, the Community Hall "will hopefully make the Mall more humanistic." She commented recently that there is virtually no limit to the uses the Community Hall can be put to once organizations in and around Kingston realize that it is available.

The Community Hall has already seen considerable use since it was added to the Mall's assortment of shops and stores more than a month ago. For several weeks just prior to Christmas, it was the site of the popular and successful Woodstock Arts and Crafts Bazaar, which helped introduce Woodstock's artists and craftsmen—as well as their products and creations—to a number of shoppers who normally don't have access to the talented people who live and work in the art colony.

Later, the Community Hall was the site of the Puppet Tree Children's Theater, a Saugerties-based group that presented continuous performances over a two day period. Free performances are now offered every Saturday.

And, plans are currently being made for other organizations to use the room to promote their activities, sell their wares or simply meet the many people who walk the Mall's corridors during days and evenings.

Ms. Lieber emphasized, however, that such activities need not necessarily be restricted to the Community Hall. Junior Achievement of Kingston for instance, will hold its annual trade fair throughout the corridors of Mammoth Mall on Feb. 1, and commercial exhibits have been set up at various times in different locations within the Mall.

"The room is available to organizations that want to use it," said Ms. Lieber, "but we can be flexible. If they feel they can make better use of the corridors, then arrangements can be made for that."

In addition to the many non-profit, community oriented organizations that now have access to the hall, Ms. Lieber said that she envisions its use by more and more art and cultural groups, as well.

Ms. Lieber, a resident of Woodstock, is employed as the Mall's public relations director by the Mammoth Mall Merchants Association. A former administrator for the Aureon Institute in New York City, she has been actively involved in local community organizations for a number of years.

A former director of the Community Arts Council of Long Island, she is currently serving on a committee to establish a community arts council for Ulster County.

Organizations interested in reserving the new Community Hall should contact Ms. Lieber at her Mammoth Mall Office.

Radio Shack Stores In Song Competition

FORT WORTH, TEX.

The nationwide Radio Shack store chain, and their participating dealers, will serve as distribution centers for entry forms and information on the 1975 American Song Festival.

The American Song Festival is the only international songwriting competition held in the United States. With $129,776 in cash prizes, plus merchandise prizes, it is said to provide the largest prizes ever offered in a creative competition. In addition, it offers songwriters an opportunity to have their music exposed to leaders of the music industry.

"Nearly 3,000 Radio Shack stores and participating Authorized Sales Centers will be involved," according to R. C. Richards Jr., Radio Shack retail advertising and sales promotion director.

"We believe that the American Song Festival will be of great interest to many of our customers," Richards continued. "It has proven itself as a major opportunity for the undiscovered songwriter, and we are pleased to cooperate in making it easy for people to enter this creative competition."

Malcolm C. Klein, president of the American Song Festival said: "Radio Shack is one of the most aggressive marketing chains in the country. The geographical spread of their stores will make it really convenient for aspiring songwriters to enter this year's competition."

Anyone in the world can enter the American Song Festival," Klein went on to say, "and there are separate competitions for amateurs and professionals. Entrants do not have to know how to write music. All they need do is have their song recorded on a cassette tape."

Realistic Supertape cassettes, manufactured by Radio Shack's sister company, Tandy Magnetics in Fort Worth, Texas are recommended by the American Song Festival.

The 1975 American Song Festival Competition embraces the entire spectrum of contemporary music with six categories: Rock; Easy Listening/Middle of the Road; Country; Folk; Soul and Rhythm and Blues; and Gospel. In addition, to commemorate the 200th birthday of the nation, there will also be a special Bicentennial song competition.

Entry forms will be on display in all participating Radio Shack stores and Authorized Sales Centers in the United States from Feb. 6 through May 15.

A Radio Shack store in the Kingston, N. Y. area is located in the Mammoth Mall, Ulster Avenue Mall.

New IBM Typing Elements

New Athabaskan Indian language typing elements are used on IBM "Selectric" typewriters at the Canoncito Alternative High School on the Navajo Reservation in Canoncito, New Mexico. With the elements, copy can be prepared in Navajo, Apache and related Athabaskan languages. They were developed by IBM in conjunction with 'AK'E'ELCHIIGI, a non-profit organization dedicated to increasing literacy among Indian peoples and to preserving their oral and written languages. (The element can be used on all IBM "Selectric" typewriters.)

Norton Renamed

KINGSTON

James E. Norton, well-known Kingston banker and resident, has been reelected president of Rondout Savings Bank with offices at 300 Broadway.

Norton has been president of the downtown banking institution since 1968.

William J. C. Buddenhagen, formerly president of Rondout Savings, was reelected chairman of the board of trustees.

Also reelected were: Richard T. Tonnesen, executive vice-president.

James G. Connelly, vice-president.

Brian E. Smith, secretary-treasurer.

Roger B. Lindhurst, assistant secretary-treasurer. Louis F. Kolano, administrative assistant. Trustees of the bank include William J. C. Buddenhagen, President Norton, James G. Connelly, Joseph E. O'Connor, Herbert L. Shultz, Augustus S. Brinnier, Louis M. Siller, Wilbur R. Peters, Charles A. La Forge Jr. and Harry Kaprelian. Richard C. Morse of Kingston is trustee emeritus.

"Traditional savings bank mortgage lending to prospective homeowners was severely curtailed in 1974 due in main to heavy deposit losses," President Norton said upon his reelection.

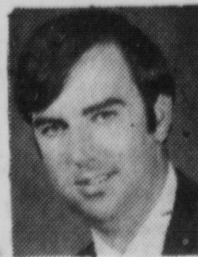

"But there are indications that this trend will reverse and that more money will be available to home buyers."

"As in the past, Rondout Savings continued every effort to serve the local community with what funds were available during the year for mortgages in addition to offering every savings bank service available," President Norton concluded.

If you are not presently covered under a pension plan by your employer — you are eligible to participate in your own IRS approved tax sheltered retirement plan. The pension reform act of 1974 now permits you to enroll in an "Individual Retirement Account", IRA, and take contributions to the plan as a tax deduction. In addition, the entire fund in the IRA accumulates tax free. What your actual tax savings will be depends, of course, on your income, number of dependents and other factors. If you would like additional information about this new tax savings plan... call my office and leave your name and mailing address. I'll see to it that you receive a booklet explaining the provisions of this new law. Your telephone call might just be the best investment you make for the whole year.

Link Ex-Rocky Aide on Bergman's Side

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (UPI) — A top aide of then Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller intervened with state authorities on behalf of Bernard Bergman's nursing home interests, the Long Island newspaper Newsday charged Saturday.

The newspaper quoted an unidentified "high Health Department official" as saying that T. Norman Hurd, who served as secretary to former governors Rockefeller and Malcolm Wilson, put "intense pressure" on the department to withdraw objections to at least three Bergman projects.

"In at least two cases, the Towers Nursing Home and the Laconia Nursing Home, both in New York City, the department appears to have adjusted its position in Bergman's favor," Newsday said.

"Despite the belief that Bergman's lease of Laconia to a company headed by Moses Braunstein, a Bergman associate, was improper, the department eventually agreed to allow the entire lease to be written off as an expense to be reimbursed by Medicaid funds, a 20 per cent increase in payments."

The newspaper said the files of former First Deputy Health Commissioner Andrew C. Fleck show that "pressure to expedite the handling of Bergman's applications" also was exerted by State Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz and two influential Democratic assemblymen, Stanley Steingut of Brooklyn and Albert H. Blumenthal of Manhattan.

Steingut is now the speaker of the assembly and Blumenthal is its majority leader.

The report said Fleck's files also say Hurd intervened in behalf of another Bergman-related project, the Danube Nursing Home on Staten Island. In this he proved unsuccessful, the newspaper said, and "Danube remains vacant."

Newsday quoted "knowledgeable Republican sources" as saying Hurd's efforts were inspired by Samuel Hausman, a friend of Bergman and a member of the State Hospital Review and Planning Council.

Neither Hurd nor Rockefeller could be reached for comment.

Carey on Griffiss ... A Cheaper Way

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Hugh L. Carey has told Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller that a New York State congressional group has come up with a money-saving alternative to the transfer of the Rome Air Development Center from Griffiss Air Force Base.

The transfer of the center to Hanscom Air Force Base in Massachusetts and Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio will wipe out 1,500 jobs at Griffiss.

The Air Force also proposes to establish a new command, control and communications technology center at Hanscom.

In the letter to Rockefeller, Carey told the state's former Republican governor that Rep. Donald J. Mitchell, who represents the central New York district containing Griffiss, had chaired the New York delegation studying the proposal.

Mitchell, Carey said, "has concluded after thorough study that the establishment of a new command, control and communications technology center at Griffiss would be more economical for the Air Force."

He told Rockefeller it was his hope they could work together with the congressional delegation to reverse the Air Force decision.

Carey's office also released a letter to Air Force Secretary John McLucas in which the governor restated his opposition to the transfer "because of the serious economic effects this would have on the Utica-Rome area."

He told McLucas the alternative plan worked out by Mitchell had his "strong personal endorsement."

The governor told Rockefeller that he hoped to sit in on the meeting between the congressional delegation and McLucas.

KKK Joins West Virginia Textbook Crusade

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Appealing to protesters not to "take the law into your own hands," the imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan Saturday pledged the KKK's support in a long and bitter parental crusade against new school textbooks.

Flanked by hooded Klansmen holding flags of the United States, the Confederacy and the KKK, James R. Venable of Stone Mountain, Ga., told about 150 persons standing in the rain on the state Capitol steps:

"This great invisible society (the KKK) will do everything it can to help you fine people fight these books of filth."

"Don't take the law into your own hands. God is on your side."

Venable and a small group of fellow Klansmen came here to "investigate" the Kanawha County textbook controversy, which has caused months of unrest in this coal mining region.

Other Klan members on hand included Dale Reusch of Lodi, Ohio, who says he's running for president in 1976.

In the crowd was the Rev. Marvin Horan, one of the leaders of the textbook protest, which broke out last September. Horan was free on $50,000 bail posted by friends after he was indicted Friday by a federal grand jury on a charge of plotting to bomb an elementary school building.

As Venable and others spoke, spectators huddled under umbrellas. One carried a sign saying "KKK All the Way."

Venable said the textbooks which have triggered violence, mine strikes, school boycotts and other trouble, were "Communist and immoral." He proclaimed "I'm proud to be a white man," adding that only whites could belong to the KKK, but "we don't want the Negro race indoctrinated with this filth either."

Horan, a fundamentalist minister who worked as a truck driver until taking on the textbook battle fulltime, spoke briefly and received a long applause from his followers.

He faced arraignment this week on the bombing charges, which carry a maximum penalty of 35 years in prison. Five other persons faced similar charges.

Slick Road Mars Wedding Day

HIGHLAND
Winter weather-slicked roads on Saturday spoiled the wedding day of a Kingston couple, and left several other people injured in traffic accidents in Ulster County, though none were hurt seriously.

State Police said Arnold, 23, and Barbara Gray, 20, of 666 Broadway, Kingston, were on their way to the reception following their wedding Saturday afternoon, when the car they were riding in was involved in an accident with one driven by Robert Acker, 30, of Baldwinsville, on Route 299 near Highland.

The car the Grays were riding in was driven by the best man, Alonzo Day, 22, of Fleischmanns, and the matron of honor, Margaret Lantier, 25, was also a passenger, State Police said. Riding in the Acker car were Acker's wife, Susan, and their son Roger, 3. All went to St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie, via Alamo Ambulance, where they were treated and released. State Police said summonses were pending.

Others injured in accidents were:

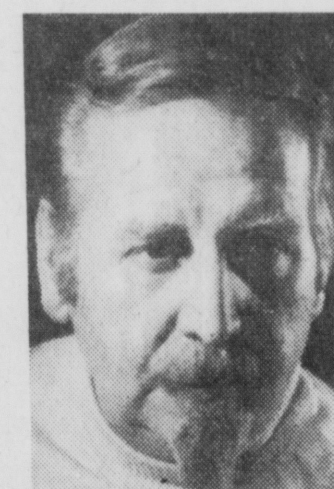

Miss Adrian King, 27, of Broadway East Apartments, in an accident on Route 9W Saturday afternoon near the Hudson Overlook Inn. She was treated and released after being taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance.

Joseph Teszar, of Somerset, N.J., in a one-car accident early Saturday afternoon on the acceleration ramp of the Kingston Thruway interchange. He was treated and released at Doctor's Ambulance took him there.

Richard Kalwarski, of 767 Virginia Avenue, Torrington, Conn., in a one-car accident at the intersections of Routes 32 and 9W near Saugerties, Friday night. He was treated and released at Kingston Hospital, after Saugerties Ambulance took him there.

Numerous other "fender benders" were reported by the county's police agencies.

Spiro's Riches Pile Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former President Spiro Agnew is going to end up a multimillionaire because of his contacts with the Arabs, says his real estate partner in an interview published Saturday in Parade magazine.

The former vice president who resigned office and pleaded no contest to charges of income tax evasion, is currently making more money than he ever did as a lawyer, said real estate dealer Walter Dilbeck of Evansville, Ind.

Agnew's major contribution to the Dilbeck real estate empire is his many valuable contacts, Dilbeck told Parade. "During the Nixon administration, Nixon handled the Israeli contacts in the Mideast, and Ted handled the Arab contacts. He made a lot of important friends among a lot of important people," Dilbeck said.

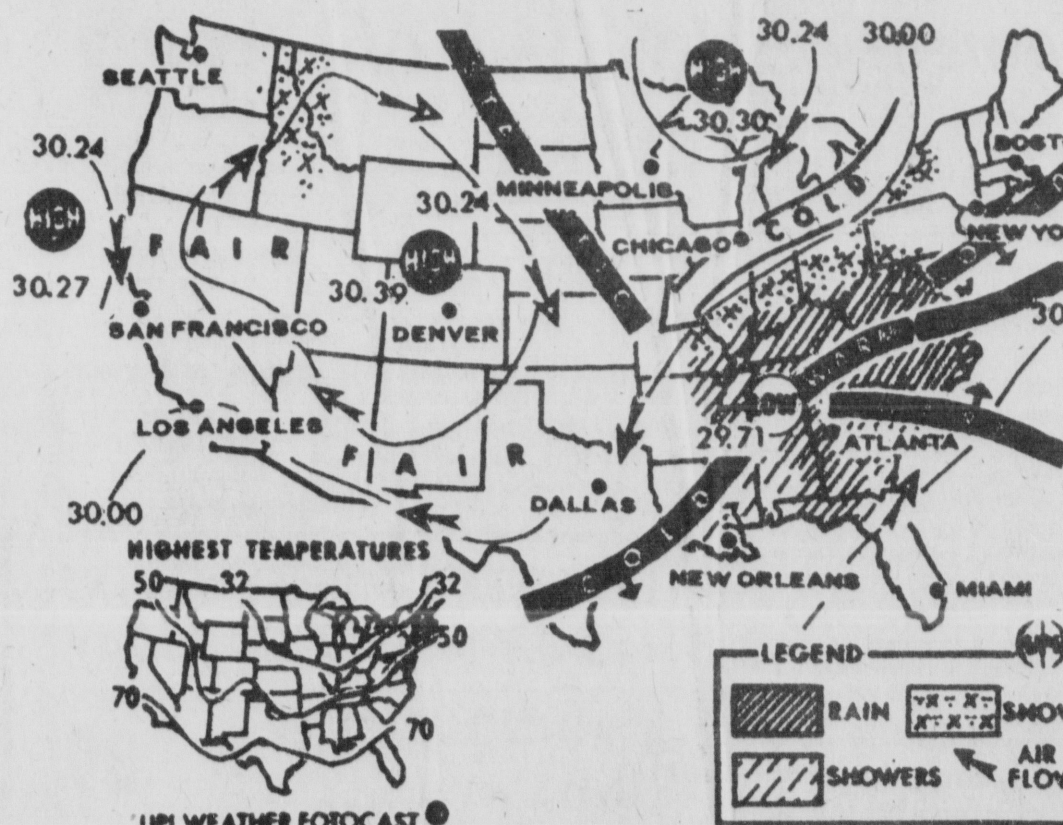

"Ted Agnew's opened the doors to some of that European and Arab money, and that's what the business needs," he said.

"What's more, he's going to end up a multimillionaire. The deal I made with Agnew called for me to pay him $100,000 a year for four years, plus one third of the profits of the first year, and half of the profits of the other three," he said. "After four years Ted Agnew is free to go on his own."

Dilbeck, 56, a World War II hero whose exploits are being turned into a movie, said he operates through three landholding corporations, but refused to say which one Agnew is connected with.

"He likes to keep his name out of deals, and I want to respect his wishes," Dilbeck said.

He credited Agnew with securing the financing for a 1,600-acre project in Kentucky near Lake Barclay.

For Period Ending 7 P.M. EST today. Snow is forecast from southeastern Missouri through the central Ohio Valley with rain spreading into the Middle and South Atlantic States and the eastern Gulf Coast Region. Snow flurries are expected around the Lower Great Lakes and in the Northern Rockies. Maximum temperatures: Atlanta 58, Boston 37, Chicago 29, Cleveland 36, Dallas 65, Denver 48, Duluth 4, Houston 74, Jacksonville 71, Kansas City 37, Little Rock 58, Los Angeles 75, Miami 77, Minneapolis 14, New Orleans 71, New York 44, Phoenix 77, San Francisco 61, Seattle 53, St. Louis 40 and Washington 52.

First People's Congress in 10 Years

Ailing Chou En-Lai Reelected

HONG KONG (UPI) — China's National People's Congress, meeting for the first time in 10 years, has re-elected Ailing Chou En-lai as premier and named a new defense minister to succeed the late Lin Piao, once the chosen heir to Chairman Mao Tse-tung, it was announced Saturday.

The official New China News Agency disclosed that the Monday-to-Friday session of the congress, China's highest legislative body, filled its entire slate of 29 ministers for the first time since the tumultuous "Cultural Revolution."

The 2,864 deputies to the session, billed as the "Congress of Victory," also adopted a revised constitution and a resolution on the report of the work of the government presented by Chou.

The 76-year-old premier, a major force in developing better American-Chinese relations over the past three years, has been confined to hospital for long spells since last April suffering from an undisclosed ailment.

Named defense minister was Yeh Chien-ying, 76, one of China's former marshals before ranks were abolished in the army.

He succeeds Lin Piao, who was designated Mao's heir in 1969 but died in a plane crash in Mongolia in September, 1971, allegedly while fleeing the country after an abortive coup.

Yeh is believed to have been doing Lin's job since then, but was not officially named to the post until now.

Mao apparently did not attend the congress, the fourth since the Communists took over the mainland in 1949. The last congress, which Mao did attend, was held from Dec. 21, 1964, to Jan. 4, 1965. The Cultural Revolution and its accompanying series of purges in the Peking leadership disrupted plans for a session until this year.

Teng Hsiao-ping, once purged as a "capitalist roadster," was named a vice premier. Peking also announced he has made a vice chairman of the Communist party, touching off speculation he might succeed Chou.

NCNA said did not say what changes were made in constitution.

But Western sources in Hong Kong said it apparently did not include the post of a state chairman, the official head of state. The last man to occupy the post was Liu Shao-chi, who was purged in the Cultural Revolution. Some sources said he is believed to have died since being ousted.

Ford Seeking Support of Labor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, seeking support for his program to revive the economy and conserve energy, met Saturday with a citizens action group before delivering an evening speech to AFL-CIO leaders.

Ford also conferred with advisors at mid-day on plans for providing an extra $2 billion in federal funds to state and local governments to offset the added costs they will experience if Congress approves his proposals for $30 billion in new energy taxes.

The Citizens Action Committee said in a statement released during its morning meeting with Ford that voluntary public efforts must still play a major role if the United States hopes to avoid such drastic steps as gasoline rationing and wage and price controls.

White House officials, meanwhile, said Ford's decision to address the labor leaders represented an attempt to win backing from the giant federation for his energy and economic recovery program, which faces resistance in Congress.

The AFL-CIO leaders, including President George Meany, were in Washington for a testimonial dinner honoring Robert Georgine, head of the construction trades department.

At mid-afternoon Saturday Ford, moved by published reports that Treasury Secretary William Simon was about to quit or be fired, issued a strong statement of support which said:

"The President has assured Secretary Simon that he wants him to continue as Secretary of Treasury. The President has full confidence in Secretary Simon. The President has not (asked) and has no intention of asking him to leave."

Simon himself had denied the reports earlier. Ford said Simon would continue as one of the administration's main architects of programs to cure economic and energy ills and would remain the nation's chief economic spokesman.

The President plans to intensify a personal sales pitch for his economic and energy programs. He is scheduled to speak Wednesday to the Conference Board, an organization that does economic research mainly for the nation's business community.

Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford planned to give about eight or 10 other speeches around the country by the end of February seeking public support for his plans. Among the appearances being considered were stops next Friday in Pittsburgh, early next month in Atlanta, and later in February in Florida and on the West Coast.

Nessen said Ford will send his legislative proposals to Congress in two parts.

He said the first part, recommending a 12 per cent rebate on 1974 income taxes for individuals, might go to Capitol Hill next week. Recommendations for conservation of energy coupled with permanent reduction in tax rates will go to Congress later, he said.

The nonpartisan Citizens Action Committee was created by the President last October to generate public enthusiasm for and participation in Ford's original voluntary "WIN" programs for saving energy and fighting inflation.

Financial columnist Sylvia Porter, who directs the committee, said in a statement: "If we are to avoid wage price controls, rationing in many areas and other strait jackets of a managed economy, the voluntary cooperation of the American public must now play a crucial role."

The committee decided to set up task forces to concentrate on gasoline consumption, home gardening and several other areas, and said: "Our No. 1 priority will remain the conservation of energy."

$12 Million Mayday Protest Award Under Study

The Justice Department has reported it is studying the Federal Court award of $12-million in damages to 1,200 persons arrested on steps of the Capitol in the 1971 Mayday protest against the Vietnam War. The jury also ordered retired District of Columbia Police Chief Jerry V. Wilson and Capitol Police Chief James Powell to pay partial damages for violating the demonstrators' constitutional rights, making false arrests, false imprisonment and malicious prosecution. Here, military police stand guard over arrested demonstrators on the practice field near RFK Stadium May 4, 1971.

Sadat, King Faisal Air Crisis, Relations

By UPI

An Israeli patrol Saturday killed three Arab guerrillas who cut through the security fence along the Lebanese frontier in the first infiltration mission to be intercepted in three weeks.

Three other suspected guerrillas were killed by Lebanese troops in self-defense at a roadblock in southern Lebanon.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat flew to the southern winter resort of Aswan for weekend talks with Saudi Arabia's King Faisal on the Middle East crisis and inter-Arab relations. Faisal was scheduled to arrive at Aswan at noon today from Amman where he is currently visiting with Jordan's King Hussein.

The army command in Tel Aviv said two Israeli border policemen were wounded in the clash with the guerrillas which occurred after midnight, one mile west of the cooperative farm of Zarit.

The guerrillas tossed grenades at the first border patrol they encountered but were cut down by a second unit summoned as reinforcements, the command said. The infiltrators carried personal weapons, Soviet-made RPG bazookas and explosive charges.

Israeli military sources said a check of the terrain indicated that a fourth guerrilla was wounded and managed to escape back across the frontier.

A Palestinian guerrilla spokesman in Beirut confirmed the loss of the three men and a fourth wounded. But he said that three guerrilla units in a two-hour battle destroyed two Israeli tanks, knocked out a third and inflicted heavy casualties on the Israelis.

The Lebanese defense ministry said its troops killed three armed men at a roadblock near the village of Bint Jabail, two and a half miles north of the Israeli border. Villagers said the dead men were Palestinian guerrillas but this was not confirmed by either Lebanese or Palestinian spokesmen. The ministry said the men opened fire from their car and the Lebanese troops killed them in self-defense.

Lebanon reported a halt in Israel's six-day artillery pounding of its southern Arkoub region and United Nations observers took a look at the battered villages. Israeli jets flew reconnaissance over southern Lebanon as far as Beirut.

A British Pledge if IRA Ends Violence

BELFAST (UPI) — Britain has pledged to release all its political prisoners in Northern Ireland if the outlawed Irish Republican Army ends its campaign of violence, a political leader said Saturday.

The announcement came after government officials agreed to meet with officers of Sinn Fein, the IRA's political wing, to try to head off a renewal of the bomb-and-bullet campaign to drive the British out of Ulster.

Gerry Fitt, head of the Social Democratic and Labor party, said he was authorized by Northern Ireland Secretary Merlyn Rees to disclose that "if there is a sustained cease-fire the gates of Long Kesh prison will be opened and internees freed and not in batches of five or fifties."

The pledge appeared to meet one of the key IRA conditions for resuming a 25-day cease-fire that was called off Friday.

The other demands were withdrawal of British troops to barracks and the central issue — a British declaration of intent to leave Northern Ireland.

Britain currently holds some 500 men without trial, most of them in Long Kesh, near Belfast.

The overwhelming majority are IRA suspects but there also are a number of loyalist extremists — members of the majority Protestant community that wants to remain under the British crown.

Two Sinn Fein negotiators Saturday left Dublin for the Northern Ireland border to confer with Rees' aides in the first official contacts between the British government and the IRA.

The meeting was set up by a group of four Protestant clergymen who acted as intermediaries in arranging the IRA's Christmas truce, which started Dec. 22.

A spokesman for the mediators said he was confident the meeting could produce an open-ended cease-fire.

The IRA has held off from launching a fullscale resumption of its bombing and shooting campaign in hopes of progress towards an agreement with Britain.

Failing that, it has threatened to unleash a new wave of violence across Northern Ireland and blast "soft targets" in Britain next week.

Such violence has claimed 1,143 lives in Northern Ireland since August, 1969, and a further 52 persons have died since the IRA moved its bomb attacks to Britain.

A Church Plea for Hungry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Task Force on World Hunger of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. has asked President Ford to commit 4 million tons of food aid for hunger stricken nations.

The proposal was made public in an "open letter," in which the Task Force said the President should make two million tons available immediately and the rest in the spring.

"There must be a commitment from every segment of our society — public and private, government, economic, humanitarian — to focus resources upon both meeting the immediate critical need and working for longer solutions," the letter said.

At the same time, Catholic officials indicated over the weekend that contact had been made with the White House over an unprecedented request by the U.S. Catholic hierarchy for a meeting with Ford on the food issue.

The officials said the White House had expressed interest in a meeting with representatives of the bishops but no specific time or agenda was set.

On Dec. 9, Bishop James S. Rausch, general secretary of the United States Catholic Conference, wrote Ford seeking a meeting and urging him to incorporate some of their proposed food policies in his State of the Union message. Ford did not deal with the problem in his message, delivered Jan. 15.

"No segment should either shirk its role or presume upon the responsibility which belongs to another," the Presbyterian letter said.

The private relief agencies, it added, "cannot be considered a substitute for the principal effort which must be made on a government basis."

The Task Force mentioned the distribution of food, agricultural development and long-range solutions as specific efforts which churches are equipped to undertake and in which they are already heavily involved.

The letter urged Ford to provide "the kind of dynamic leadership in this critical time which will call forth the very best in the tradition and the character of the American people."

Cambodia to Ask Airlift Help

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Authoritative sources said Cambodia will ask the United States to launch an emergency airlift within the next few days unless control of the vital Mekong River supply route is wrested from Communist-led rebels.

In Saigon, the South Vietnamese government pleaded for the United States and other nations to press the Communists to end their drive that has grabbed large chunks of territory previously under government control.

The capital, choked by a rebel offensive, is already running out of food and fuel — gas rationing has been imposed — and an American airlift has so far concentrated on flying ammunition and other war material to Phnom Penh and besieged Neak Luong on the banks of the Mekong.

The Mekong life-line has been closed to convoys from South Vietnam since it was cut by the Cambodian rebels New Year's Eve.

Convoys with desperately needed supplies have been turned back at the South Vietnam-Cambodia frontier as a result of heavy fighting around Neak Luong, a strategic base 35 miles south-east of Phnom Penh.

The sources said the Phnom Penh government wants American C47 twin-prop aircraft to fly emergency help to the country.

U.S. C130 Hercules transports, piloted by civilians, have been making about 10 flights a day into Phnom Penh and airdropping supplies.

plies to Neak Luong. The planes are from American bases in Thailand.

The sources said that three weeks ago supplies in the capital were down to a four-week level.

In South Vietnam, the ministry of foreign affairs appealed to the United States, 11 other countries and the United Nations to urge the Communists to negotiate a settlement of the war.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Eight members of one family, ranging from one year old to the early 20s, died early Saturday when fire consumed their three-story brick row house.

Three other persons, all elderly men, died when their frame home burned in rural Harford County, about 50 miles north near the Pennsylvania boundary.

Baltimore firemen said three persons escaped from the burning row home. They were identified as Mrs. Rosalee Goins, 50, listed as the next of kin of all the victims, a 19-year-old daughter and an unidentified man about 20.

One Baltimore fireman said the victims ranged in age from one year to the early 20s and at least five of them were children. But the bodies were so badly burned that the coroner's office would only confirm that "a couple of them are children."

Firemen, hinting at arson, said they saw flames shooting

10 feet out the ground floor windows when they arrived on the scene. They said that indicated "either it had been burning for a long time without being discovered... or there was an accelerant used."

'My Show Is Dedicated to the Child in Us All,' Says Steve Gottlieb

"I've always enjoyed movement," says 24-year-old Steve Gottlieb of High Woods. "Working with marionettes allows me to put movement and my artistic inclinations together." Steve directs, produces, writes and performs his one-man show.

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA
Tempo Editor

Steve Gottlieb is a one-man show who plays to an audience just like any other stage performer. But, unlike the pop singer, the rock musician, or the Broadway leading man, he never sees his audiences or views their reactions.

"It's nice to get that reaction afterwards through their comments," he says, "since I never see myself up front. Even practicing in a mirror doesn't duplicate the actual performance. I simply have to rely on my own checks and balance since I can't take a clue from audience reaction."

Still only a youthful 24, Steve Gottlieb is very much a renaissance man. The local Pied Piper of puppeteering, he is concentrating all his efforts these days on the ancient art of marionette theatre.

"And ancient it is," says Steve. "Marionettes were found in the pyramids in Egypt; were used in the Middle Ages to spread the religious word among the peasants; were popular everywhere in the 1920s and 1930s. But as an art it has been neglected in the United States since movies and television took over."

Steve credits his father, a mechanic who made toys and had a strong feeling for kinetic art, with fostering his desire to make puppeteering his profession. "I've always been around work benches," he says, "and I've always enjoyed movement. Working with marionettes allows me to put movement and my artistic inclinations together. I also love kids and enjoy the chance to give them something to laugh at; to keep them amused."

Steve also feels he is using his talent for teaching through the theater. "The stories I use have a message of sharing and helping one another," he says. He admits with wry chagrin, however, that he often finds kids unfortunately looking for that violent element they are used to from television. "They laugh, for example," he says, "when a puppet falls down, because they associate violence with humor. I'd rather see the theatre delight them. I'd rather see them amused and engrossed by the theatre, as they get away from the reality of life."

Gottlieb, who came to Ulster County from New York City five years ago and now lives in High Woods, never studied puppetry in school and is therefore never bound by conventions. He learned from books, however, and did a lot of hand control study. "Most of the books on marionette theatre are totally outdated in this age of the taping system, anyhow," he says, "but the hand control study has paid off in my ability to operate three puppets at once."

Since Steve enjoys directing, writing, producing and performing — the puppetry enables him to perform all these functions, at the same time. Still, every facet is "so complex," he says. It is necessary to have technical knowledge in taping in order to tape different voices for each puppet character; expert knowledge in sewing and tailoring for the costuming. One also has to be a writer; has to transpose plays into marionette theatre since puppets do have certain limitations as performers. They cannot, for example, pick up things — but the illusion must be given that they can.

What all this has meant in Steve Gottlieb's case is a one-man project, as he put together his marionette theatre and its show. When costume problems surfaced because he didn't know how to sew, he bought a sewing machine and, after breaking the bobbin several times, taught himself to make curtains, costumes, draperies, and everything else needed.

He shopped for props in toy stores and thrift shops; used recycled materials whenever possible for stages and performers. Each puppet figure took a week or more to make as Gottlieb, who thinks of himself as very precise and able to operate best under a deadline, created his cast of characters from bits of wood and a paper-towels-and-glue-combination he finds better for his purposes than the usual papier-mache.

The final script writing pulled everything together and, after six months of work and testing his material on his roommate and the neighborhood children, Steve was ready to do what he wanted to do for a living.

The eventual goal is to establish a permanent marionette theatre in this area since there are few such theatres in America. In the meantime, he's giving shows in local schools, for both children's parties and adult parties, and did several weekends of children's marionette theatre for the Mammoth Mall Merchants Association during the recent holidays. This latter project was so successful that the Mall is now featuring Steve and his show each and every Saturday as a free attraction so parents can leave children while they shop.

Directing, producing, writing and performing — Steve Gottlieb does it all; admits to a fondness for all his puppets, from George, his first creation, to the sophisticated three-piece band of drummer, guitarist and piano man whose hands and heads all operate off one control.

Suggests Steve: "Each puppet has its own personality. They are weighted differently and they move differently. Some I work with easily because they move easily, sometimes almost getting away from me. And there is an inertia energy in a puppet that comes from the swing and counter-swing that I am not controlling."

Judging from audience reaction locally, Steve Gottlieb is doing well in his solo venture at his centuries-old job. And though the message may sometimes be mod, the tale is always traditional, a human and humorous happening set in one of the most ancient of theatre art forms.

Two stages operating simultaneously keep audience at Mammoth Mall marionette theatre intrigued. Before this play is over, the greedy, harridan housewife heroine will find a sausage growing on the end of her nose.

Alvin Ailey Dancers at Mount Saint Mary Wednesday

The renowned Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Theater will perform at Mount Saint Mary College in Newburgh on Wednesday, Jan. 22 at 7:30 p.m. in Aquinas Hall Theater.

Tickets costing $6.75 for adults and $5.75 for children may be reserved by calling the College Cultural Centre, (914) 561-5690.

The multi-racial, multi-style company of 26 young dancers will perform five numbers choreographed by Alvin Ailey and other noted dance masters. Highlighting the program is "Cry," the ensemble's best-known work, which New York Times critic Clive Barnes termed "Mr. Ailey's tribute to the agonies and survivals, joys and determinations of the black woman." The piece, originally danced by Judith Jamison, featured music by Alice Coltraine, Laura Nyro and the Voices of East Harlem.

The Ailey troupe will also perform "Fanga," a joyous work based on the West African dance of greeting, and "Dance for Six," which incorporates Vivaldi concertos.

Dance routines scheduled for the group's Mount Saint Mary College appearance reflect the combination of modern, jazz and classical ballet movements which has become an Ailey trademark.

Created in 1958, the Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Theater has earned international recognition and rave reviews from dance and drama critics. They were the first American modern dance company to tour the Soviet Union. In 1970, the troupe earned the gold medal at the International Festival of Dance in Paris.

Choreographer Alvin Ailey studied modern dance with Martha Graham, Charles Weidmann and others. He has created ballets for other internationally known companies, including the American Ballet Theater and the Joffrey Ballet. Mr. Ailey has received honorary Doctor of Fine Arts degrees from Princeton University and Cedar Crest College.

The Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Theater is the second production of the Mount Saint Mary College 1974-75 Cultural Centre season. Upcoming performances include ragtime piano master Joshua Rifkin (Feb. 12), mezzo-soprano Frederica Von Stade (April 12) and the Lerner-Loewe musical "Camelot," (March 14-16.)

Dudley Williams executes a flying leap (TOP) in a dance ballet number to be performed by the renowned Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Theater at Newburgh's Mount Saint Mary College this week; entire ensemble performs "Cry," Ailey's tribute to the black woman (CENTER); member of multi-racial, multi-style company (BOTTOM) reflects the troupe's excellence in combining modern, jazz and classical ballet movements.

Solo Piano Recital

The Music Department of State University College at New Paltz will present Thomas Mastroianni, pianist, in recital in McKenna Theatre this afternoon, Sunday, Jan. 19 at 2:30. The program is free of charge and open to the general public. Works to be performed include: Jeux d'eau and Le Tombeau de Couperin by Ravel; Sonata in G Major, Op. 78 by Schubert; and Three Intermezzi, Op. 117 by Brahms.

Thomas Owen Mastroianni is well known for his solo recitals and appearances with symphony orchestras in the United States, Mexico, and Europe. He holds undergraduate and graduate degrees from the Juilliard School of Music and the performance doctorate from Indiana University. At Juilliard he was a scholarship student of Beveridge Webster; at Indiana University, he worked under Sydney Foster and Bela Nagy.

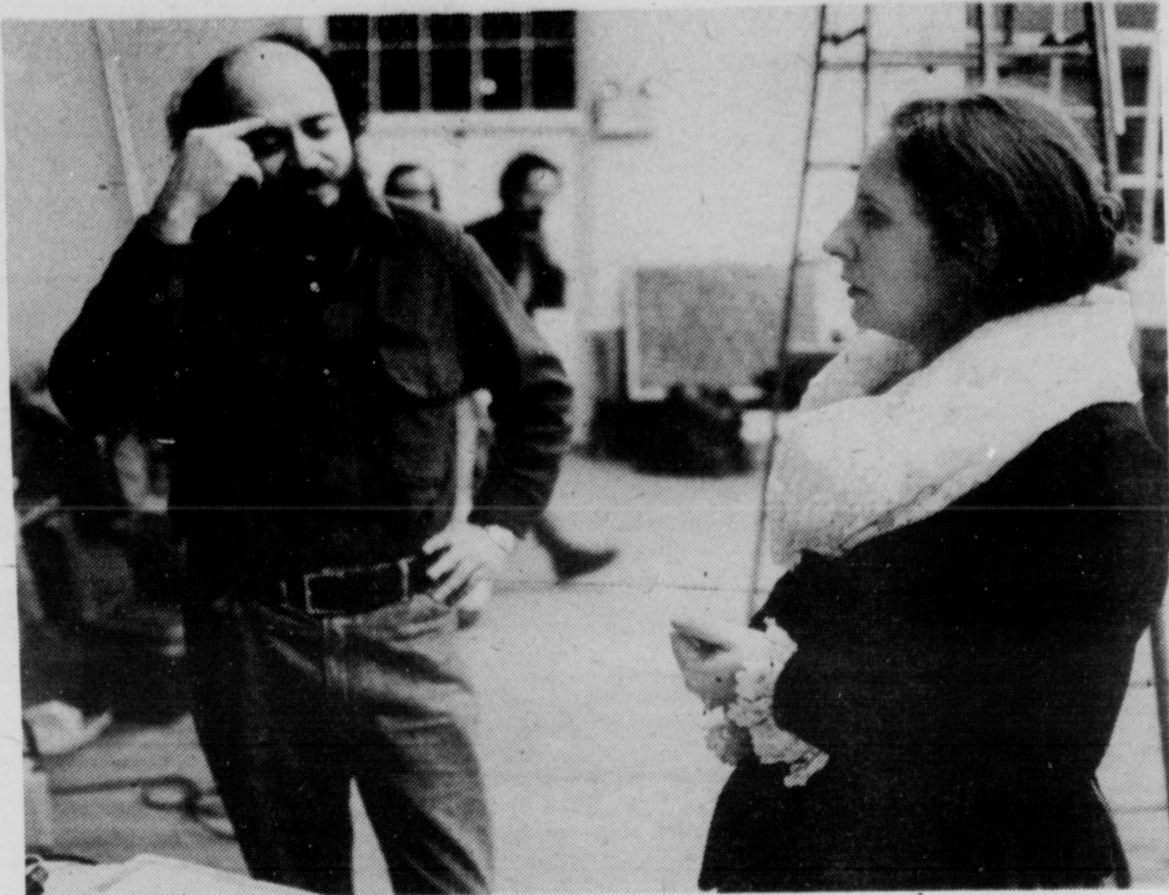

Mastroianni was professor and Chairman of Applied Music at Texas Tech University before becoming Dean of the School of Music at the Catholic University of America. Since his arrival in Washington, he has appeared in recital at the Textile Museum and the Pan American Union, and recently gave a lecture-recital for the American Liszt Society. He has also performed numerous concerts and recitals at the School of Music and on other campuses in the East. He will appear at the National Gallery in Washington, D.C. in February.

The music department at New Paltz College will also present Anne Cotton, soprano, and Harry Jensen, piano, in a program of songs Tuesday, Jan. 21. The starting time is 8 p.m. in McKenna Theatre.

Mrs. Cotton is a longtime resident of New Paltz and a well-known singer in this area. The program will consist of a group of Italian songs, Strauss lieder, Poulenc's cycle — "La courte paille" and a group of American art songs.

Admission is free and the public is invited.

Paul Cooper, director of the Performing Arts of Woodstock's current production of Hendrik Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler," goes over lines with actress Julia Callahan, who plays the title role in the play. Cooper has worked with Eva Le Gallienne, Ibsen translator and the actress responsible for establishing the playwright in the American theater.

The Jim Atlee Group Returns to Espresso

With enthusiasm and sincerity, fans of the Jim Atlee Group will tell anyone who will listen that this ensemble surpasses every rock group in the Mid-Hudson area. Atlee followers point out that their sound is original and throbbing with vitality. And that the talents of the musicians are displayed by their versatility ... each member of the group is adept on two or more instruments.

The word used to describe the most definitive category for their sound is, perhaps, jazz-rock. The numbers that have been composed by the Jim Atlee Group run the gamut from "fast funk" to "mellow mood music," and all their sounds are easily distinguished by marks of intimacy between the artists and their creations.

Anyone who has experienced the music of the Jim Atlee Group has been particularly moved by the tune "Carousel," a number that transports listeners on a merry-go-round of sound. Its circular motions grows in musical and emotional intensity to a vigorous climax. The number supposedly conveys a special message for a close friend; is one of many of their songs of dedication to which any listener will relate.

The prevailing intimacy of their music is encouraged by the unity and personal touch of the musicians. Each number bears the mark of the creative style of the individual performer. Lead guitarist Guy Walker plays "his" interpretation of a song. Percussionist James McGown turns what may have been a simple funk rhythm into a complex solo accompaniment. Bass guitarist Philip Platten plays his Fender as though it were a lead guitar...and pianist Jim Atlee improvises as though improvising were a sixth sense.

The Jim Atlee Group will doubtless be playing big money concerts in the not too distant future ... but you can see them for a pittance Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 24, 25 and 26 at the Cafe Espresso on Woodstock's Tinker Street.

Roosevelt-Vanderbilt Sites Still Popular

Tours by visitors to Roosevelt-Vanderbilt National Historic Sites in the Hyde Park and Poughkeepsie areas continue to bounce upward. In a year-end report for 1974, the National Park Service said there had been a gradual increase in number of visitors this past summer and fall.

In the first eight months of 1974, despite gasoline shortages in the early months of the year, combined visitation for the two mansions was 364,633—and the months of July and August both showed a 1.2 per cent increase over 1973.

For the two-month period of July-August, some 200,264 persons visited the sites, accounting for the heaviest visitation to date, compared to 197,900 for the same months in 1973.

Roosevelt Historic Site in Hyde Park commemorates the birthplace of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Vanderbilt Mansion Historic Site, home of Frederick W. Vanderbilt and often described as a three-story American "royal palace," is of Italian Renaissance architecture and has become known as a symbol of America's Gilded Age. It is located six miles north of Poughkeepsie.

Ibsen's Timeless Classic

In red-haired Julia Callahan, PAW has found an impassioned Hedda. She has appeared in leading roles in many of the group's plays; won Best Actress award in the New York State Theater Festival Competition for her role in PAW's production of "Under Milk Wood."

John LeFever, who has acted in many PAW productions, has the role of George Tesman in "Hedda Gabler;" is seen here in a scene from the play with Edith LeFever, portraying Miss Juliana Tesman. Upcoming performances of the Ibsen classic at the Woodstock Town Hall will take place tonight, Sunday, Jan. 24, 25, 26, 31 and Feb. 1 and 2 with curtain at 8 p.m. every night. ## HARRY O.

David Janssen stars in "Harry O," the crime drama seen on ABC-TV's Channel 7 Thursdays at 10 p.m. He plays an ex-cop turned private eye.

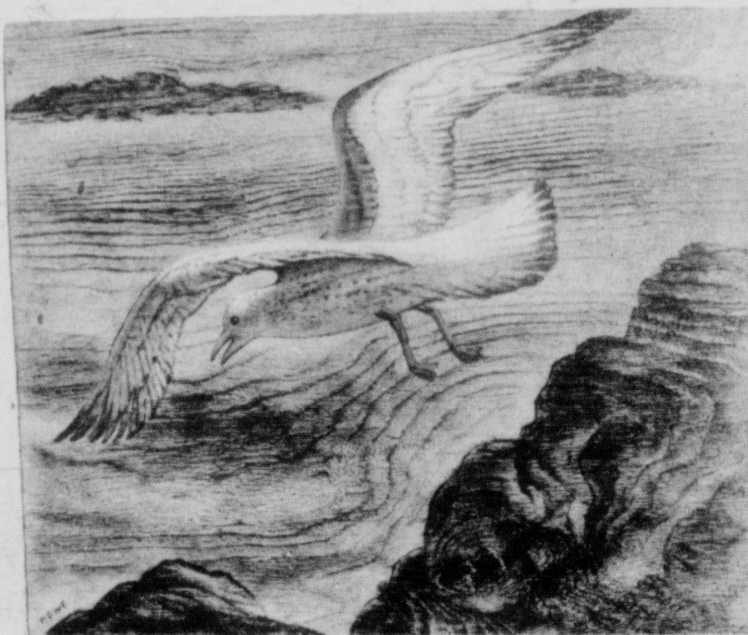

Woodstock artist Gurdon Howe with "Water Pump," one of the realistic watercolors in his one-man show now on exhibit through January at the Town of Ulster Library. Howe, who studied art and architecture at Harvard and in Rome, is represented in the Smithsonian Institute among other museums and collections.

An Interest in the Visual

Painting on driftwood, Howe created this "Sea Gull." Howe prefers painting realistic subjects; says his intense interest is in the visual world that lies about us, outside of ourselves . . . not in that inner world of moods and emotions about life.

The Howe exhibit at Ulster Library includes examples of his unique sculpture work as well as paintings and watercolors. One sculpture on view is an owl, another is this copper rooster.

The Concord String Quartet will come from Dartmouth College today to present a chamber music program in Kingston.

Outstanding Groups For Chamber Series

The Hudson Valley Philharmonic is once again bringing good chamber music to the Kingston area during the winter months.

Again this season music lovers will have an opportunity to hear three outstanding groups of Chamber Music Players performing on Sunday afternoons at 3 o'clock at Holy Cross Church here in Kingston.

The first concert will be performed today, Sunday, Jan. 19 and will feature the Concord String Quartet. These energetic and talented young men are presently the Quartet in Residence at Dartmouth College and are able to perform locally during their winter holidays.

The second concert in the series will be offered Feb. 2 and will feature the Monteux Quartet. Musicians include Claude and Marianne Monteux, flutes; Kenneth Fricker, bass; and Sylvia Suzowsky, harpsichord. Since this is the last year Claude Monteux will be conducting the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra, the Feb. 2 concert might well be the only opportunity local audiences will have to hear his Quartet in this area.

Final concert is set for Feb. 16; will be a delightful program of works by Milhaud, Schubert, Bartok and others performed by soprano Berenice Bramson, violinist Edward Simons, clarinetist Paul Gallo, and pianist Miles Fusco.

Tickets will be available at the door each Sunday and all who attend are invited to the receptions for the artists held in the parish hall of Holy Cross Church after the concerts.

Sullivan County's Winter Carnivals

Two spectacular Winter Carnivals will highlight the snow season in the Sullivan County Catskills.

The first, today, Jan. 19, is the Fallsburg Snow Festival, at Big Vanilla at Davos, to benefit the Association for Retarded Children. Then, on Feb. 8 and 9, the fun and games on the slopes moves to Holiday Mountain.

Kicking off the chain of festivities today at Big Vanilla will be spectator day, as the professionals take over the slopes. Slalom races, ski jumping and a trick skiing exhibition by Suzi Chaffee will highlight the day's activities. For comic relief, members of the Jets, the Mets and the football Giants will participate in a Celebrity Broom Ball Game.

Holiday Mountain, a municipal facility near Monticello, begins its festival Friday night, Feb. 7, with a torchlight costumed parade down the slopes, one of the most colorful sights a visitor might see in the Catskill this season.

Features of the Saturday afternoon program are a ski-kite flying exhibition, and a hot dog demonstration by the popular Salomon team. At night there will be a series of contests and races, with a fireworks display.

On Sunday, Feb. 9, the program includes obstacle course races, and the hilarious Beer Race, which requires skiers to finish a yard-long glass of beer between the starting line and the tape at the bottom of the slope.

It's Winter Carnival time in the Sullivan County Catskills, close-to-home skiing at its best.

'The Ascent of Man' a TV Credit Course

Tempo readers can still register for "The Ascent of Man," a television correspondence course that surveys intellectual history, focusing particularly on the emergence of science as a human activity in each age. The course began Jan. 7 and concludes April 5, but registration is continuing through Jan. 20.

Ulster County residents will find application forms available at Kingston Area Library, where text and supportive materials are on reserve for those wishing to use them at the Library. Dutchess County residents can register at Poughkeepsie's Marist College.

"The Ascent of Man" is a series of 13 films prepared and narrated by the late Dr. Jacob Bronowski, renowned scientist, mathematician and poet, showing the history of man through his scientific achievements. Dr. Bronowski, who died last summer, devoted the last years of his life to this project, which took 3½ years of preparations and filming and cost more than $4 million. Shown nationally by the Public Broadcasting Service stations, it can be seen in this area on Channels 13 and 17 on Tuesdays at 8:30 p.m. All programs are repeated on the following weekend.

The series follows in the tradition of two earlier TV productions, "Civilization" with Kenneth Clarke and "America" with Alistair Cooke; offers Dr. Bronowski's view of history through man's scientific achievements. It covers two million years of development, from man's first use of a simple tool to today's complex machinery and energy sources. But more than just a cut and dried series of talks on science, it relates that subject to the effect it has on man.

"The Ascent of Man" is an undergraduate college-level course with concerned emphasis on cultural evolution; is being offered for credit by Empire State College. Three credits will be awarded to those who successfully complete the program. There is a tuition charge and Bronowski's book and an anthology are available for purchase for those who prefer owning them to using them at the library here in Kingston or on the Marist campus. Mid-term and final exams will be given.

For further information, call Kingston Area Library, 331-0507, or the Office of Continuing Education at Marist, 471-3240, ext. 221.

Pioneering Sci-Fi

One of the high points of German Expressionist Cinema — stylized futuristic set design combined with prophetic vision — Fritz Lang's METROPOLIS is a 1926 film of fantasy set in a city of the future in which the rich oligarchs live above ground while the poor live subterranean lives, caring for the machines which support the city. Because of its visual and narrative power, Hitler and Goebbels asked Lang to make films for the Nazis. Lang, now considered among the finest of early directors, emigrated immediately. You can see this brilliant pioneering sci-fi film at Rhinebeck's Upstate Films from Jan. 22 to 26. Showings are 8 p.m. Wed., Thurs., Fri., Sun., and 8 and 10 p.m. Saturday.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

A few weeks back columnist Jim Bishop wrote that he'd received the food-ad page from a newspaper dated April 1, 1938. The same thing just happened to us. Only we got the WHOLE issue. Date: Dec. 7, 1897.

As Bishop would say: Share our shock!

Alex Sturgeon and Co. at 334 Wall St., Kingston, was offering a special hosiery sale. Regular price was 10¢; the special cost 6¢. At Mortimer C. Drakes, $8.88 fur capes were being offered for $6.88. And Weil's at 20 Broadway was selling ladies coats for $2.75 to $12. In addition:

E. Winter Music Store, Kingston. Secondhand organs and pianos from $10.

Sam Bernstein and Co., corner Wall and N. Front Sts., a FREE fedora or derby with the purchase of a man's suit or overcoat costing more than $5.18.

Weber and Co., 50 Broadway. Shoes repaired while you wait.

Derrenbacher's, 9 E. Strand. Special presents given with the purchase of one pound of tea, two pounds of coffee, or one pound of baking powder.

Sampson Brothers, Rondout. $10 overcoats. Ad explained: "Always 30 per cent under others. We didn't establish our own manufacturing plant for fun."

Broncho Remedies (at local drug stores) 10¢. "For every ill, a special pill."

S. Stern, optician, 28 E. Strand. Examinations FREE.

Rightmyer's Restaurant, 316 Wall St. Dinner 25¢.

Kingston Clothing Manufactory, 54-58 Hasbrouck Ave. Instead of stamps, coupons or tickets, we will give a Gold Dollar to every purchaser of a suit of clothes or overcoat from us between now and Christmas. (Today they'd be right in style . . . with their gold dollars, that is.)

M. B. Myers, Real Estate and Auctioneer, 57 Broadway. Building lots from $1 upward.

Snug little house on Tremper Avenue, $1800.

McBride, Pharmacist, 634 Broadway near O'Neil St. Hot water bottles from 75¢ to $1.50.

Wonderland Musee, Union St. near Broadway. Vaudeville. Admission 10¢. Reserved seats 20¢.

VanGaasbeek and Heard's City Hall Grocery. Like a Church, our services are free.

Broadhead and VanWagenen, 18 E. Strand. "We are so crowded on every pleasant afternoon that it is impossible for us to do full justice to our patrons. Therefore, permit us to suggest that you will do well for yourselves (and help us, too) if you can see your way clear to visit us in the morning before the GREAT RUSH."

(Seems this issue of the Kingston Daily Freeman was discovered in a trunk by Mrs. Charles (Helen) Hemmler, former proprietor of the Cardinal Inn in Port Ewen, as she was preparing to move to New Jersey. All we can say is, after comparing prices in 1897 with costs today, the President's WIN pin should stand for . . . "WE IN NEED!")

Hitchcock Scare Piece From Pinter Workshop

The Harold Pinter Workshop at State University College, New Paltz, presents THE BIRTHDAY PARTY, Pinter's first full length play, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 24, 25, and 26 at 8:30 p.m. in McKenna

Theatre on the college campus.

THE BIRTHDAY PARTY is a thriller — a Hitchcock scare piece from which the central object which supplies the meaning is removed. The play's central figure (Stanley) has done something terrible. We do not know what it is or why the two foreboding men (McCann and Goldberg) have come to get him. It is not clear from their discussions where they are going to take him. We do know that Stanley does not play the piano anymore, that Meg is afraid of being taken away in a van, and that Goldberg and Lulu do something during the intermission that she considers perverse. Connect the dots any way you'd like — make your own picture.

Harold Pinter, one of English Theatre's most important and interesting contemporary playwrights, has been recognized and acclaimed by critics and audiences alike for his work in the "Theatre of the Absurd".

The Pinter Workshop was instituted at Paltz through a cooperative effort of the Department of Theatre Arts and the School of Innovative Studies. It was designed to give both theatre students and students from other departments (English, art communications, and others) experience in the intimate process of developing a theatrical production.

The cast includes Michael Balalucco, Brooklyn, as "Stanley"; Susan Yusen, Great Neck, L. I., as "Meg"; Ken Myles, West Babylon, L. I., as "Goldberg"; Michael Clinton, New Paltz, as "Petey"; Suzanne Grossberg, Miami, Florida as "Lulu"; and, Rob Ingraham, Staten Island, as "McCann". The play is directed by Frank Kraat of the Paltz Theatre Arts Department.

Marjorie Freund, of Gardiner, an artist who regularly exhibits her work at The Gallery in New Paltz, has a painting reproduced in the 1975 UNICEF calendar. The painting is of children at a party opening presents; the calendar's theme, "The Wonders of Childhood." Mrs. Freund's most recent one-woman show of oils and collages at The Gallery was on view last spring. ***

musical calendar in April will be a production of Leonard Bernstein's Mass in various Hudson Valley locations. Produced by Poughkeepsie Ballet Theater and the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, it will be performed April 19-

The Woodstock Playhouse has been researching the history of theatrecraft in the Woodstock area from the earliest traceable days. Material and anecdotes have been gathered into one volume to be published as a Playhouse yearbook and chronicle of theatrical activities on the Woodstock scene. Among the features of the yearbook which will be distributed in February: the Maverick Theatre and its Loft Players, Byrdcliffe Theatre and its Phoenix Players, early days of the Woodstock Playhouse, and a review of the 1974 season at the Playhouse. ***

The Hudson Valley Philharmonic is in need of volunteer archivists willing and able to help straighten out its burgeoning files of past programs, newspaper clippings, brochures, newsletters, and other materials. Those interested in contributing a few hours a week should call 454-1280. In other news from the Philharmonic, tickets have gone on sale for the Monteux Memorial Concert at Carnegie Hall on April 4. Museum Village of Smith's Clove has been holding a special Winter Education Program for school children. More than 1,400 youngsters in grades four, five and seven from 15 schools have been participating in the pilot project aimed at capitalizing on the Museum's ability to complement the schools' social studies curriculum. An innovative project, the new program was specifically constructed so as to develop the Museum's potential as a unique teaching resource in the Hudson River Valley area. Emphasis has been on how to read things made of wood, leather and metal, and what they can tell—and on workshops dealing with kitchen activities, textile crafts, and daily home chores of 19th century America. Methods and tools used then were discussed, and children participated in crafts demonstrations and sampled results. ***

Early announcements of some of the outstanding line-up of special events for 1975 have been made by the Saratoga Performing Arts Center. ## Making Friends and Being One Friendship is telling and keeping secrets.

How can you make friends?
The best way is to smile and speak and say a few words about something that you think would be of interest.

Friends are people just like you. They have feelings and like to be liked, too.

You can hold hands with a friend during a game or pick one for a partner.

You can think of something nice to say. You can tell them that you liked something that they wore or did or said. You can clap and cheer when they do something outstanding.

DEBNAM

Ask them questions about themselves. Finding out about friends is a very good way to keep them.

To find a friend, you have got to be one yourself ... so start looking and remember, there's someone looking for you, too!

A Personal Coat of Arms

DEBNAM

Write your name
at the bottom.

Back in the Middle Ages, knights used a coat of arms as a symbol. In this way, they could identify each other when they wore armor. Today, many people hang copies of their coat of arms in their home.

Why not make up your own personal coat of arms? Draw a bigger design like the one at the left. In each section, draw a picture of something that would identify you. For example, draw your pet, a hobby, a favorite food, book or toy.

Review: A Book About Friendship

"Rosie and Michael," written by Judith Viorst and illustrated by Lorna Tomei, published by Atheneum, 1974.

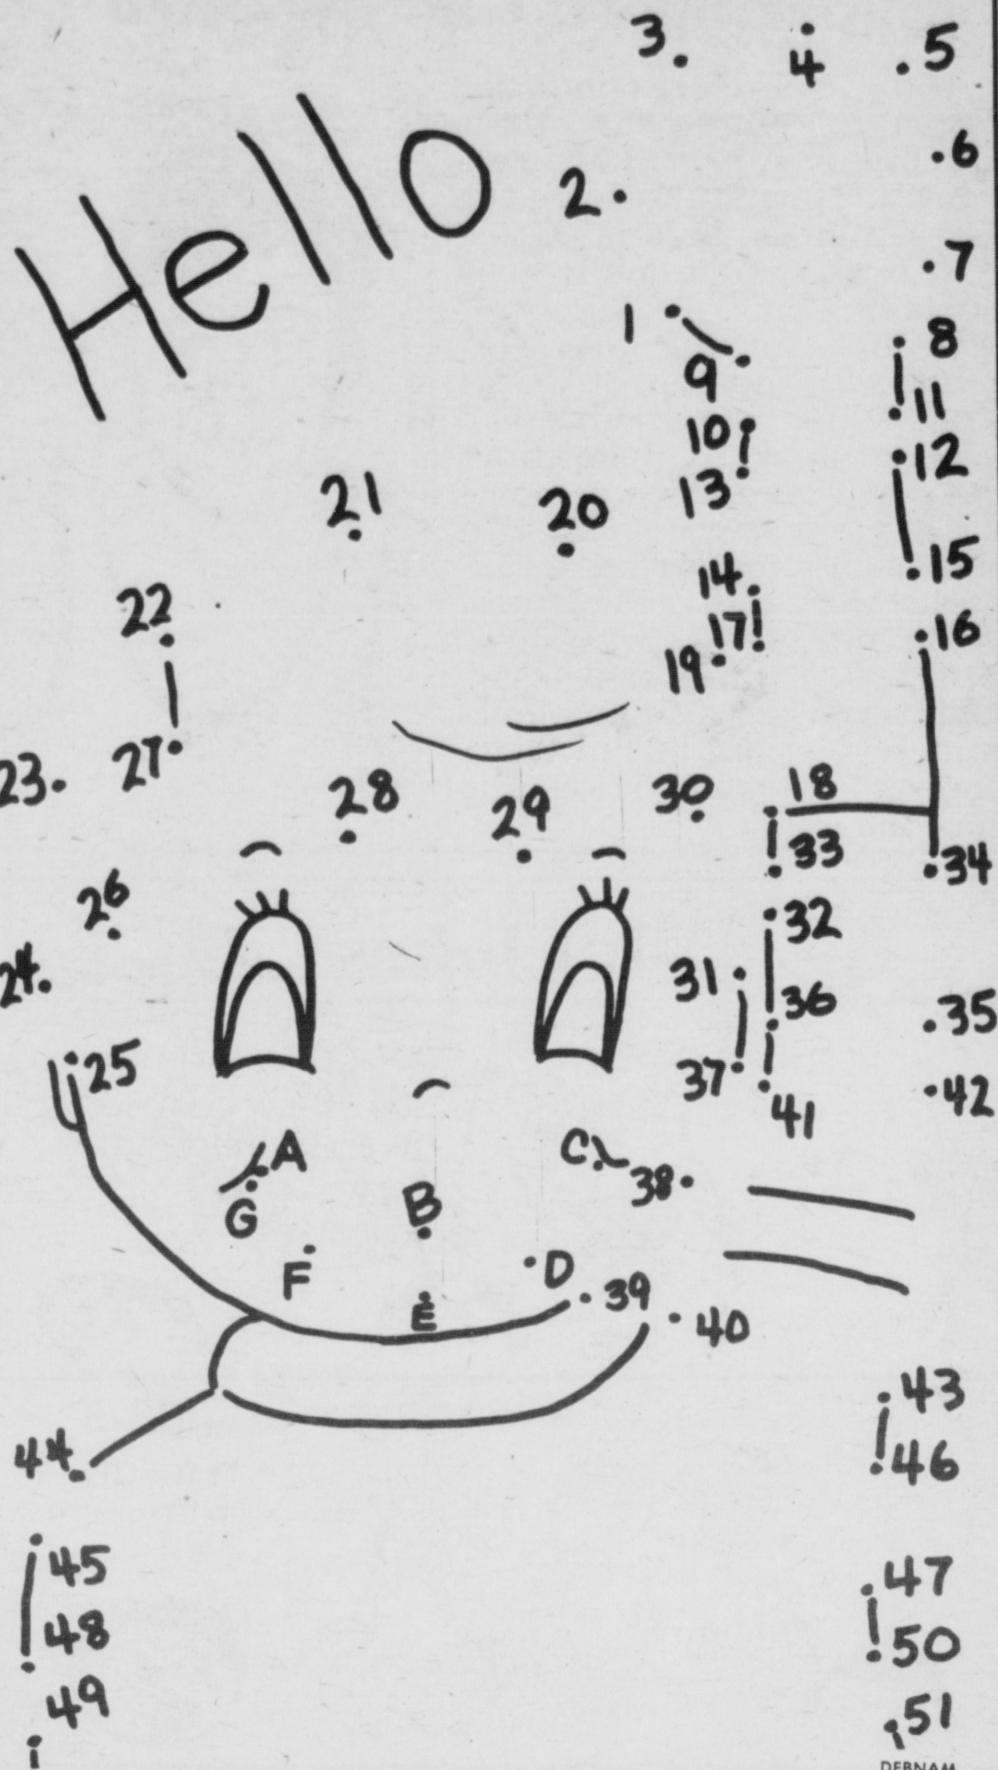

"Rosie and Michael" is a delightful book about friendship.

Rosie understands when Michael worries about pythons. Michael understands when Rosie worries about werewolves.

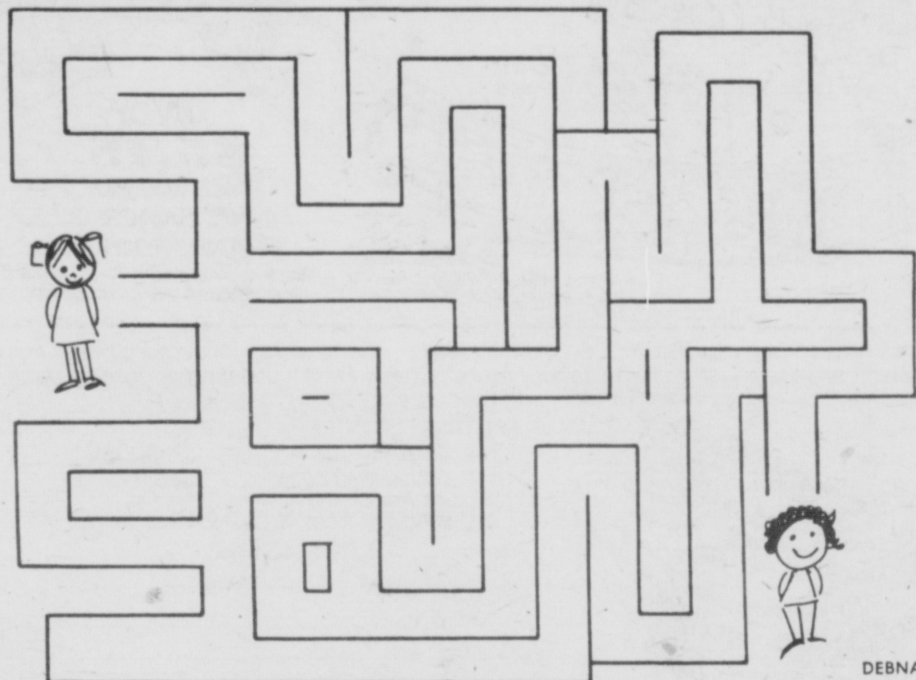

"When my parakeet died, I called Rosie," says Michael.

"When my dog ran away, I called Michael," says Rosie.

Judith Viorst has written many books for children. Her husband is also a writer. They have three sons. This is Lorna Tomei's first book. Her husband is also an artist.
